Jury Trial Demanded

Plaintiff Manuel Gardea, individually and on behalf of all other members of the public similarly situated, and as an aggrieved employee and on behalf of all aggrieved employees, alleges as follows:

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1. This class action is brought pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 382 and California Labor Code sections 2698, et seq. ("PAGA") to recover civil penalties and any other available relief on behalf of Plaintiff, the State of California, and other current and former employees who worked for Defendants in California as non-exempt, hourly paid employees and received at least one wage statement and against whom one or more violations of any provision in Division 2 Part 2 Chapter 1 of the Labor Code or any provision regulating hours and days of work in the applicable Industrial Welfare Commission ("IWC") Wage Order were committed, as set forth in this complaint. The monetary damages, penalties, and restitution sought by Plaintiff exceeds the minimal jurisdiction limits of the Superior Court and will be established according to proof at trial. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to the California Constitution, Article VI, section 10. The statutes under which this action is brought do not specify any other basis for jurisdiction. Plaintiff's share of damages, penalties, and other relief sought in this action do not exceed $75,000.

2. This Court has jurisdiction over Defendants because Defendants are either citizens of California, have sufficient minimum contacts in California, or otherwise intentionally avail themselves of the California market so as to render the exercise of jurisdiction over them by the California courts consistent with traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice. There is no basis for federal diversity jurisdiction in this action because there is no complete diversity, and this case falls within the statutory exceptions to "minimal diversity" jurisdiction under the Class Action Fairness Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(4). Upon information and belief, two-thirds or more of the class members and Defendants are citizens of California and/or (a) two-thirds of the class members and Defendants are citizens of California; (b) the alleged wage and hour violations occurred in California; (c) significant relief is being sought against Defendants whose violations of California wage and hour laws form a significant basis for Plaintiff's claims; and (d) no other class action has been filed within the past three (3) years on behalf of the same proposed class against Defendants asserting the same or similar factual allegations.

3. Venue is proper in this Court, because Defendants filed Statement of Information forms with the California Secretary of State designating a principal place of business in Fountain Valley, County of Orange, in accordance with California Corporations Code section 2105(a)(3). Cal. Code Civ. P. § 395.5. Venue is also proper in this Court because Defendants employ persons in this county, and employed Plaintiff in this county, and thus a substantial portion of the transactions and occurrences related to this action occurred in this county.

THE PARTIES

4. Plaintiff Manuel Gardea is a resident of Corona, in Riverside County, California. Defendants employed Plaintiff as an hourly paid, non-exempt employee from approximately June 26, 2025 to November 7, 2025. Plaintiff worked as a Programmer for Defendants at their manufacturing facility in Orange County (17375 Mt. Herrmann Street, Fountain Valley, California 92708). During his employment, Plaintiff typically worked eight (8) hours or more per day, and five (5) days per week. At the time Plaintiff's employment with Defendants ended, he was compensated $37.00 per hour. Plaintiff's primary job duties included, without limitation, programming parts, performing machine setups, reprints, adjusting and running machines, and troubleshooting programming issues.

5. METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC. was and is, upon information and belief, a California corporation, and at all times hereinafter mentioned, an employer whose employees are engaged throughout this county and the State of California.

6. CAR PREP INC. was and is, upon information and belief, a California corporation, and at all times hereinafter mentioned, an employer whose employees are engaged throughout this county and the State of California.

7. Plaintiff is unaware of the true names or capacities of the Defendants sued herein under the fictitious names DOES 1 through 10, but will seek leave of this Court to amend the complaint and serve such fictitiously named Defendants once their names and capacities become known.

8. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that DOES 1 through 10 were the partners, agents, owners, or managers of Defendants, at all relevant times.

9. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that each and all of the acts and omissions alleged herein was performed by, or is attributable to, METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC.; CAR PREP INC.; and/or DOES 1 through 10 (collectively, "Defendants" or "METALCRAFTERS"), each acting as the agent, employee, alter ego, and/or joint venturer of, or working in concert with, each of the other co-Defendants and was acting within the course and scope of such agency, employment, joint venture, or concerted activity with legal authority to act on the others' behalf. The acts of any and all Defendants were in accordance with, and represent, the official policy of Defendants.

10. At all relevant times, Defendants, and each of them, ratified each and every act or omission complained of herein. At all relevant times, Defendants, and each of them, aided and abetted the acts and omissions of each and all the other Defendants in proximately causing the damages herein alleged.

11. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that each of said Defendants is in some manner intentionally, negligently, or otherwise responsible for the acts, omissions, occurrences, and transactions alleged herein.

12. Under California law, Defendants are jointly and severally liable as employers for the violations alleged herein because they have each exercised sufficient control over the wages, hours, working conditions, and employment status of Plaintiff and class members. Each Defendant had the power to hire and fire Plaintiff and class members, supervised and controlled their work schedule and/or conditions of employment, determined their rate of pay, and maintained their employment records. Defendants suffered or permitted Plaintiff and class members to work and/or "engaged" Plaintiff and class members so as to create a common-law employment relationship. As joint employers of Plaintiff and class members, Defendants are jointly and severally liable for the civil penalties and all other relief available to Plaintiff and class members under the law.

13. Plaintiff informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that at all relevant times, Defendants, and each of them, have acted as joint employers with respect to Plaintiff and class members because Defendants have.

14. jointly exercised meaningful control over the work performed by Plaintiff and class members;

15. jointly exercised meaningful control over Plaintiff's and class members' wages, hours, and working conditions, including the quantity, quality standards, speed, scheduling, and operative details of the tasks performed by Plaintiff and class members;

16. jointly required that Plaintiff and class members perform work which is an integral part of Defendants' businesses; and

17. jointly exercised control over Plaintiff and class members as a matter of economic reality in that Plaintiff and class members were dependent on Defendants, who shared the power to set the wages of Plaintiff and class members and determined their working conditions, and who jointly reaped the benefits from the underpayment of their wages and noncompliance with other statutory provisions governing their employment.

18. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that at all relevant times there has existed a unity of interest and ownership between Defendants such that any individuality and separateness between the entities has ceased.

19. METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC.; CAR PREP INC.; and DOES 1 through 10 are therefore alter egos of each other.

20. Adherence to the fiction of the separate existence of Defendants would permit an abuse of the corporate privilege, and would promote injustice by protecting Defendants from liability for the wrongful acts committed by them under the name "METALCRAFTERS."

21. Plaintiff further alleges, upon information and belief, that Defendants METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC.; and CAR PREP INC.

are alter egos of each other for the following reasons:

22. On the California Secretary of State's website (https://bizfileonline.sos.ca.gov/), Defendants METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC.; and CAR PREP INC. share the same agent for service of process, "DOUGLAS S SMITH";

23. According to Statement of Information forms filed with the California Secretary of State, METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC. and CAR PREP INC. share the officers, including, but not limited to, Micheal A. Alexander, who serves as Chief Executive Officer of METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC. and CAR PREP INC.; and

24. On information and belief, METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC. and CAR PREP INC. utilize the same standardized employment forms and issue the same employment policies.

GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

25. Defendants specialize in precision CNC machining, advanced composites, prototyping, and glass transparencies and assemblies, serving the aerospace, automotive, and entertainment industries. Upon information and belief, Defendants maintain a single, centralized Human Resources ("HR") department at their company headquarters in Fountain Valley, California, which is responsible for the recruiting and hiring of new employees, and communicating and implementing Defendants' company-wide policies, including timekeeping policies and meal and rest period policies, to employees throughout California.

26. In particular, Plaintiff and class members, on information and belief, received the same standardized documents and/or written policies. Upon information and belief, the usage of standardized documents and/or written policies, including new-hire documents, indicate that Defendants dictated policies at the corporate level and implemented them company-wide, regardless of their employees' assigned locations or positions. Upon information and belief, Defendants set forth uniform policies and procedures in several documents provided at an employee's time of hire.

27. Upon information and belief, Defendants maintain a centralized Payroll department at their company headquarters in Fountain Valley, California, which processes payroll for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for Defendants at their locations e in California, including Plaintiff and class members. Based upon information and belief, Defendants issue the same formatted wage statements to all non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, irrespective of their work locations. Upon information and belief, Defendants process payroll for departing employees in the same manner throughout the State of California, regardless of the manner in which each employee's employment ends.

28. Defendants continue to employ non-exempt or hourly paid employees in California.

29. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that at all times herein mentioned, Defendants were advised by skilled lawyers and other professionals, employees and advisors knowledgeable about California labor and wage law, employment and personnel practices, and about the requirements of California law.

30. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Plaintiff and class members were not paid for all hours worked because all hours worked were not recorded.

31. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to receive certain wages for overtime compensation and that they were not receiving certain wages for overtime compensation.

32. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to receive at least minimum wages for compensation and that they were not receiving at least minimum wages for work that was required to be done off-the-clock. In violation of the California Labor Code, Plaintiff and class members were not paid at least minimum wages for work done off-the-clock.

33. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to meal periods in accordance with the California Labor Code and applicable IWC Wage Order or payment of one (1) additional hour of pay at their regular rates of pay when they were not provided with timely, uninterrupted, thirty (30) minute meal periods and that Plaintiff and class members were not provided with all meal periods or payment of one (1) additional hour of pay at their regular rates of pay when they did not receive a timely, uninterrupted, thirty (30) minute meal period.

34. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to rest periods in accordance with the California Labor Code and applicable IWC Wage Order or payment of one (1) additional hour of pay at their regular rates of pay when they were not authorized and permitted to take a compliant rest period and that Plaintiff and class members were not authorized and permitted to take compliant rest periods or provided with payment of one (1) additional hour of pay at their regular rates of pay when they were not authorized and permitted to take a compliant rest period.

35. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to receive complete and accurate wage statements in accordance with California law. In violation of the California Labor Code, Plaintiff and class members were not provided complete and accurate wage statements.

36. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that they had a duty to maintain accurate and complete payroll records in accordance with the California Labor Code and applicable IWC Wage Order, but willfully, knowingly, and intentionally failed to do so.

37. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to timely payment of all wages earned upon termination of employment. In violation of the California Labor Code, Plaintiff and class members did not receive payment of all wages due, including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, within permissible time periods.

38. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to timely payment of wages during their employment. In violation of the California Labor Code, Plaintiff and class members did not receive payment of all wages, including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, within permissible time periods.

39. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were entitled to receive full reimbursement for all business-related expenses and costs they incurred during the course and scope of their employment and that they did not receive full reimbursement of applicable business-related expenses and costs incurred.

40. Plaintiff is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that at all times herein mentioned, Defendants knew or should have known that they had a duty to compensate Plaintiff and class members for all hours worked, and that Defendants had the financial ability to pay such compensation, but willfully, knowingly, and intentionally failed to do so, and falsely represented to Plaintiff and class members that they were properly denied wages, all in order to increase Defendants' profits.

PAGA REPRESENTATIVE ALLEGATIONS

41. At all times herein set forth, PAGA provides that any provision of law under the Labor Code and applicable IWC Wage Order that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor and Workforce Development Agency ("LWDA") for violations of the California Labor Code and applicable IWC Wage Order may, as an alternative, be recovered by aggrieved employees in a civil action brought on behalf of themselves and other current or former employees pursuant to procedures outlined in California Labor Code section 2699.3.

42. PAGA defines an "aggrieved employee" in Labor Code section 2699(c)(1) as "any person who was employed by the alleged violator and personally suffered each of the violations alleged."

43. Plaintiff and other current and former employees of Defendants are "aggrieved employees" as defined by Labor Code section 2699(c)(1) in that they are all Defendants' current or former employees and each of the alleged violations were committed against them.

44. Pursuant to California Labor Code sections 2699.3 and 2699.5, an aggrieved employee, including Plaintiff, may pursue a civil action arising under PAGA after the following requirements have been met:

(a) The aggrieved employee or representative shall give written notice by online filing with the LWDA and by certified mail to the employer of the specific provisions of the California Labor Code alleged to have been violated, including the facts and theories to support the alleged violation.

(b) An aggrieved employee's notice filed with the LWDA pursuant to 2699.3(a) and any employer response to that notice shall be accompanied by a filing fee of seventy-five dollars ($75).

(c) The LWDA shall notify the employer and the aggrieved employee or representative by certified mail that it does not intend to investigate the alleged violation ("LWDA Notice") within sixty (60) calendar days of the postmark date of the aggrieved employee's notice. Upon receipt of the LWDA Notice, or if no LWDA Notice is provided within sixty-five (65) calendar days of the postmark date of the aggrieved employee's notice, the aggrieved employee may commence a civil action pursuant to California Labor Code section 2699 to recover civil penalties.

45. Pursuant to California Labor Code sections 2699.3(c), aggrieved employees, through Plaintiff, may pursue a civil action arising under PAGA for violations of any provision other than those listed in Section 2699.5 after the following requirements have been met:

(a) The aggrieved employee or representative shall give written notice by online filing with the LWDA and by certified mail to the employer of the specific provisions of the California Labor Code alleged to have been violated (other than those listed in Section 2699.5), including the facts and theories to support the alleged violation.

