17 VISA INC., a Delaware Corporation, VISA
18 U.S.A. INC., a Delaware Corporation, and 19 CYBERSOURCE CORPORATION, a Delaware
Corporation,

20 Defendants.

Case No.: CGC-21-593058

FIRST AMENDED CLASS AND REPRESENTATIVE ACTION COMPLAINT FOR:

(1) Failure to Reimburse Business Expenses
(Labor Code § 2802);
(2) Failure to Issue Accurate Wage Statements
(Labor Code §§ 226(a)(8), (e)); and
(3) Civil Penalties Pursuant to Private Attorney
General Act (Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq.)

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

1 Plaintiff Cynthia Mayer (“Plaintiff”), on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated
2 individuals, and complains and alleges as follows:

3 OVERVIEW OF CLAIMS

4 1. This is a class action, under California Code of Civil Procedure § 382, seeking
5 reimbursement for business expenses, interest thereon, statutory penalties, and reasonable attorneys’ fees
6 and costs, under California Labor Code §§ 2802 and 226(a), (e).

7 2. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of herself and all other individuals employed by Visa
8 Inc., Visa U.S.A. Inc. and/ or CyberSource Corporation (Visa Inc., Visa U.S.A. Inc., and CyberSource 9 Corporation are collectively referred to as “Defendants”) in California who worked from home and 10 incurred business expenses as a result (“Class Members”) from March 4, 2020 to the earlier of the trial
11 date or as soon as Defendants permit Class Members to return to work from the office (“Class Period”).
12 Plaintiff and Class Members paid business expenses incurred by them in the course of their work for 13 Defendants as Class Members, for which they have not received full reimbursement from Defendant in 14 violation of Labor Code § 2802.

15 3. Plaintiff also brings this action on behalf of herself and all other individuals employed by 16 Defendants in California (“Wage Statement Class Members”) during the one year prior to the filing of 17 this action through to the trial date (“Wage Statement Class Period”). During the Wage Statement Class
18 Period, Visa Inc. and CyberSource Corporation issued wage statements that violated Labor Code §
19 226(a)(8) because the wage statements did not include the name and address of the legal entity that was 20 the employer. Such violation was knowing and intentional, as it was not a result of a clerical error, and 21 caused injury to the Wage Statement Class Members.

22 4. Plaintiff also brings this action as a representative action under the Labor Code Private 23 Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”), Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq., for civil penalties on behalf of herself
24 and all other individuals employed by Defendants in California and who were expected and/or required
25 to work from home (“Aggrieved Employees”) from July 9, 2020 through to the present (“PAGA Period”)
26 for Defendants’ alleged violation of Labor Code § 2802; and on behalf of herself and all individuals
27 employed by the Defendants during the PAGA Period (“Wage Statement Aggrieved Employees”) for 28 Defendants’ alleged violation of Labor Code § 226(a)(8).

i. CyberSource Corporation and Visa Inc. are Joint Employers

18. CyberSource Corporation's acquisition by Visa Inc. was completed on or about July 21, 2010. At the time, CyberSource corporation was an established industry leader in e Commerce payments and played a role in processing approximately 25% of all eCommerce dollars transacted in the United States. Acquisition of CyberSource allowed Visa Inc., inter alia, accelerate Visa's growth in the eCommerce category, drive international expansion of CyberSource's products and services, build on CyberSource's relationships with merchants.¹

20. In or about May 2019, Plaintiff received an offer letter of employment from Visa Global Talent Acquisition Team to join CyberSource in the role of Technical Product Analyst. The offer letter set out Plaintiff's compensation, including regular hourly rate, annual salary, and payroll schedule. The offer letter also provided that Plaintiff would be eligible to participate in "the Visa Inc. Incentive Plan (VIP)" with the bonus under the VIP program tied to Visa's performance and based on Visa's fiscal year. The letter also provided that Plaintiff was eligible to participate in benefits provided by Visa.

21. The offer letter also provided that in accepting employment with Visa Plaintiff "agree to be bound by and to comply fully with all Visa policies and procedures for employees." Moreover, the offer letter expressly stated throughout that Plaintiff was being offered employment with Visa Inc.: "effective upon your commencement of your employment with Visa", "upon accepting employment with Visa...", "[i]n accepting employment with Visa, you represent..." In the offer letter, Visa also retained the right to terminate Plaintiff's employment: "[y]our employment at Visa is on an at will basis, meaning that Visa will be free to terminate your employment at any time," and provided that the offer of employment and continued employment was subject to passing Visa's background checks.

