Mr. Sanchez intends to seek civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and other available relief for violations of the California Labor Code, which are recoverable under sections 2698, et seq., the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 ("PAGA"). Mr. Sanchez seeks relief on behalf of himself, the State of California, and other persons who are or were employed by MR. STAX as a non-exempt, hourly paid employee in California and who received at least one wage statement (“aggrieved employees”). This letter is sent in compliance with the notice and reporting requirements of California Labor Code section 2699.3.

MR. STAX employed Mr. Sanchez as an hourly paid, non-exempt employee from approximately February 2005 to December 2024. Mr. Sanchez worked for MR. STAX as a cook Cook Leader at its restaurant in Burbank, California. During his employment, Mr. Sanchez typically worked six (6) hours to eight (8) hours or more per day, and five (5) days per week. At the time Mr. Sanchez’s employment with MR. STAX ended, he earned approximately $23.00 per hour. His job duties included, without limitation, preparing ingredients, cooking food, managing inventory, and cleaning.

MR. STAX has committed each of the following Labor Code violations against Mr. Sanchez, the facts and theories of which follow, making him an “aggrieved employee” pursuant to California Labor Code section 2699(c)(1):¹

MR. STAX’s Company-Wide and Uniform Payroll and HR Practices

SEVEN TWENTY EIGHT COMPANY, INC.; ANAHEIM PANCAKES, INC.; ARCADIA PANCAKES, INC.; HUNTINGTON BEACH NINE EIGHTEEN COMPANY; LOS ANGELES PANCAKES, INC.; MR. STAX, INC.; SIX TWENTY SEVEN COMPANY, INC.; SIX THIRTY SIX COMPANY, INC.; SIX FIFTY THREE COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN FORTY ONE COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN FORTY TWO COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN FORTY FOUR COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN FIFTY THREE COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN SEVENTY TWO COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN SEVENTY SIX COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN SEVENTY NINE COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN EIGHTY THREE COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN NINETY COMPANY, INC.; SEVEN NINETY TWO COMPANY, INC.; NINE TWENTY FIVE COMPANY, INC.; NINE FORTY COMPANY, INC.; NINE FORTY TWO COMPANY, INC.; NINE FIFTY ONE COMPANY, INC.; SEVENTEEN O EIGHT COMPANY, INC. are Nevada corporations. LONG BEACH PANCAKES, INC. and SEVEN SEVENTY THREE COMPANY, INC. are California corporations. SEVEN THIRTY FIVE CO., A CALIFORNIA LIMITED PARTNERSHIP is a California limited partnership. Together, they operate IHOP franchise restaurants with approximately 26 locations throughout California. Upon information and belief, MR. STAX maintains a single, centralized Human Resources (HR) department at its corporate headquarters in Valencia or Panorama City, California, for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for MR. STAX in California, including Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees. At all relevant times, MR. STAX issued and maintained uniform, standardized scheduling and timekeeping practices and procedures for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, including Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees, regardless of their location or position.

Upon information and belief, MR. STAX maintains a centralized Payroll department at its corporate headquarters in Valencia or Panaroma City, California, which processes payroll for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for MR. STAX in California, including Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees. Further, MR. STAX issues the same formatted wage statements in the same manner for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, including Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees, irrespective of their location, position, or manner in which each employee's employment ended. In other words, MR. STAX utilized the same methods and formulas when calculating wages due to Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees in California.

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 510 and 1198 – Unpaid Overtime

California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198 and the applicable Industrial Welfare Commission ("IWC") Wage Order require employers to pay employees working more than eight (8) hours in day or more than forty (40) hours in a workweek at the rate of time-and-one-half (1 ½) times the regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day or more than forty (40) hours in a workweek. The applicable IWC Wage Order further provides that employers are required to pay employees working more than twelve (12) hours in a day overtime compensation at a rate of two (2) times their regular rate of pay. An employee's regular rate of pay includes all remuneration for employment paid to, or on behalf of, the employee, including nondiscretionary bonuses and incentive pay.