(b) An aggrieved employee's notice filed with the LWDA pursuant to 2699.3(c) and any employer response to that notice shall be accompanied by a filing fee of seventy-five dollars ($75).

(c) The employer may cure the alleged violation within thirty-three (33) calendar days of the postmark date of the notice sent by the aggrieved employee or representative. The employer shall give written notice within that period of time by certified mail to the aggrieved employee or representative and by online filing with the LWDA if the alleged violation is cured, including a description of actions taken, and no civil action pursuant to Section 2699 may commence. If the alleged violation is not cured within the 33-day period, the aggrieved employee may commence a civil action pursuant to Section 2699.

46. On March 10, 2026, Plaintiff provided written notice by online filing to the LWDA and by Certified Mail to Defendants of the specific provisions of the California Labor Code alleged to have been violated, including facts and theories to support the alleged violations, in accordance with California Labor Code section 2699.3. Plaintiff's written notice was accompanied with the applicable filing fee of seventy-five dollars ($75). The LWDA PAGA Administrator confirmed receipt of Plaintiff's written notice and assigned Plaintiff PAGA Case Number LWDA-CM-1162946-26. A true and correct copy of Plaintiff's written notice to the LWDA and Defendants dated March 10, 2026, is attached hereto as "Exhibit 1".

47. As of the filing date of this amended complaint, over 65 days have passed since Plaintiff sent the notice described above to the LWDA, and the LWDA has not responded that it intends to investigate Plaintiff's claims and Defendants have not cured the violations.

48. Thus, Plaintiff has satisfied the administrative prerequisites under California Labor Code sections 2699.3(a) and 2699.3(c) to recover civil penalties against Defendants for violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802.

49. Labor Code section 558(a) provides "[a]ny employer or other person acting on behalf of an employer who violates, or causes to be violated, a section of this chapter or any provision regulating hours and days of work in any order of the Industrial Welfare Commission shall be subject to a civil penalty as follows: (1) For any initial violation, fifty dollars ($50) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid . . . . (2) For each subsequent violation, one hundred dollars ($100) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid . . . ." Labor Code section 558(c) provides "[t]he civil penalties provided for in this section are in addition to any other civil or criminal penalty provided by law."

50. Defendants, at all times relevant to this complaint, were employers or persons acting on behalf of an employer(s) who violated Plaintiff's and other aggrieved employees' rights by violating various sections of the California Labor Code as set forth above.

51. As set forth below, Defendants have violated numerous provisions of both the Labor Code sections regulating hours and days of work as well as the applicable IWC Wage Order.

52. Pursuant to PAGA, and in particular, California Labor Code sections 1194.5, 2699(a), 2699(k), 2699.3(a), 2699.3(c), 2699.5, and section 558, Plaintiff, acting in the public interest as a private attorney general, seeks assessment and collection of civil penalties and injunctive relief for himself, all other aggrieved employees, and the State of California against Defendants for violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

53. Plaintiff brings this action on his own behalf, as well as on behalf of each and all other persons similarly situated, and thus seeks class certification under California Code of Civil Procedure section 382.

54. All claims alleged herein arise under California law for which Plaintiff seeks relief authorized by California law.

55. Plaintiff's proposed class consists of and is defined as follows:

> All persons who worked for Defendants as non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, within four (4) years prior to the filing of the initial complaint until the date of trial ("Class").

56. Plaintiff's proposed subclass consists of and is defined as follows:

> All persons who worked for Defendants as non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California and who received at least one wage statement within one (1) year prior to the filing of the initial complaint until the date of trial ("Subclass").

57. Members of the Class and Subclass are referred to herein as "class members."

58. Plaintiff reserves the right to redefine the Class and Subclass and to add additional subclasses as appropriate based on further investigation, discovery, and specific theories of liability.