1 22. Attached to the offer letter were: (1) Relocation Expense Agreement, (2) Notice of 2 Employee pursuant to Labor Code § 2810.5, and (3) a summary of Visa’s 2019 U.S. Benefits Program.
3 All documents, including the offer letter, bore the stylized “VISA” logo.

4 23. The Section 2810.5 Notice included with the offer letter identified “Visa Inc.” as the 5 employer, and, as required by section 2810.5, provided wage information. The Notice was signed by 6 Anupama Rao, Sr. Directors, HR Shared Services & Global Operations at Visa.

7 24. The Relocation Expense Agreement provided that “Visa, as part of its offer of 8 employment/transfer, has agreed to pay reasonable travel and relocation expenses subject to the 9 conditions set forth in Visa’s relocation policy.”

10 25. The Benefits Program summary included description of Visa’s medical, dental, and vision
11 coverage, 401K, HAS, Flex Spending Accounts, Disability, Time Off, and other benefits.

12 26. Plaintiff’s wage statements, during the time she was employed by CyberSource
13 Corporation and Visa Inc. listed CyberSource Corporation and a P.O. box address and immediately to 14 the left, a stylized “VISA” logo.

20 annualized compensation and stated that it would be payable “in line with Visa’s regular payroll
21 practices.” The offer letter also provided that Plaintiff was eligible for the Visa Incentive Plan (VIP)
22 bonus program, with the payout based on Plaintiff’s and Visa’s performance. Further, the offer letter
23 stated that Plaintiff was being offered “an exempt position at Visa.”

24 29. During the time Plaintiff was employed by Visa U.S.A. Inc. and Visa Inc. her wage
25 statement listed Visa USA Inc. and an Austin, Texas address and immediately to the left had a stylized 26 “VISA” logo.

1 B. Expense Reimbursement Claim

2 30. On or about March 4, 2020, as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and the state of 3 emergency declared in California on that date due to the pandemic, Defendants directed and required
4 majority of their California workforce, including Class Members, to work from home. Class Members
5 incurred expenses as a result of working from home, including but not limited to the expense of home
6 internet, phone service, printing supplies, office equipment, and electrical services (hereinafter “home
7 office expenses”). However, Defendants did not reimburse them for these expenses fully or at all.

8 31. Defendants’ expense-related policies and/or practices require, and/or with Defendants’
9 knowledge thereof permit, Class Members who are or were working from home to pay out of pocket for 10 business expenses incurred in direct consequence of discharging their job duties on behalf of Defendants, 11 without any or full reimbursement for such expenses.

12 32. Defendants are aware or should have been aware that Class Members regularly incurred
13 and continue to incur business expenses in the discharge of their duties, as employees, without any 14 reimbursement or reimbursement in full. Defendants are aware that Class Members on a regular basis
15 incur home offices expenses described above. Defendants nevertheless have, throughout the Class
16 Period, failed and refused to reimburse Plaintiff and Class Members for such business expenses incurred
17 by them in carrying out their job duties for Defendants.

18 33. Defendants have maintained policies of denying reimbursement in full of Plaintiff’s and 19 Class Members’ necessarily incurred business expenses, or substantially similar policies, throughout 20 California and throughout the Class Period.

21 34. Plaintiff and Class Members have been harmed by Defendants’ unlawful business
22 expense policies and/or practices in that they have not been paid for certain business expenses incurred
23 while employed by Defendants, thereby diminishing their agreed-upon compensation, in substantial 24 amounts to be proved at trial.

25 C. Wage Statement Claim

26 35. During the Wage Statement Class Period, Defendants were required under Labor Code §
27 226(a)(8) to furnish Wage Statement Class Members with wage statements, semimonthly or at the time
28 of each payment of wages, containing “the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer.”

1 36. However, Defendants failed to comply with Labor Code § 226(a)(8) by failing to include
2 on the wage statements issued to the Wage Statement Class Members the complete legal name of Visa
3 Inc. and the address of Visa Inc. As explained above, Class Members and Wage Statement Class
4 Members were jointly employed by Visa Inc. and Visa U.S.A. Inc. and/or by Visa Inc. and CyberSource
5 Corporation. Labor Code § 226 was amended in 2012 to impose an obligation on “every employer” to 6 provide wage statements with all of the information required by § 226(a). Accordingly, Visa Inc.’s legal 7 name and address should have been listed on Wage Statement Class Members’ wage statements.