MR. STAX willfully failed to pay all overtime wages owed to Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees. During the relevant time period, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were not paid overtime premiums for all of the hours they worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day, in excess of twelve (12) hours in a day, and/or in excess of forty (40) hours in a week, because all hours that they worked were not recorded.

First, during the relevant time period, MR. STAX had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy of discouraging and impeding Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from recording hours worked that were outside of their scheduled shifts in order to limit the amount of overtime employees could accrue. This policy of limiting overtime, coupled with MR. STAX's use of labor budgets and assignment of heavy workloads (see infra), led Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to work off-the-clock after their scheduled shift times. For example, Mr. Sanchez would frequently have to clock out at his scheduled shift end-time and stay after his shift for five (5) to ten (10) minutes until the next cook arrived. However, Mr. Sanchez received no compensation for this time spent continuing to assist in the kitchen and helping with food orders while off-the-clock.

Second, as stated, MR. STAX had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy of strictly staffing its restaurant locations based on the labor hours allocated by each location's labor or payroll budget set by the corporate office. This practice of labor budgeting and/or limited payroll allocation has resulted in chronic understaffing and a lack of adequate meal period coverage, because there were too few employees on duty to handle the workload and attend to customers. Because MR. STAX did not employ or staff a sufficient number of employees to meet customer demand, there was no one available to relieve employees needing meal period coverage, and Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were not always afforded uninterrupted 30-minute meal periods during shifts when they were entitled to receive a meal period. MR. STAX also had a practice of failing to adhere to a schedule for meal periods, which further caused Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to not be relieved of their duties for compliant meal periods.

As a result of this insufficient meal period coverage, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were not always afforded uninterrupted 30-minute meal periods during shifts when they were entitled to receive a meal period. For example, Mr. Sanchez worked through some of his meal periods entirely because there was an inadequate number of employees to provide coverage. Mr. Sanchez's meal periods would also be interrupted and/or cut short by 10-15 minutes per instance to assist the kitchen or attend to work-related issues, per MR. STAX's management's request. On information and belief, because MR. STAX frowned upon employees accruing meal period premiums, MR. STAX's management adjusted employee time records to reflect compliant meal periods, even when employees had not received compliant meal periods. Thus, MR. STAX did not record all hours worked during meal periods, and Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees performed work during meal periods for which they were not paid.

Third, in conjunction with MR. STAX's policy and/or practice of understaffing, MR. STAX maintained and implemented an on-premises meal period policy, which effectively required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to remain on or near the work premises during their meal periods. Because Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were restricted from leaving the premises during meal periods, they were denied the ability to use their meal periods freely for their own purposes, such as running personal errands. For example, on Mr. Sanchez's weekend shifts, MR. STAX's management required Mr. Sanchez to stay on the premises during his meal periods. Thus, MR. STAX effectively maintained control over Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees during unpaid meal periods.

Fourth, MR. STAX's company-wide timekeeping system prevented Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from recording all hours worked when their meal periods were shortened or interrupted, because the system locked out Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees once they clocked out for a meal period, and would not permit them to clock back in from a meal period before 30 minutes had elapsed. Thus, MR. STAX did not record all hours worked during meal periods, and Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees performed work during meal periods for which they were not paid.

MR. STAX knew or should have known that as a result of these company-wide practices and/or policies, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were performing their assigned duties off-the-clock after their shifts and during meal periods, and were suffered or permitted to perform work for which they were not paid. Because Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees worked shifts of eight (8) hours or more a day, or forty (40) hours a week or more, some of this off-the-clock work qualified for overtime premium pay. Therefore, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were not paid overtime wages for all of the overtime hours they actually worked.

MR. STAX's failure to pay Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees the balance of overtime compensation, as required by California law, violates the provisions of California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198. Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 510 and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 – Unpaid Minimum Wages

California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 require employers to pay employees the minimum wage fixed by the IWC. The payment of a lesser wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful. Compensable work time is defined in IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001 as "the time during which an employee is subject to the control of an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so.” Cal. Code Regs. tit. 8, § 11050(2)(M) (defining “Hours Worked”).