59. There are common questions of law and fact as to class members that predominate over questions affecting only individual members, including, but not limited to:

(a) Whether Defendants required Plaintiff and class members to work over eight (8) hours per day, over twelve (12) hours per day, or over forty (40) hours per week and failed to pay all legally required overtime compensation to Plaintiff and class members;

(b) Whether Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and class members at least minimum wages for all hours worked;

(c) Whether Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff and class members meal periods;

(d) Whether Defendants failed to authorize and permit Plaintiff and class members to take rest periods;

(e) Whether Defendants provided Plaintiff and class members with complete and accurate wage statements as required by California Labor Code section 226(a);

(f) Whether Defendants maintained accurate payroll records as required by

California Labor Code section 1174(d);

(g) Whether Defendants failed to pay earned overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, due to Plaintiff and class members upon their discharge;

(h) Whether Defendants failed to timely pay overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums to Plaintiff and class members during their employment;

(i) Whether Defendants failed to reimburse Plaintiff and class members for necessary and required business-related expenditures and/or losses incurred by them in the scope of their employment;

(j) Whether Defendants engaged in unlawful and unfair business practices in violation of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq.; and

(k) The appropriate amount of damages, restitution, or monetary penalties resulting from Defendants' violations of California law.

60. There is a well-defined community of interest in the litigation and the class members are readily ascertainable:

(a) Numerosity: The class members are so numerous that joinder of all members would be unfeasible and impractical. The membership of the entire class is unknown to Plaintiff at this time; however, the class is estimated to be greater than one hundred (100) individuals and the identity of such membership is readily ascertainable by inspection of Defendants' employment records.

(b) Typicality: Plaintiff is qualified to, and will, fairly and adequately protect the interests of each class member with whom he has a well-defined community of interest, and Plaintiff's claims (or defenses, if any) are typical of all class members as demonstrated herein.

(c) Adequacy: Plaintiff is qualified to, and will, fairly and adequately protect the interests of each class member with whom he has a well-defined community of interest and typicality of claims, as demonstrated herein. Plaintiff acknowledges that he has an obligation to make known to the Court any relationship, conflicts or differences with any class member. Plaintiff's attorneys, the proposed class counsel, are versed in the rules governing class action discovery, certification, and settlement. Plaintiff has incurred, and throughout the duration of this action, will continue to incur costs and attorneys' fees that have been, are, and will be necessarily expended for the prosecution of this action for the substantial benefit of each class member.

(d) Superiority: The nature of this action makes the use of class action adjudication superior to other methods. A class action will achieve economies of time, effort, and expense as compared with separate lawsuits, and will avoid inconsistent outcomes because the same issues can be adjudicated in the same manner and at the same time for the entire class.

(e) Public Policy Considerations: Employers in the State of California violate employment and labor laws every day. Current employees are often afraid to assert their rights out of fear of direct or indirect retaliation. Former employees are fearful of bringing actions because they believe their former employers might damage their future endeavors through negative references and/or other means. Class actions provide the class members who are not named in the complaint with a type of anonymity that allows for the vindication of their rights while simultaneously protecting their privacy.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 510 and 1198—Unpaid Overtime

(Against all Defendants)

61. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

62. Labor Code section 1198 makes it illegal to employ an employee under conditions of labor that are prohibited by the applicable wage order. California Labor Code section 1198 requires that ". . . the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the . . . standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee . . . under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful."

63. California Labor Code section 1198 and the applicable IWC Wage Order provide that it is unlawful to employ persons without compensating them at a rate of pay either time-and-one-half or two-times that person's regular rate of pay, depending on the number of hours worked by the person on a daily or weekly basis.

64. Specifically, the applicable IWC Wage Order provides that Defendants are and were required to pay Plaintiff and class members working more than eight (8) hours in a day or more than forty (40) hours in a workweek, at the rate of time and one-half (1 ½) for all hours worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day or more than forty (40) hours in a workweek.

65. The applicable IWC Wage Order further provides that Defendants are and were required to pay Plaintiff and class members working more than twelve (12) hours in a day, overtime compensation at a rate of two (2) times their regular rate of pay. An employee's regular rate of pay includes all remuneration for employment paid to, or on behalf of, the employee, including nondiscretionary bonuses and incentive pay.

66. California Labor Code section 510 codifies the right to overtime compensation at one and one-half (1 ½) times the regular rate of pay for hours worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day or forty (40) hours in a week or for the first eight (8) hours worked on the seventh (7th) day of work, and to overtime compensation at twice the employee's regular rate of pay for hours worked in excess of twelve (12) hours in a day or in excess of eight (8) hours in a day on the seventh (7th) day of work.

67. During the relevant time period, Defendants willfully failed to pay all overtime wages owed to Plaintiff and class members. During the relevant time period, Plaintiff and class members were not paid overtime premiums for all of the hours they worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day, in excess of twelve (12) hours in a day, and/or in excess of forty (40) hours in a week, because all hours worked were not recorded.

