EXHIBIT 2

Home / Clinics and Field Placement Program / Clinical Education / Workers' Rights
BROWSE RELATED PAGES

YES

The Workers' Rights Clinic is taking new cases at this time.

The USD Workers' Right Clinic, operating in collaboration with Legal Aid at Work based out of San Francisco since 2017, provides free legal advice to low-income workers in San Diego County on a variety of employment law issues, including employee rights, unemployment benefits, and more. Through this partnership Clinic I & II law students refine their practical skills in employment and labor laws while continuing to serve the community. Unfortunately, the Workers' Rights Clinic cannot assist community members with legal issues not listed below.

WHAT DOES THE WORKERS' RIGHTS CLINIC DO?

- Employee rights
- Discrimination
- Medical leave
- Workplace safety
- Unpaid wages
- Unemployment benefits
- Harassment
- Wrongful termination

2026 Workers' Rights Clinic Award Winner

Christina Muraskas

Christina Muraskas received the Workers' Rights Clinic award from Professor Maria Tapia-Hernandez.

Working at the Workers' Rights Clinic as a Student

The Workers' Rights Clinic provides students the opportunity to assist lower-income workers with a variety of employment law issues including employee rights, discrimination, medical leave, workplace safety, unpaid wages, unemployment benefits, harassment and wrongful termination. The course includes instruction in labor and employment law, followed by on-site client interviews and advice. Interns, along with the supervising attorney, analyze the client's situation, identify legal issues, and determine what remedies the client might pursue. Students then discuss the findings with the client. Students may also have an opportunity to represent clients in Unemployment Insurance hearings in administrative court. The class sessions will feature guest speakers, including leading employment law attorneys. The Workers' Rights Clinic is available to new and continuing students during the fall and spring semesters.

Prerequisites

- None

Application Procedure