Ms. Silva intends to seek civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and other available relief for violations of the California Labor Code, which are recoverable under sections 2698, et seq., the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 ("PAGA"). Ms. Silva seeks relief on behalf of herself, the State of California, and other persons who are or were employed by SUBWAY as a non-exempt, hourly paid employee in California and who received at least one wage statement ("aggrieved employees"). This letter is sent in compliance with the notice and reporting requirements of California Labor Code section 2699.3.

SUBWAY employed Ms. Silva as an hourly paid, non-exempt employee from approximately September 2023 to October 2024. Ms. Silva worked for SUBWAY as a Sandwich Artist at its Subway restaurants in Bakersfield, California. During her employment, Ms. Silva typically worked five (5) to eight (8) hours per day and three (3) days or more per week. Ms. Silva was compensated approximately $20.00 per hour at the time her employment ended. Her job duties included, without limitation, preparing and serving food, providing customer service, ensuring correct food labeling, and cleaning.

SUBWAY committed each of the following Labor Code violations against Ms. Silva, the facts and theories of which follow, making her an "aggrieved employee" pursuant to California Labor Code section 2699(c)(1):¹

¹ These facts, theories, and claims are based on Ms. Silva's experience and counsel's review of those records currently available relating to Ms. Silva's employment. Discovery conducted in litigation of wage and hour claims such as these often reveals additional claims that the aggrieved employee was not initially aware of (because the aggrieved employee was not aware of the law's requirements, the employer misinformed its employee of the law's requirements, or because the employer effectively hid the violations). Thus, Ms. Silva reserves the right to supplement this letter with additional facts, theories, and claims if she becomes aware of them subsequent to the submission of this letter.

SUBWAY's Company-Wide and Uniform Payroll and HR Practices

BK SD LLC; CHILDREN HOSPITAL SUBS LLC; CR SUBWAY LLC; EAT FRESH, LLC; ELAS, LLC; FRESH CONCEPT SD LLC; KAM-BERI LLC; LACREN, LLC; LSBS, LLC; MIRAMAR BASE SUBWAYS LLC; MGISD, LLC; RMS ENTERPRISES, LLC; RN RESTAURANTS, LLC; RS RESTAURANTS, LLC; RW SUBWAY, LLC; S40249 LLC; SAIVI INVESTMENTS, LLC; SDDT ENTERPRISES, LLC; SDSU SUBS LLC; SD COAST CONCEPTS, LLC; SDSR LLC; SLO SUBS LLC; SMILING CUSTOMERS, LLC; and SWEET CRAVINGS, LLC are California limited liability companies while BAKERSFIELD SUBS LLC; CORONA SUBS LLC; FRESH SUBS SAN DIEGO LLC; LAOC BURGERS LLC; SERVE FRESH RSB LLC; and SUBWAY DEVELOPMENT OF SAN DIEGO, LLC are Delaware limited liability companies. Together, SUBWAY owns and operates approximately 95 Subway franchise restaurant locations in California. Upon information and belief, SUBWAY maintains a single, centralized Human Resources (HR) department at its corporate headquarters in Anaheim, California, for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for SUBWAY in California, including Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees. At all relevant times, SUBWAY issued and maintained uniform, standardized scheduling and timekeeping practices and procedures for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, including Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees, regardless of their location or position.

Upon information and belief, SUBWAY maintains a centralized Payroll department at its corporate headquarters in Anaheim, California, which processes payroll for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for SUBWAY in California, including Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees. Further, SUBWAY issues the same formatted wage statements in the same manner for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, including Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees, irrespective of their location, position, or manner in which each employee's employment ended. In other words, SUBWAY utilized the same methods and formulas when calculating wages due to Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees in California.

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 – Unpaid Minimum Wages

California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 require employers to pay employees the minimum wage fixed by the Industrial Welfare Commission ("IWC"). The payment of a lesser wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful. Compensable work time is defined in Wage Order No. 5-2001 as "the time during which an employee is subject to the control of an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so." Cal. Code Regs. Tit. 8, § 11050(2)(M) (defining "Hours Worked").