As set forth above, in order to limit the amount of overtime employees could accrue, MR. STAX had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy of discouraging and impeding Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees recording hours worked that were outside of their scheduled shifts. MR. STAX’s policy of limiting overtime accrual, in conjunction with its use of labor budgets and assignment of heavy workloads, led Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to work off-the-clock after their scheduled shift times. For example, as stated, after clocking out for his scheduled shift, Mr. Sanchez would continue to work until another cook showed up for their shift.

Additionally, as set forth above, due to MR. STAX’s company-wide practice of utilizing labor budgets, understaffing, assignment of heavy workloads, failure to adhere to a schedule for meal periods, requiring employees to stay on the work premises during meal periods, and subsequent lack of meal period coverage, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were impeded from taking all uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled and were required to work off-the-clock. Further, as also stated, in order to prevent employees from accruing meal period premiums, MR. STAX’s management adjusted employee time records to reflect compliant meal periods, even when meal periods were missed, short, and/or interrupted. Additionally, as stated, MR. STAX’s company-wide timekeeping system prevented Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from entering time worked during meal periods because the system locked out Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees for a full 30 minutes. Thus, MR. STAX systematically failed to pay Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees for actual hours worked during unpaid meal periods because these hours were not always correctly recorded.

MR. STAX did not pay at least minimum wages for all hours worked by Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees. To the extent that these off-the-clock hours did not qualify for overtime premium payment, MR. STAX did not pay at least minimum wages for those hours worked off-the-clock in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198.

Accordingly, MR. STAX regularly failed to pay at least minimum wages to Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees for all of the hours they worked in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198. Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys’ fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 1197.1 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 – Failure to Provide Meal Periods

California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order require employers to provide meal periods and to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee’s regular rate for each work day that a meal or rest period is not provided. Pursuant to Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer may not require, cause or permit an employee to work for a period of more than five (5) hours per day without providing the employee with an uninterrupted meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes, except that if the total work period per day of the employee is not more than six (6) hours, the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of both the employer and the employee. Under California law, first meal periods must start after no more than five hours. Brinker Rest. Corp. v. Superior Court, 53

Cal. 4th 1004, 1041-1042 (2012). Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order also require employers to provide a second meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes if an employee works over ten (10) hours per day or to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate, except that if the total hours worked is no more than twelve (12) hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived.

First, during the relevant time period, MR. STAX had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of understaffing its locations due to labor budgeting and/or limited payroll allocation, which, combined with the assignment of heavy workloads and failure to adhere to a schedule for meal periods, resulted in a lack of meal period coverage and prevented Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from taking all timely, uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled.

As a result, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees had to work through all or part of their meal periods, had their meal periods interrupted, and/or had to wait extended periods of time before taking meal periods. For example, as stated, Mr. Sanchez missed some of his meal periods entirely because there was inadequate meal coverage. For the same reasons, Mr. Sanchez's meal periods would be interrupted and/or cut short by 10-15 minutes so he could assist the kitchen or attend to work-related issues with management during this time. As a further example, when Mr. Sanchez would take his meal periods, he often took them late, after the seventh or eighth hour of work.

Second, as stated, because MR. STAX frowned upon employees accruing meal period premiums, MR. STAX's management adjusted employee time records to reflect compliant meal periods, regardless of whether they had received a compliant meal period or not, in order to strictly limit the meal period premiums that would need to be paid by MR. STAX. As also stated, MR. STAX's company-wide timekeeping system prevented Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from recording all hours worked when their meal periods were shortened or interrupted, because the system locked out Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees once they clocked out for a meal period, and would not permit them to clock back in from a meal period before 30 minutes had elapsed. Thus, MR. STAX did not record all hours worked during meal periods.