68. First, during the relevant time period, Defendants had, and continue to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of requiring Plaintiff and class members to perform work-related tasks while off-the-clock after their shifts. For example, because Plaintiff was responsible for ensuring that machines and overnight programs were properly set so that the next shift could continue production without disruption, approximately 2-3 times per week, Plaintiff felt pressured to address machine malfunctions or correct programming issues after he clocked out and as he was leaving the facility, which would take up to 30 minutes per instance to complete. Defendants were aware that Plaintiff performed this work after clocking out but failed to track the time Plaintiff and class members spent working off-the-clock after their scheduled shift times, and Plaintiff and class members received no compensation for this time.

69. Second, Defendants had, and continue to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of assigning heavy workloads, including pressuring employees to meet productivity requirements for the facility. Defendants' policies and/or practices resulted in a failure to provide Plaintiff and class members with adequate meal period coverage. Moreover, Defendants failed to schedule for meal periods, which further caused Plaintiff and class members to not be relieved of their duties for compliant meal periods. As a result, Plaintiff and class members were not always afforded uninterrupted 30-minute meal periods during shifts when they were entitled to receive a meal period.

70. For example, when Plaintiff was in the middle of a first-run setup or monitoring a long-running incremental program, he would work through all or part of his meal periods in order to remain attentive to machine performance and intervene if adjustments were necessary. Thus, Plaintiff and class members worked through meal periods and/or had meal periods cut short or interrupted in order to handle their workloads. Defendants did not compensate Plaintiff and class members for the time they spent working off the clock during meal periods.

71. Third, Defendants required Plaintiff and class members to use their personal mobile devices to communicate with supervisors and coworkers at all times, including during unpaid meal periods. Defendants expected that Plaintiff and class members promptly respond to calls at all times to discuss work-related matters. For example, during Plaintiff's meal periods, his supervisors and coworkers would contact Plaintiff regarding machine issues or production matters. Defendants knew or should have known that Plaintiff and class members were being made to respond to management while off-the-clock and during meal periods in order to meet Defendants' expectations, but failed to compensate them for this time worked.

72. Defendants knew or should have known that as a result of these company-wide practices and/or policies, Plaintiff and class members were performing their assigned duties off-the-clock after their shifts and during meal periods, and were suffered or permitted to perform work for which they were not paid. Because Plaintiff and class members worked shifts of eight (8) hours or more a day, or forty (40) hours a week or more, some of this off-the-clock work qualified for overtime premium pay. Therefore, Plaintiff and class members were not paid overtime wages for all of the overtime hours they actually worked.

73. Defendants' failure to pay Plaintiff and class members the balance of overtime compensation as required by California law, violates the provisions of California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198. Pursuant to California Labor Code section 1194, Plaintiff and class members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants their unpaid overtime compensation, as well as interest, costs, and attorneys' fees.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198—Unpaid Minimum Wages

(Against all Defendants)

74. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

75. At all relevant times, California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 provide that the minimum wage for employees fixed by the IWC is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, and the payment of a wage less than the minimum so fixed is unlawful. Compensable work time is defined in IWC Wage Order No. 1-2001 as "the time during which an employee is subject to the control of an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so." Cal. Code Regs. Tit. 8, § 11010(2)(G) (defining "Hours Worked").

76. First, as set forth above, Defendants had, and continue to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of failing to pay Plaintiff and class members for actual hours worked, including time spent performing job duties after clocking out at the end of their scheduled shifts. Defendants failed to track this time that Plaintiff and class members spent working off-the-clock, and Plaintiff and class members received no compensation for this time.

77. Second, due to Defendants' policies and/or practices of assigning heavy workloads (including pressure to meet productivity requirements), failing to schedule meal periods, and requiring employees to respond to work-related communications during meal periods, Plaintiff and class members were impeded from taking all uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled and were required to work off-the-clock during meal periods, have their meal periods interrupted, and/or were otherwise not relieved of all duties during unpaid meal periods. Defendants did not compensate Plaintiff and class members for the time they spent working off the clock during unpaid meal periods.

78. Defendants did not pay minimum wages for all hours worked by Plaintiff and class members. To the extent that these off-the-clock hours did not qualify for overtime premium payment, Defendants did not pay at least minimum wages for those hours worked off-the-clock in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198.