First, SUBWAY had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice requiring Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to perform various work-related tasks while off-the-clock before and after their shifts, and on their days off. For example, because SUBWAY's timekeeping system was integrated with the company's point-of-sale ("POS") system, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees would often have to wait to clock in for the start of their shifts, because other employees were using the POS system to handle customer transactions. For instance, Ms. Silva was required to wait several minutes under SUBWAY's control until a POS machine was available for clocking-in, time for which she was not paid. Additionally, SUBWAY contacted Ms. Silva on her personal mobile device outside of her shifts. For example, Ms. Silva spent a few minutes answering calls or text messages from SUBWAY's management regarding work-related issues.

Second, SUBWAY had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of strictly staffing its restaurant locations based on the labor hours allocated by each location's labor or payroll budget set by corporate. SUBWAY's uniform use of labor budgets has resulted in chronic understaffing and a lack of adequate meal period coverage, because there were too few employees on duty to handle the workload and attend to customers. Because SUBWAY did not employ or staff a sufficient number of employees to meet customer demand, there was no one available to relieve employees needing meal period coverage, and Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were not always afforded uninterrupted 30-minute meal periods during shifts when they were entitled to receive a meal period. Moreover, SUBWAY has a practice of failing to schedule meal periods, which further caused Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to not be relieved of their duties for compliant meal periods. Consequently, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were required to work through their meal periods and/or had their unpaid meal periods interrupted in order to complete their assigned duties and handle customer demand, time for which they were not paid.

Further, on information and belief, because SUBWAY frowned upon employees accruing meal period premiums, SUBWAY's management pressured employees to clock out for meal periods to reflect compliant meal periods, regardless of whether they had received a compliant meal period or not. Thus, SUBWAY did not record all hours worked during meal periods, and Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees performed work during meal periods for which they were not paid.

SUBWAY knew or should have known that as a result of these company-wide practices and/or policies, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were performing their assigned duties off-the-clock before and after their shifts, and were suffered or permitted to perform work for which they were not paid. Accordingly, SUBWAY regularly failed to pay at least minimum wages to Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees for all of the hours they worked in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198.

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 1197.1 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 – Failure to Provide Meal Periods

California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 and the applicable IWC Wage Order require employers to provide meal periods and to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate for each work day that a meal or rest period is not provided. Pursuant to Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer may not require, cause or permit an employee to work for a period of more than five (5) hours per day without providing the employee with an uninterrupted meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes, except that if the total work period per day of the employee is not more than six (6) hours, the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of both the employer and the employee. Under California law, first meal periods must start after no more than five hours. Brinker Rest. Corp. v. Superior Court, 53 Cal. 4th 1004, 1041-1042 (2012). Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order also require employers to provide a second meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes if an employee works over ten (10) hours per day or to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate, except that if the total hours worked is no more than twelve (12) hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived.

First, as stated, during the relevant time period, SUBWAY had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of understaffing locations due to labor budgeting and/or limited payroll allocation, which, combined with the failure to schedule meal periods, has resulted in a lack of meal period coverage and prevented Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees from taking all timely, uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled. As a result, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees had to work through all or part of their meal periods, had their meal periods interrupted, and/or had to wait extended periods of time before taking meal periods. For example, Ms. Silva was required to work through her meal periods or could not take her meal periods until after the fifth hour of work, due to the lack of coverage. Moreover, on information and belief, SUBWAY's management erroneously informed Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees that they were not entitled to take a meal period unless they worked six (6) hours or more in a day. Thus, SUBWAY failed to provide Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with compliant, 30-minute meal periods altogether when they were scheduled for six-hour shifts.

Second, as set forth above, on information and belief, because SUBWAY frowned upon employees accruing meal period premiums, SUBWAY's management pressured employees to clock out for meal periods to reflect compliant meal periods regardless of whether they had received a compliant meal period or not, in order to strictly limit the meal period premiums that would need to be paid by SUBWAY. Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees did not sign valid meal period waivers on days that they were entitled to meal periods and were not relieved of all duties.