8 37. Instead of listing Visa Inc.’s legal name and address, Visa Inc. included on the wage
9 statements issued to its employee a stylized “VISA” logo. The lack of a complete legal name is confusing
10 because there are dozens of entities that begin with the word “Visa” registered with the California
11 Secretary of State.

12 38. Additionally, Visa Inc. and CyberSource Corporation failed to list on the wage statements
13 of Wage Statement Class Members whom they jointly employed CyberSource Corporation’s physical 14 address, and instead, they listed a P.O. Box address in violation of Labor Code § 226(a)(8).

15 39. Defendants’ failure to list on the wage statements the name and address for every 16 employer was knowing and intentional and a result of its uniform practices, and not a result of a clerical 17 error.

18 40. As a result of the above, during the Wage Statement Class Period, Wage Statement Class 19 Members employed by Visa Inc. and Visa U.S.A. Inc., could not promptly and easily determine from 20 the wage statements alone, without reference to other documents or information, including wage
21 statements from previous pay periods, their employer Visa Inc.’s name and address. Wage Statement
22 Class Members employed by Visa Inc. and CyberSource Corporation, could not promptly and easily
23 determine from the wage statements alone, Visa Inc.’s name and address or CyberSource Corporation’s
24 address. As a result, Wage Statement Class Members suffered injury for the purposes of Labor Code § 25 226(e).

26 CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

27 41. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of herself and all others similarly situated as a class
28 action pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure § 382. The Classes that Plaintiff seeks to represent are

1 composed of and defined as (1) all persons who have been employed by Defendants in California at any
2 time during the Class Period who worked from home and incurred business expenses as a result, and (2)
3 all persons employed by any of the Defendants in California during the Wage Statement Class Period.
4 All such Class Members and Wage Statement Class Members were subject to Defendants' policy(ies)
5 and/or practice(s) of failing to fully reimburse employees' business expenses during the Class Period or 6 failing to issue compliant wage statements during the Wage Statement Class Period.

8 42. This action has been brought and may properly be maintained as a class action under 9 Code of Civil Procedure § 382 because there is a well-defined community of interest in the litigation,
10 the proposed class is easily ascertainable, and Plaintiff is a proper representative of each Class:

11 a. Numerosity: The potential members of each Class as defined are so numerous 12 and so diversely located throughout California, that joinder of all the members of the Class is 13 impracticable. While the precise number of Class Members has not been determined at this time,
14 Plaintiff is informed and believes that Defendants have at all times during the Class Period and the Wage
15 Statement Class Period employed more than 100 individuals in California subject to Defendants'
16 business expense reimbursement policies and/or wage statement policies. Due to employee turnover,
17 the number of Class Members is much larger than the number of individuals employed at any one time.
18 The Class Members are dispersed throughout California. Joinder of all members of each proposed class 19 is therefore not practicable.

20 b. Commonality: There are questions of law and fact common to the Plaintiff and 21 the Classes that predominate over any questions affecting only individual members of each Class. These 22 common questions of law and fact include, without limitation:

- 23 i. Whether Defendants jointly employed Plaintiff and Class Members;
24 ii. Whether Plaintiff and Class Members incurred unreimbursed business
25 expenses in the discharge of their duties as employees, included but not limited to expenses for home
26 internet, phone service, printing supplies, office equipment and electrical services.
27 iii. Whether Defendants adopted a uniform policy and/or practice of not 28 reimbursing Class Members for any of their necessarily incurred business expenses fully or at all, while

1 at the same time having actual and/or constructive knowledge that the members of the Class were 2 routinely incurring such business-related expenses;

3 iv. Whether Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and the 4 Class were routinely incurring business-related expenses;

5 v. Whether Defendants' actual and/or constructive knowledge that Plaintiff
6 and the Class were routinely incurring business-related expenses triggered an affirmative obligation by 7 Defendants under § 2802 of the Labor Code to reimburse Plaintiff and the Class for such expenses;

8 vi. Whether Defendants failed and/or refused to fully reimburse business
9 expenses incurred by Plaintiff and Class Members in the discharge of their duties.

10 vii. Whether Defendants' failure to reimburse business expenses incurred by 11 Plaintiff and Class Members, fully or at all, was the result of, and/or pursuant to, a business policy or 12 regular practice of Defendants.