Third, as stated, MR. STAX maintained and implemented an on-premises meal period policy, which effectively required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to remain on or near the work premises during their meal periods. Because Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were restricted from leaving the premises during meal periods, they were denied the ability to use their meal periods freely for their own purposes, such as running personal errands. For example, as stated, on weekends, MR. STAX required Mr. Sanchez to stay on the premises during his meal periods, in case he was needed during that time. Thus, MR. STAX effectively maintained control over Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees during unpaid meal periods.

Fourth, MR. STAX did not provide Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees with second 30-minute meal periods on days that they worked in excess of 10 hours in one day. For example, during the relevant time period, Mr. Sanchez often worked shifts in excess of 10 hours in one day and never took a second meal period. Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees did not sign valid meal period waivers on days that they were entitled to meal periods and were not relieved of all duties.

Moreover, MR. STAX had a company-wide policy of requiring all newly hired employees to sign blanket meal period waivers at or near their time of hire. MR. STAX took the position that non-exempt, hourly paid employees had waived their rights to first meal periods for the entirety of their employment and, on that basis, did not provide them with all meal periods to which they were entitled. Furthermore, MR. STAX's "Meal Period Waiver" requires employees to provide one day's advanced written notice should they wish to revoke the waiver. MR. STAX's presumption that meal periods would not be provided for shifts in excess of five (5) hours but less than six (6) hours, due to blanket meal period waivers signed at or near the time of hire, and imposition on employees to revoke the waivers by providing advance written notice, discouraged and impeded Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from taking all meal periods to which they were entitled.

Furthermore, an employer's obligation to provide a meal period is only "triggered" when the employer "employs an employee for a work period of more than five hours per day." Brinker, 53 Cal. 4th at 1039 ("If an employer engages, suffers, or permits anyone to work for a full five hours, its meal break obligation is triggered.").

[A]fter the meal break obligation is triggered . . . an employer is put to a choice: it must (1) afford an off-duty meal period; (2) consent to a mutually agreed-upon waiver if one hour or less will end the shift; or (3) obtain written agreement to an on-duty meal period if circumstances permit. Failure to do one of these will render the employer liable for premium pay.

Id. (citing Cal. Labor Code § 226.7; Wage Order No. 5, subd. 11(A), (B)). That MR. STAX required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to sign meal period waivers simultaneously at or near their time of hire (as opposed to on a specific work day) renders them invalid and unenforceable, because MR. STAX's obligation to provide Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees with meal periods did not arise until they had employed them for a full five (5) hours.

At all times herein mentioned, MR. STAX knew or should have known that, as a result of these policies, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were prevented from being relieved of all duties and required to perform some of their assigned duties during meal periods. MR. STAX further knew or should have known that MR. STAX did not pay Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees meal period premiums when meal periods were missed, shortened, interrupted, and/or late.

Furthermore, MR. STAX engaged in a company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying all meal period premiums owed when compliant meal periods are not provided. Because of this practice and/or policy, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees have not received premium pay for all missed, late, and interrupted meal periods.

Accordingly, MR. STAX failed to provide all meal periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198. Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, and 1198 – Failure to Authorize and Permit Rest Periods

California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order require employers to provide rest periods and to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate for each work day that a meal or rest period is not provided. California Labor Code section 226.7 provides that no employer shall require an employee to work during any rest period mandated by an applicable order of the California IWC. The applicable IWC Wage Order provides that “[e]very employer shall authorize and permit all employees to take rest periods, which insofar as practicable shall be in the middle of each work period” and that the “rest period time shall be based on the total hours worked daily at the rate of ten (10) minutes net rest time per four (4) hours or major fraction thereof” unless the total daily work time is less than three and one-half (3 ½) hours.

To comply with its obligation to authorize and permit rest periods under California Labor Code section 226.7 and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer must “relinquish any control over how employees spend their break time, and relieve their employees of all duties—including the obligation that an employee remain on call. A rest period, in short, must be a period of rest.” Augustus, et al. v. ABM Security Services, Inc., 2 Cal. 5th 257, 273 (2016).