Moreover, SUBWAY had a company-wide policy of requiring all newly hired employees to sign blanket meal period waivers at or near their time of hire. SUBWAY took the position that non-exempt, hourly paid employees had waived their rights to first and/or second meal periods for the entirety of their employment and, on that basis, did not provide them with all meal periods to which they were entitled. Furthermore, SUBWAY's "Meal Break Waiver Agreement" requires employees to provide written notice should they wish to revoke the waiver. SUBWAY's presumption that meal periods would not be provided for shifts in excess of five (5) hours but less than six (6) hours and/or for shifts in excess of ten (10) hours but less than twelve (12) hours, due to blanket meal period waivers signed at or near the time of hire, and imposition on employees to revoke the waivers in writing, discouraged and impeded Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees from taking all meal periods to which they were entitled.

Furthermore, an employer's obligation to provide a meal period is only "triggered" when the employer "employs an employee for a work period of more than five hours per day." Brinker, 53 Cal. 4th at 1039 ("If an employer engages, suffers, or permits anyone to work for a full five hours, its meal break obligation is triggered.").

[A]fter the meal break obligation is triggered . . . an employer is put to a choice: it must (1) afford an off-duty meal period; (2) consent to a mutually agreed-upon waiver if one hour or less will end the shift; or (3) obtain written agreement to an on-duty meal period if circumstances permit. Failure to do one of these will render the employer liable for premium pay.

Id. (citing Cal. Labor Code § 226.7; Wage Order No. 5, subd. 11(A), (B)). That SUBWAY required Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to sign meal period waivers simultaneously at or near their time of hire (as opposed to on a specific work day) renders them invalid and unenforceable, because SUBWAY's obligation to provide Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with meal periods did not arise until they had employed them for a full five (5) hours.

At all times herein mentioned, SUBWAY knew or should have known that, as a result of these policies, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were prevented from being relieved of all duties to take timely, uninterrupted meal periods. SUBWAY further knew or should have known that it did not pay Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees meal period premiums when meal periods were late, interrupted, shortened, and/or missed.

At all times herein mentioned, SUBWAY knew or should have known that, as a result of these policies, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were prevented from being relieved of all duties to take timely, uninterrupted meal periods. SUBWAY further knew or should have known that SUBWAY did not pay Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees meal period premiums when meal periods were late, interrupted, shortened, and/or missed.

Accordingly, SUBWAY failed to provide all meal periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198. Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, and 1198 – Failure to Authorize and Permit Rest Periods

California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order require employers to provide rest periods and to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate for each work day that a meal or rest period is not provided. California Labor Code section 226.7 provides that no employer shall require an employee to work during any rest period mandated by an applicable order of the California IWC. The applicable IWC Wage Order provides that "[e]very employer shall authorize and permit all employees to take rest periods, which insofar as practicable shall be in the middle of each work period" and that the "rest period time shall be based on the total hours worked daily at the rate of ten (10) minutes net rest time per four (4) hours or major fraction thereof" unless the total daily work time is less than three and one-half (3 ½) hours.

To comply with its obligation to authorize and permit rest periods under California Labor Code section 226.7 and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer must "relinquish any control over how employees spend their break time, and relieve their employees of all duties—including the obligation that an employee remain on call. A rest period, in short, must be a period of rest." Augustus, et al. v. ABM Security Services, Inc., 2 Cal. 5th 257, 273 (2016).

During the relevant time period, SUBWAY regularly failed to authorize and permit Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to take a ten (10) minute rest period per each four (4) hour period worked or major fraction thereof. As with meal periods, SUBWAY's company-wide use of labor budgeting and/or limited payroll allocation and understaffing resulted in a lack of rest period coverage and prevented Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees from being relieved of all duty in order to take compliant rest periods. SUBWAY also failed to schedule rest periods, which, coupled with SUBWAY's failure to provide adequate rest period coverage, further led to Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees not being authorized and permitted to take rest periods.