79. Defendants' failure to pay Plaintiff and class members minimum wages violates California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198. Pursuant to California Labor Code section 1194.2, Plaintiff and class members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants liquidated damages in an amount equal to the wages unlawfully unpaid and interest thereon.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198—Meal Period Violations

(Against all Defendants)

80. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

81. At all relevant times herein set forth, the applicable IWC Wage Order and California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 were applicable to Plaintiff's and class members' employment by Defendants. At all relevant times herein set forth, California Labor Code section 512(a) provides that an employer may not require, cause, or permit an employee to work for a period of more than five (5) hours per day without providing the employee with a meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes, except that if the total work period per day of the employee is not more than six (6) hours, the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of both the employer and the employee. Under California law, first meal periods must start after no more than five hours. Brinker Rest. Corp. v. Superior Court, 53 Cal.4th 1004, 1041-1042 (2012).

82. At all relevant times herein set forth, California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 provide that no employer shall require an employee to work during any meal period mandated by an applicable order of the IWC.

83. At all relevant times herein set forth, Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order also require employers to provide a second meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes if an employee works over ten (10) hours per day or to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate, except that if the total hours worked is no more than twelve (12) hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived.

84. First, during the relevant time period, as stated, Defendants' company-wide policies and/or practices of assigning heavy workloads (including pressuring employees to meet productivity requirements), resulted in a failure to provide Plaintiff and class members with adequate meal period coverage. Because Defendants required adherence to production deadlines to meet the facility's productivity demands, there was no one available to relieve employees needing meal period coverage, and Plaintiff and class members were not always afforded timely, uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled. Moreover, Defendants failed to schedule meal periods, which further caused Plaintiff and class members to not be relieved of their duties for compliant meal periods. As a result, Plaintiff and class members had to work through all or part of their meal periods, had their meal periods interrupted, and/or had to wait extended periods of time before taking meal periods. For example, Plaintiff missed his meal periods or would take his meal periods late due to production demands, including during first-run setups and while monitoring long-running incremental programs. During these periods, Plaintiff's ability to take a compliant meal period depended on reaching a safe operational stopping point rather than being fully relieved of a duty at a consistent scheduled time.

85. Second, as also stated, Defendants had a company-wide policy and/or practice of requiring that Plaintiff and class members carry their personal mobile devices and respond to work-related communications at all times, including during meal periods, in order to meet Defendants' expectations. As a result, Defendants' management contacted Plaintiff and class members on their personal cellular phones during meal periods to discuss work-related matters, resulting in noncompliant, interrupted meal periods.

86. Third, Plaintiff and class members worked shifts in excess of ten (10) hours without receiving an uninterrupted second 30-minute meal period. For example, during his employment, Plaintiff regularly worked shifts in excess of ten (10) or more hours per day, but was not provided a second 30-minute meal period. Plaintiff and class members did not sign valid meal period waivers on days that they were entitled to meal periods and were not relieved of all duties.

87. Moreover, on information and belief, Defendants had a company-wide policy of requiring all newly hired employees to sign blanket meal period waivers at or near their time of hire. Defendants took the position that non-exempt, hourly paid employees had waived their rights to first and/or second meal periods for the entirety of their employment and, on that basis, did not provide them with all meal periods to which they were entitled. Further, Defendants' "Meal Break Waiver Agreement" form requires employees to provide written notice should they wish to revoke the waiver. Defendants' presumption that meal periods would not be provided for shifts in excess of five (5) hours but less than six (6) hours and/or for shifts in excess of ten (10) hours but less than twelve (12) hours, due to blanket meal period waivers signed at or near the time of hire, and imposition on employees to revoke the waivers in writing, discouraged and impeded Plaintiff and class members from taking all meal periods to which they were entitled.

88. Furthermore, an employer's obligation to provide a meal period is only "triggered" when the employer "employs an employee for a work period of more than five hours per day." Brinker, 53 Cal.4th at 1039 ("If an employer engages, suffers, or permits anyone to work for a full five hours, its meal break obligation is triggered.").

> [A]fter the meal break obligation is triggered . . . an employer is put to a choice: it must (1) afford an off-duty meal period; (2) consent to a mutually agreed-upon waiver if one hour or less will end the shift; or (3) obtain written agreement to an on-duty meal period if circumstances permit. Failure to do one of these will render the employer liable for premium pay.

Id. (citing Cal. Labor Code § 226.7; Wage Order No. 5, subd. 11(A), (B)). That Defendants required Plaintiff and class members to sign meal period waivers simultaneously at or near the time of hire (as opposed to on a specific work day) renders them invalid and unenforceable, because Defendants' obligation to provide Plaintiff and class members with meal periods did not arise until Defendants had employed them for a full five (5) hours.