During the relevant time period, MR. STAX regularly failed to authorize and permit Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to take a ten (10) minute rest period per each four (4) hour period worked or major fraction thereof. As with meal periods, MR. STAX’s company-wide use of labor budgeting, understaffing, and assignment of heavy workloads prevented Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees from being relieved of all duty in order to take their rest periods. MR. STAX also failed to schedule rest periods, which, coupled with MR. STAX’s failure to provide adequate rest period coverage, further led to Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees not being authorized and permitted to take compliant rest periods.

Moreover, on information and belief, MR. STAX maintained a company-wide on-premises rest period policy, which effectively required that Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees remain on MR. STAX’s premises during their rest periods. Because Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees were restricted from leaving the premises during rest periods, they were denied the ability to use their rest periods freely for their own purposes, such as running personal errands. Thus, MR. STAX effectively maintained control over Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees during rest periods.

As a result of MR. STAX’s practices and policies, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees worked shifts in excess of 3.5 hours, in excess of 6 hours, and/or in excess of 10 hours without receiving all uninterrupted 10-minute rest periods to which they were entitled. For example, Mr. Sanchez had to forgo all of his rest periods due to a lack of rest period coverage.

MR. STAX has also engaged in a company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying rest period premiums owed when compliant rest periods are not authorized and permitted. Because of this practice and/or policy, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees have not received premium pay for all missed rest periods.

Accordingly, MR. STAX failed to authorize and permit all rest periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198. Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys’ fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198 – Non-Compliant Wage Statements and Failure to Maintain Accurate Payroll Records California Labor Code section 226(a) requires employers to make, keep and provide true, accurate, and complete employment records. MR. STAX has not provided Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees with properly itemized wage statements. Labor Code section 226(e) provides that if an employer fails to comply with providing an employee with properly itemized wage statements as set forth in 226(a), then the employee is entitled to recover the greater of all actual damages or $50 for the initial pay period in which a violation occurs and $100 per employee for each violation in a subsequent pay period, not to exceed $4,000. Further, Labor Code section 226.3 provides that any employer who violates section 226(a) shall be subject to a civil penalty in the amount of $250 per employee per violation in an initial citation and $1,000 per employee for each violation in a subsequent citation, for which the employer fails to provide the employee a wage statement or fails to keep the required records pursuant to Section 226(a).

During the relevant time period, MR. STAX has knowingly and intentionally provided Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees with uniform, incomplete, and inaccurate wage statements. For example, MR. STAX issued uniform wage statements to Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees that fail to correctly list: gross wages earned; total hours worked; net wages earned; and all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period, including rates of pay for overtime wages, and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate. Specifically, MR. STAX violated sections 226(a)(1), 226(a)(2), 226(a)(5), and 226(a)(9).

Because MR. STAX did not record the time Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees spent working off-the-clock and deducted time from their records for meal periods that were interrupted and/or missed (and therefore time for which they should have been paid), MR. STAX did not list the correct amount of gross wages and net wages earned by Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees in compliance with section 226(a)(1) and section 226(a)(5), respectively. For the same reason, MR. STAX failed to accurately list the total number of hours worked by Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees, in violation of section 226(a)(2), and failed to list the applicable hourly rates of pay in effect during the pay period and the corresponding accurate number of hours worked at each hourly rate, in violation of section 226(a)(9).

The wage statement deficiencies also include, among other things, failing to list the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis; failing to list all deductions; failing to list the inclusive dates of the period for which aggrieved employees were paid; failing to list the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number; failing to list the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer; and/or failing to state all hours worked as a result of not recording or stating hours worked off-the-clock.

California Labor Code section 1174(d) provides that “[e]very person employing labor in this state shall . . . [k]eep a record showing the names and addresses of all employees employed and the ages of all minors” and “[k]eep, at a central location in the state or at the plants or establishments at which employees are employed, payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments” Labor Code section 1174.5 provides that employers are subject to a $500 civil penalty if they fail to maintain accurate and complete records as required by section 1174(d). During the relevant time period, and in violation of Labor Code section 1174(d), MR. STAX willfully failed to maintain accurate payroll records for Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees showing the daily hours they worked and the wages paid thereto as a result of failing to record the off-the-clock hours that they worked.