Furthermore, upon information and belief, during the relevant time period, SUBWAY maintained and implemented a company-wide on-premises rest period policy, which effectively required that Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees remain on the work premises during their rest periods. Because Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were restricted from leaving the premises during rest periods, they were denied the ability to use their rest periods freely for their own purposes, such as running personal errands. Thus, SUBWAY effectively maintained control over Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees during rest periods.

As a result of SUBWAY's practices and policies, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees worked shifts in excess of 3.5 hours, in excess of 6 hours, and/or in excess of 10 hours without receiving all uninterrupted 10-minute rest periods to which they were entitled. For example, Ms. Silva had to forgo her rest periods entirely due to the lack of coverage.

SUBWAY has also engaged in a systematic, company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying rest period premiums owed when rest periods are not authorized and permitted. Because of this practice and/or policy, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees have not received premium pay for all missed rest periods.

Accordingly, SUBWAY failed to authorize and permit all rest periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198. Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198 – Non-Compliant Wage Statements and Failure to Maintain Accurate Payroll Records California Labor Code section 226(a) requires employers to make, keep and provide true, accurate, and complete employment records. Labor Code section 226(e) provides that if an employer fails to comply with providing an employee with properly itemized wage statements as set forth in 226(a), then the employee is entitled to recover the greater of all actual damages or $50 for the initial pay period in which a violation occurs and $100 per employee for each violation in a subsequent pay period, not to exceed $4,000. Further, Labor Code section 226.3 provides that any employer who violates section 226(a) shall be subject to a civil penalty in the amount of $250 per employee per violation in an initial citation and $1,000 per employee for each violation in a subsequent citation, for which the employer fails to provide the employee a wage statement or fails to keep the required records pursuant to Section 226(a).

During the relevant time period, SUBWAY has knowingly and intentionally provided Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with uniform, incomplete, and inaccurate wage statements. For example, SUBWAY issued uniform wage statements to Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees that fail to correctly list: gross wages earned; total hours worked; net wages earned; and all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period, including rates of pay for minimum wages and/or meal and rest period premiums, and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate. Specifically, SUBWAY violated sections 226(a)(1), 226(a)(2), 226(a)(5), and 226(a)(9).

Because SUBWAY did not record the time Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees spent working off the clock, SUBWAY did not list the correct amount of gross wages and net wages earned by Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees in compliance with sections 226(a)(1) and 226(a)(5). For the same reason, SUBWAY failed to accurately list the total number of hours worked by Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees, in violation of section 226(a)(2), and failed to list the applicable hourly rates of pay in effect during the pay period and the corresponding accurate number of hours worked at each hourly rate, in violation of section 226(a)(9).

The wage statement deficiencies also include, among other things, failing to list the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis; failing to list all deductions; failing to list the inclusive dates of the period for which aggrieved employees were paid; failing to list the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number; failing to list the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer; and/or failing to state all hours worked as a result of not recording or stating hours worked off-the-clock.

California Labor Code section 1174(d) provides that “[e]very person employing labor in this state shall . . . [k]eep a record showing the names and addresses of all employees employed and the ages of all minors” and “[k]eep, at a central location in the state or at the plants or establishments at which employees are employed, payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments” At all relevant times, and in violation of Labor Code section 1174(d), SUBWAY willfully failed to maintain accurate payroll records for Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees showing the daily hours they worked and the wages paid thereto as a result of failing to record the off-the-clock hours that they worked.

California Labor Code section 1198 provides that the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor shall be those fixed by the Labor Commissioner and as set forth in the applicable IWC Wage Order. Section 1198 further provides that “[t]he employment of any employees for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.” Pursuant to the applicable IWC Wage Order, employers are required to keep accurate time records showing when the employee begins and ends each work period and meal period. During the relevant time period, SUBWAY engaged in company-wide practices and/or policies of failing to record actual hours worked, and thereby failed to keep accurate records of work period and meal period start and end times for Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees, in violation of section 1198.