13 viii. Whether Defendants violated Labor Code § 2802 by denying Plaintiff and 14 similarly situated Class Members reimbursement for their business expenses.

15 ix. Whether Defendant Visa Inc. violated Labor Code § 226(a)(8) by failing 16 to issue compliant wage statements to Plaintiff and Wage Statement Class Members that included the 17 complete name and address of Visa Inc.;

18 x. Whether Defendants Visa Inc. and CyberSource Corporation violated
19 Labor Code § 226(a)(8) by failing to issue compliant wage statements to Plaintiff and Wage Statement
20 Class Members that included the physical address of CyberSource Corporation;

21 xi. Whether Defendants' failure to issue compliant wage statements was 22 knowing and intentional;

23 xii. Whether Plaintiff and Wage Statement Class Members suffered injury for 24 the purposes of Labor Code § 226(e);

25 xiii. The proper formula(s) for calculating damages, interest, penalties, and 26 restitution owed to Plaintiff and the Class Members.

27 c. Typicality: Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of each Class. Both 28 Plaintiff, and Wage Statement Class Members sustained injuries and damages, and were deprived of property rightly belonging to them, arising out of and caused by Defendants' common course of conduct in violation of law as alleged herein, in similar ways and for the same types of expenses and injury.

d. Adequacy of Representation: Plaintiff is a member of each Class and will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of each Class. Plaintiff's interests do not conflict with those of Class Members. Counsel who represent Plaintiff are competent and experienced in litigating large wage and hour class actions, including expense reimbursement and wage statement class actions, and will devote sufficient time and resources to the case and otherwise adequately represent the Class.

e. Superiority of Class Action: A class action is superior to other available means for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy. Individual joinder of all Class Members is not practicable, and questions of law and fact common to the Class predominate over any questions affecting only individual members of the Class. Each Class Member has been damaged or may be damaged in the future by reason of Defendants' unlawful policies and/or practices of not fully reimbursing business expenses and/or not issuing compliant wage statements. Certification of this case as a class action will allow those similarly situated persons to litigate their claims in the manner that is most efficient and economical for the parties and the judicial system. Certifying this case as a class action is superior because it allows for efficient and full disgorgement of the ill-gotten gains Defendants have enjoyed by maintaining its unlawful business expense reimbursement policy and/or practice and its unlawful wage statement policy and/or practice, and will thereby effectuate California's strong public policy of protecting employees from hardship and deprivation or offsetting of compensation earned in their employment. If this action is not certified as a Class Action, it will be impossible as a practical matter for many or most Class Members to bring individual actions to recover monies unlawfully withheld from their lawful compensation due from Defendants, as well as penalties, due to the relatively small amounts of such individual recoveries relative to the costs and burdens of litigation.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
FAILURE TO REIMBURSE FOR BUSINESS EXPENSES
(LABOR CODE § 2802)

43. Plaintiff re-allege and incorporate by reference each and every allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

1 44. Labor Code § 2802 provides that “[a]n employer shall indemnify his or her employee for 2 all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of 3 his or her duties.”

4 45. In order to discharge their job duties for Defendants while working from home, Plaintiff
5 and Class Members employed in various positions were required and expected by Defendants to use
6 their own home internet, phone service, printing supplies, office equipment, and electrical services, as 7 described above. However, Defendants did not pay fully, or at all, for business expenses incurred by 8 Plaintiff and Class Members as described above.

9 46. Defendants’ failure to pay for or reimburse the home office expenses incurred by Plaintiff
10 and other Class Members violated non-waivable rights secured to Plaintiff and Class Members by Labor
11 Code § 2802. Plaintiff and Class Members are entitled to reimbursement for these necessary
12 expenditures, plus interest and attorneys’ fees and costs, under Labor Code § 2802.

13 47. As a result of Defendants’ violations of Labor Code § 2802, Defendants are also liable 14 for attorneys’ fees and costs under Labor Code § 2802(c).

15 48. Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and Class Members, requests relief as described below.

17 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
18 Failure to Issue Accurate Wage Statements
19 [Cal. Labor Code §§ 226(a)(8), (e)]

20 49. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in 21 the preceding paragraphs.

22 50. During the Wage Statement Class Period, Defendants failed to furnish Plaintiff and Wage
23 Statement Class Members employed by them during the Wage Statement Class Period with accurate
24 wage statements containing the name and address of each employer, in violation of Labor Code § 25 226(a)(8).