California Labor Code section 1198 provides that the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor shall be those fixed by the Labor Commissioner and as set forth in the applicable IWC Wage Order. Section 1198 further provides that “[t]he employment of any employees for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.” Pursuant to the applicable IWC Wage Order, employers are required to keep accurate time records showing when the employee begins and ends each work period and meal period. During the relevant time period, MR. STAX engaged in company-wide practices and/or policies of failing to record actual hours worked (including falsifying time records by recording that compliant meal periods were taken regardless if or when meal periods were actually taken), and thereby failed to keep accurate records of work period and meal period start and end times for Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees, in violation of section 1198. Furthermore, in light of MR. STAX’s failure to provide Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees with second 30-minute meal periods to which they were entitled, MR. STAX kept no records of meal start and end times for second meal periods.

Because MR. STAX failed to provide the correct net and gross wages earned, applicable rates of pay, and number of total hours worked on wage statements, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees have been prevented from verifying, solely from information on the wage statements themselves, that they were paid correctly and in full. Instead, Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees have had to look to sources outside of the wage statements themselves and reconstruct time records to determine whether in fact they were paid correctly and the extent of underpayment, thereby causing them injury.

Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys’ fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 226.3, 1174.5, and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 204 – Failure to Timely Pay Wages During Employment

California Labor Code section 204 requires that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the 1st and the 15th days, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the 16th and the 26th day of the month during which the labor was performed, and that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the 16th and the last day, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the 1st and the 10th day of the following month. California Labor Code section 204 also requires that all wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period. Alternatively, California Labor Code section 204 provides that the requirements of this section are deemed satisfied by the payment of wages for weekly, biweekly, or semimonthly payroll if the wages are paid not more than seven (7) calendar days following the close of the payroll period.

During the relevant time period, MR. STAX failed to pay Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees all wages due to them, including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, within any time period specified by California Labor Code section 204.

Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with Labor Code section 204, pursuant to Labor Code sections 210 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 201 and 202 – Failure to Timely Pay Final Wages Upon Termination

California Labor Code sections 201 and 202 provide that if an employer discharges an employee, the wages earned and unpaid at the time of discharge are due and payable immediately, and that if an employee voluntarily leaves his or her employment, his or her wages shall become due and payable not later than seventy-two (72) hours thereafter, unless the employee has given seventy two (72) hours previous notice of his or her intention to quit, in which case the employee is entitled to his or her wages at the time of quitting.

MR. STAX willfully failed to pay Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees who are no longer employed by MR. STAX all their earned wages, including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, either at the time of discharge, or within seventy-two (72) hours of their leaving MR. STAX's employ.

Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with Labor Code sections 201 and 202, pursuant to Labor Code sections 256 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 2802 – Unreimbursed Business Expenses

California Labor Code section 2802 requires employers to pay for all necessary expenditures and losses incurred by the employee in the performance of his or her job. The purpose of Labor Code section 2802 is to prevent employers from passing off their cost of doing business and operating expenses on to their employees. Cochran v. Schwan's Home Service, Inc., 228 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1144 (2014). The applicable wage order, IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001, provides that: "[w]hen tools or equipment are required by the employer or are necessary to the performance of a job, such tools and equipment shall be provided and maintained by the employer, except that an employee whose wages are at least two (2) times the minimum wage provided herein may be required to provide and maintain hand tools and equipment customarily required by the trade or craft." IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001 further provides that: "[w]hen uniforms are required by the employer to be worn by the employee as a condition of employment, such uniforms shall be provided and maintained by the employer."