Because SUBWAY failed to provide the correct net and gross wages earned, applicable rates of pay, and number of total hours worked on wage statements, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees have been prevented from verifying, solely from information on the wage statements themselves, that they were paid correctly and in full. Instead, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees have had to look to sources outside of the wage statements themselves and reconstruct time records to determine whether in fact they were paid correctly and the extent of underpayment, thereby causing them injury.

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys’ fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 226.3, 1174.5, and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 204 – Failure to Timely Pay Wages During Employment

California Labor Code section 204 requires that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the 1st and the 15th days, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the 16th and the 26th day of the month during which the labor was performed, and that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the 16th and the last day, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the 1st and the 10th day of the following month. California Labor Code section 204 also requires that all wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period. Alternatively, California Labor Code section 204 provides that the requirements of this section are deemed satisfied by the payment of wages for weekly, biweekly, or semimonthly payroll if the wages are paid not more than seven (7) calendar days following the close of the payroll period.

During the relevant time period, SUBWAY willfully failed to pay Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees all wages due including, but not limited to, minimum wages and/or meal and rest period premiums, within the time periods specified by California Labor Code section 204.

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with Labor Code section 204, pursuant to Labor Code sections 210 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 201 and 202 – Failure to Timely Pay Final Wages Upon Termination

California Labor Code sections 201 and 202 provide that if an employer discharges an employee, the wages earned and unpaid at the time of discharge are due and payable immediately, and that if an employee voluntarily leaves his or her employment, his or her wages shall become due and payable not later than seventy-two (72) hours thereafter, unless the employee has given seventy two (72) hours previous notice of his or her intention to quit, in which case the employee is entitled to his or her wages at the time of quitting.

SUBWAY willfully failed to pay Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees who are no longer employed by SUBWAY the earned and unpaid wages set forth above, including but not limited to, minimum wages and/or meal and rest period premiums, either at the time of discharge, or within seventy-two (72) hours of their leaving SUBWAY's employ.

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with Labor Code sections 201 and 202, pursuant to Labor Code sections 256 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 1198 and California Code of Regulations Title 8, Section 11050 Subdivision 4(C) – Failure to Pay Split-Shift Premiums

California Labor Code section 1198 provides that no employer may employ an employee under conditions of labor that are prohibited by the applicable IWC wage order. California Labor Code section 1198 further requires that “. . . the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the . . . standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee . . . under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.”

California Code of Regulations, Title 8, section 11050(4)(C) provides that, “When an employee works a split shift, one (1) hour's pay at the minimum wage shall be paid in addition to the minimum wage for that workday, except when the employee resides at the place of employment.” California Code of Regulations, Title 8, defines a split shift as “a work schedule, which is interrupted by non-paid non-working periods established by the employer, other than bona fide rest or meal periods.”

SUBWAY willfully violated California Labor Code section 1198 and California Code of Regulations, Title 8, section 11050(4)(C), because SUBWAY failed to pay Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees a split-shift premium when they returned to work for an additional shift in the same day, after having been clocked out for more than an hour. For example, Ms. Silva would be scheduled to work a morning shift, clock out for at least an hour, and then return to work later in the day for an additional shift. When this occurred, SUBWAY did not always pay Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees an additional hour at minimum wage.

SUBWAY's failure to provide Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with split-shift pay when they returned to work for an additional shift in the same day, after having been clocked out for more than an hour, violates California Labor Code section 1198 and California Code of Regulations Title 8, Section 11050(4)(C).

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code section 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 1194.5 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 1198 and California Code of Regulations Title 8, Section 11050 Subdivision 13(B) – Failure to Provide Suitable Resting Facilities

California Labor Code section 1198 makes it illegal to employ an employee under conditions of labor that are prohibited by the applicable wage order. California Labor Code section 1198 requires that “. . . the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the . . . standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee . . . under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.” California Code of Regulations, Title 8, section 11050(13)(B) provides that “[s]uitable resting facilities shall be provided in an area separate from the toilet rooms and shall be available to employees during work hours.”