26 51. Defendant Visa Inc.’s failure to furnish accurate wage statements containing its name and 27 address to Plaintiff and Wage Statement Class Members was knowing and intentional.

28 52. Defendants CyberSource Corporation’s and Visa Inc.’s failure to furnish accurate wage statements to Plaintiff and Wage Statement Class Members containing the physical address of CyberSource Corporation was knowing and intentional.

53. Plaintiff and Wage Statement Class Members suffered injury as a result of Defendants' knowing and intentional failure to comply with Labor Code § 226(a)(8) for purposes of Labor Code § 226(e). As a result, Wage Statement Class Members are entitled to recover $50 for each initial pay period with a violation, and $100 for each subsequent pay period with a violation, up to an amount not exceeding an aggregate penalty of $4,000 for each Wage Statement Class Member, pursuant to Labor Code § 226(e).

54. Plaintiff, on behalf of herself and all other Wage Statement Class Members, requests relief as described below.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

Civil Penalties

[Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq.]

55. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

56. Plaintiff seeks PAGA penalties, and attorneys' fees and costs, on behalf of herself, Aggrieved Employees, and Wage Statement Aggrieved Employees, for the following violations:

Violation of Labor Code § 2802 on behalf of Aggrieved Employees

57. During the PAGA Period, Defendants required all non-essential employees, including Aggrieved Employees, to work from home. Aggrieved Employees all incurred home office expenses, including but not limited to home internet, phone service, printing supplies, office equipment, and electrical service (“home office expenses”) in order to carry out their job duties for Defendants from home. Defendants knew that their employees necessarily incurred out of pocket expenses in carrying out their work duties for Defendants. However, Defendants did not reimburse Aggrieved Employees for these expenses fully or at all in violation of § 2802 of the California Labor Code.

58. Pursuant to Labor Code § 2699(f)(2), Plaintiff and Aggrieved Employees are entitled to one hundred dollars ($100) per pay period for each initial violation and two hundred dollars ($200) per pay period for each subsequent violation.

1 Violation of Labor Code § 226(a)(8) on behalf of Wage Statement Aggrieved Employees

2 59. During the PAGA Period, Defendant Visa, Inc., failed to include on the wage statements
3 issued to the Wage Statement Aggrieved Employees its complete legal name and the address. Instead,
4 all that Defendant Visa Inc. included on the wage statements was stylized “VISA” logo.

5 60. During the PAGA Period Defendants Visa Inc. and CyberSource Corporation failed to 6 list on the wage statements of Wage Statement Aggrieved Employees (whom they jointly employed)
7 CyberSource Corporation’s physical address, and instead listed a P.O. Box address in violation of Labor
8 Code § 226(a)(8).

9 61. Pursuant to Labor Code § 226.3, Plaintiff and Wage Statement Aggrieved Employees are 10 entitled to $250 for each initial pay period with a violation and $1,000 for each subsequent pay period
11 with a violation

12 62. Alternatively, under Labor Code § 2699(f)(2), Plaintiff and Wage Statement Aggrieved
13 Employees are entitled to a PAGA penalty equal to one hundred dollars ($100) per pay period per Wage
14 Statement Aggrieved Employee for each initial violation of Labor Code § 226(a)(8), and two hundred 15 dollars ($200) per pay period for each subsequent violation.

16 Attorneys’ Fees and Costs

17 63. Plaintiff is entitled to recover attorneys’ fees and costs under Labor Code § 2699(g)(1).

18 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

19 WHEREFORE, Plaintiff requests the following relief:

20 A. That the Court determine that this action may be maintained as a class action under Code
21 of Civil Procedure § 382, and define each Class as requested herein;

22 B. That the Court find and declare that Defendants’ business expense policies and/or 23 practices violate California law, including Labor Code § 2802, by refusing and/or failing to reimburse 24 all business expenses incurred by Plaintiff and Class Members in the discharge of their duties as 25 employees of Defendants;

26 C. That the Court find and declare that Defendants’ business expense policies and/or 27 practices violate California law by causing a denial or forfeiture of compensation including earned 28 wages;

1 D. That the Court award to Plaintiff and Class Members all unreimbursed business expenses,
2 and interest thereon, that they are owed, pursuant to Labor Code § 2802, in an amount to be proved at 3 trial;

4 E. That the Court find and declare that Defendants Visa Inc., Visa USA Inc., and