First, during the relevant time period, MR. STAX, on a company-wide basis, required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to use their personal mobile devices, including, but not limited to, cellular phones, and/or mobile data to carry out their job duties but failed to fully reimburse them for the costs of their work-related mobile device and/or mobile data expenses. For example, MR. STAX's management contacted Mr. Sanchez on his personal cellular phone regarding work-related matters, such as asking him to go and pick up groceries or ingredients for the restaurant when there was a kitchen shortage. Additionally, other employees would contact Mr. Sanchez to notify him whether they would be coming in to work or not. Although MR. STAX required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to use their personal mobile devices and/or mobile data to carry out their work-related duties, MR. STAX failed to reimburse them for their costs incurred.

Second, during the relevant time period, MR. STAX had a company-wide policy of requiring Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to utilize their own personal vehicles to carry out company business, but failed to reimburse them for all costs of travel, including mileage. For example, MR. STAX required Mr. Sanchez to make a 30-mile round trip to Pasadena to attend a meeting for the kitchen staff regarding new menu items. As a further example, twice during his employment, Mr. Sanchez was required to drive to the City of Industry, a 60-mile round trip, to purchase groceries when there was a kitchen shortage at the restaurant. Additionally, on ten (10) different occasions, MR. STAX's management instructed Mr. Sanchez to travel approximately two miles to obtain extra ingredients during kitchen shortages. Although MR. STAX required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to utilize their own vehicles to carry out their work-related responsibilities, MR. STAX did not reimburse them for their travel expenses.

Third, during the relevant time period, MR. STAX had a company-wide policy of requiring Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to wear uniforms bearing the "IHOP" company name and logo, including uniform shirts and hats. Due to the nature of restaurant work, Mr. Sanchez's uniform items would become stained with grease, sweaty, soiled, and/or acquire an unpleasant odor such that he was unable to mix these clothes in with other laundry. As a result, Mr. Sanchez had to wash his uniform items separately from his regular clothing, thus incurring additional laundry expenses for the upkeep of his uniforms. Thus, MR. STAX failed to maintain uniforms it required Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees to wear during their shifts and forced them to incur the cost of maintaining employee uniforms.

MR. STAX could have provided Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees with the actual equipment for use on the job, such as company mobile devices and company vehicles, as well as access to laundering services. Or, MR. STAX could have reimbursed employees for their mobile device usage, travel expenses, mileage, and laundering expenses or provided a uniform maintenance allowance. Instead, MR. STAX passed these operating costs onto Mr. Sanchez and aggrieved employees. At all relevant times, Mr. Sanchez did not earn at least two (2) times the minimum wage.

Thus, MR. STAX had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of not reimbursing employees for expenses necessarily incurred in violation of California Labor Code section 2802. Mr. Sanchez and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring MR. STAX into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code section 2802, pursuant to Labor Code sections 2699(a), (f), and (k).

California Labor Code § 558(a)

California Labor Code section 558(a) provides "[a]ny employer or other person acting on behalf of an employer who violates, or causes to be violated, a section of this chapter or any provision regulating hours and days of work in any order of the Industrial Welfare Commission shall be subject to a civil penalty as follows: (1) For any initial violation, fifty dollars ($50) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid . . . (2) For each subsequent violation, one hundred dollars ($100) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid . . ." Labor Code section 558(c) provides that "[t]he civil penalties provided for in this section are in addition to any other civil or criminal penalty provided by law."

MR. STAX, at all relevant times, was an employer or person acting on behalf of an employer(s) who violated Mr. Sanchez's and other aggrieved employees' rights by violating various sections of the California Labor Code.

Accordingly, Mr. Sanchez seeks the remedies set forth in Labor Code section 558 for himself, the State of California, and all other aggrieved employees. Specifically, pursuant to PAGA, and in particular California Labor Code sections 1194.5, 2699(a), 2699(k), 2699.3(a), 2699.3(c), 2699.5, and 558, Mr. Sanchez acting in the public interest as a private attorney general, seeks assessment and collection of civil penalties and injunctive relief for himself, all other aggrieved employees, and the State of California against MR. STAX for violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802.

Therefore, on behalf of all aggrieved employees, Mr. Sanchez seeks all applicable civil penalties related to these violations of the California Labor Code pursuant to PAGA.