SUBWAY's California restaurants are generally similar in their layout and design and there was, and continues to be, space that allows for a resting facility that employees may use to cease work and recover during meal or rest periods. SUBWAY could have provided Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with a suitable resting facility within all of its restaurants, with reasonable or no modification, but instead denied, and continues to deny, employees suitable areas to rest (e.g., a breakroom with seats). As a result, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were forced to adjust to areas not conducive to resting or search for areas outside of the restaurant which are not designated or reserved for their rest.

SUBWAY did not provide Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with suitable resting facilities during their work hours, particularly during rest or meal periods. In other words, during the times when Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were legally allowed to forgo assigned tasks, as in during a meal or rest period, SUBWAY denied them any area within its restaurants to cease work and recover. Moreover, SUBWAY did not inform Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees of their rights to suitable resting facilities under California law.

As a result of SUBWAY's company-wide failure to provide suitable resting facilities in all of its restaurants, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were forced to adjust to areas not conducive to resting or search for facilities outside their restaurants to cease work and recover. SUBWAY's failure to provide suitable resting facilities to Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees violates California Labor Code section 1198 and IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001, subdivision 13(B).

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code section 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 1194.5 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 1198 and California Code of Regulations Title 8, Section 11050 Subdivision 15 – Failure to Maintain Work Temperature Providing Reasonable Comfort

California Labor Code section 1198 dictates that no employer may employ an employee under conditions of labor that are prohibited by the applicable IWC Wage Order. California Labor Code section 1198 further requires that “. . . the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the . . . standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee . . . under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.”

California Code of Regulations, Title 8, sections 11050(15)(A) and (B) provide that “[t]he temperature maintained in each work area shall provide reasonable comfort consistent with industry-wide standards for the nature of the process and the work performed If excessive heat or humidity is created by the work process, the employer shall take all feasible means to reduce such excessive heat or humidity to a degree providing reasonable comfort.” California law requires an employer to endeavor to provide a safe and healthy workplace (Cal. Code Regs. tit. 8, § 3203).

Upon information and belief, SUBWAY violated California Labor Code section 1198 and California Code of Regulations, Title 8, section 11050(15), because SUBWAY failed to maintain a temperature in work areas that provided reasonable comfort consistent with industry-wide standards for the nature of the process and the work performed and failed to take all feasible means to reduce excessive heat or humidity to a degree providing reasonable comfort.

During the relevant time period, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees were subjected to excessive heat and/or humidity resulting in temperatures equaling or exceeding 82 degrees Fahrenheit. SUBWAY failed to provide Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with reasonable comfort by maintaining the indoor temperature within the range of industry standards by providing adequate air conditioning, in violation of California Labor Code section 1198 and in IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001, subdivision 15. For example, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees who were present in SUBWAY’s restaurants were not provided sufficient air conditioning or fans, and would be required to work indoors at 82 degrees Fahrenheit or more. Accordingly, SUBWAY failed to maintain, in its work areas, a temperature providing reasonable comfort for its employees, Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees, in violation of California Labor Code section 1198 and California Code of Regulations, Title 8, section 11050(15).

Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys’ fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code section 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 2802 – Unreimbursed Business Expenses

California Labor Code section 2802 requires employers to pay for all necessary expenditures and losses incurred by the employee in the performance of his or her job. The purpose of Labor Code section 2802 is to prevent employers from passing off their cost of doing business and operating expenses on to their employees. Cochran v. Schwan’s Home Service, Inc., 228 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1144 (2014). The applicable wage order, IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001, provides that: “[w]hen tools or equipment are required by the employer or are necessary to the performance of a job, such tools and equipment shall be provided and maintained by the employer, except that an employee whose wages are at least two (2) times the minimum wage provided herein may be required to provide and maintain hand tools and equipment customarily required by the trade or craft.” IWC Wage Order No. 5-2001 further provides that: “[w]hen uniforms are required by the employer to be worn by the employee as a condition of employment, such uniforms shall be provided and maintained by the employer.”

First, during the relevant time period, SUBWAY had a company-wide policy of requiring Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to utilize their own personal mobile devices, including cellular phones and/or mobile data, to carry out their job duties, but SUBWAY failed to reimburse them for the costs of their work-related mobile device expenses. For example, Ms. Silva was required to use her personal mobile device to communicate with SUBWAY's management regarding work-related issues and send photos of the restaurant or the cash drawer via text messages. Although SUBWAY required Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to utilize their personal mobile devices to carry out their work-related responsibilities, SUBWAY failed to reimburse them for these costs.

Second, during the relevant time period, SUBWAY, on a company-wide basis, required that Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees use their own personal vehicles to run company errands. For example, Ms. Silva was required to use her personal vehicle and drive to SUBWAY's other location to pick up supplies and return to her restaurant. Although SUBWAY required Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to utilize their personal vehicles to carry out their work-related responsibilities, SUBWAY failed to reimburse them for their mileage or travel expenses.

Third, during the relevant time period, SUBWAY, on a company-wide basis, required Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to obtain and pay for a California Food Handler Card, which was required for their continued employment, as well as associated costs such as training and/or examination fees. For example, Ms. Silva paid approximately $30 to obtain her food handler card, but SUBWAY did not reimburse her for the costs of obtaining it. Thus, SUBWAY failed to reimburse Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees for the costs of obtaining these food handler cards, including training and/or examination fees.

Fourth, during the relevant time period, SUBWAY required Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to wear uniforms bearing the company's logo, including a t-shirt and an apron. However, due to the nature of work in the restaurant preparing food, Ms. Silva's uniform items would become stained with grease, sweaty, soiled, and/or acquire an unpleasant odor such that she was unable to mix these clothes in with other laundry. As a result, Ms. Silva had to wash her uniform items more frequently and separately from her regular clothing, thus incurring additional laundry expenses for the upkeep of her uniforms. Thus, SUBWAY failed to maintain uniforms they required Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees to wear during their shifts and forced them to incur the cost of maintaining employee uniforms.

SUBWAY could have provided Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees with the actual equipment for use on the job, such as company mobile devices and company vehicles, as well as access to laundering services; or SUBWAY could have reimbursed employees for the costs of their mobile device usage, travel and mileage expenses, food handler cards, and laundering expenses or provided a uniform maintenance allowance. Instead, SUBWAY passed these operating costs onto Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees. At all relevant times, Ms. Silva did not earn at least two (2) times the minimum wage.

Thus, SUBWAY had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of not reimbursing employees for expenses necessarily incurred in violation of California Labor Code section 2802. Ms. Silva and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring SUBWAY into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code section 2802, pursuant to Labor Code sections 2699(a), (f), and (k).

California Labor Code § 558(a)

California Labor Code section 558(a) provides "[a]ny employer or other person acting on behalf of an employer who violates, or causes to be violated, a section of this chapter or any provision regulating hours and days of work in any order of the Industrial Welfare Commission shall be subject to a civil penalty as follows: (1) For any initial violation, fifty dollars ($50) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid (2) For each subsequent violation, one hundred dollars ($100) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid” Labor Code section 558(c) provides that “[t]he civil penalties provided for in this section are in addition to any other civil or criminal penalty provided by law.” SUBWAY, at all relevant times, was an employer or person acting on behalf of an employer(s) who violated Ms. Silva’s and other aggrieved employees’ rights by violating various sections of the California Labor Code.

Accordingly, Ms. Silva seeks the remedies set forth in Labor Code section 558 for herself, the State of California, and all other aggrieved employees. Specifically, pursuant to PAGA, and in particular California Labor Code sections 1194.5, 2699(a), 2699(k), 2699.3(a), 2699.3(c), 2699.5, and 558, Ms. Silva acting in the public interest as a private attorney general, seeks assessment and collection of civil penalties and injunctive relief for herself, all other aggrieved employees, and the State of California against SUBWAY for violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802.

Therefore, on behalf of all aggrieved employees, Ms. Silva seeks all applicable civil penalties related to these violations of the California Labor Code pursuant to PAGA.