89. At all times mentioned herein, Defendants knew or should have known that as a result of their policies, Plaintiff and class members were prevented from being relieved of all duties and were required to perform some of their assigned duties during meal periods. Defendants further knew or should have known that they did not pay Plaintiff and class members meal period premiums when meal periods were late, interrupted, shortened, and/or missed.

90. Moreover, Defendants engaged in a company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying all meal period premiums owed when compliant meal periods are not provided. Because of this practice and/or policy, Plaintiff and class members have not received premium pay for missed, late, and interrupted meal periods. As a result, Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff and class members compliant meal periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), and 516 and failed to pay the full meal period premiums due.

91. Defendants' conduct violates the applicable IWC Wage Order, and California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198. Plaintiff and class members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each work day that the meal period was not provided.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, and 1198—Rest Period Violations

(Against all Defendants)

92. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

93. At all relevant times herein set forth, the applicable IWC Wage Order and California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198 were applicable to Plaintiff's and class members' employment by Defendants.

94. At all relevant times, the applicable IWC Wage Order provides that "[e]very employer shall authorize and permit all employees to take rest periods, which insofar as practicable shall be in the middle of each work period" and that the "rest period time shall be based on the total hours worked daily at the rate of ten (10) minutes net rest time per four (4) hours or major fraction thereof" unless the total daily work time is less than three and one-half (3 ½) hours.

95. At all relevant times, California Labor Code section 226.7 provides that no employer shall require an employee to work during any rest period mandated by an applicable order of the California IWC. To comply with its obligation to authorize and permit rest periods under California Labor Code section 226.7 and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer must "relinquish any control over how employees spend their break time, and relieve their employees of all duties—including the obligation that an employee remain on call. A rest period, in short, must be a period of rest." Augustus v. ABM Security Services, Inc., 2 Cal.5th 257, 273 (2016).

96. During the relevant time period, Defendants regularly failed to authorize and permit Plaintiff and class members to take a ten (10) minute rest period per each four (4) hour period worked or major fraction thereof. As with meal periods, Defendants' company-wide practices, including assigning heavy workloads, including pressuring employees to meet productivity requirements, prevented Plaintiff and class members from being relieved of all duty to take rest periods. Defendants also failed to schedule for rest periods, which, coupled with Defendants' failure to provide adequate rest period coverage, further led to Plaintiff and class members not being authorized and permitted to take rest periods.

97. In addition, as stated, Defendants engaged in a company-wide policy and/or practice requiring that Plaintiff and class members carry and respond to their personal mobile devices during rest periods to respond to work-related questions, which prevented Plaintiff and class members from being able to uninterrupted take rest periods.

98. Furthermore, upon information and belief, during the relevant time period, Defendants maintained a company-wide on-premises rest period policy, which effectively required that Plaintiff and class members remain on the work premises during their rest periods. Because Plaintiff and class members were restricted from leaving the premises during rest periods, they were denied the ability to use their rest periods freely for their own purposes, such as running personal errands. Thus, Defendants effectively maintained control over Plaintiff and class members during rest periods.

99. As a result of Defendants' practices and policies, Plaintiff and class members worked shifts in excess of 3.5 hours, in excess of 6 hours, and/or in excess of 10 hours without receiving all uninterrupted 10-minute rest periods to which they were entitled. For example, Plaintiff frequently had to forgo his rest periods in order to monitor machine performance and tool changes.

100. Defendants also have engaged in a company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying rest period premiums owed when compliant rest periods are not authorized and permitted. Because of this practice and/or policy, Plaintiff and class members have not received premium pay for all missed rest periods. As a result, Defendants denied Plaintiff and class members rest periods and failed to pay them rest period premiums due, in violation of Labor Code sections 226.7 and 516, and the applicable IWC Wage Order.

101. Defendants' conduct violates the applicable IWC Wage Order and California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198. Plaintiff and class members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each work day that a compliant rest period was not authorized and permitted.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198—Non-Compliant Wage Statements and Failure to Maintain Accurate Payroll Records

(Against all Defendants)

102. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

103. At all relevant times herein set forth, California Labor Code section 226(a) provides that every employer shall furnish each of his or her employees an accurate and complete itemized wage statement in writing, including, but not limited to, the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer, the inclusive dates of the pay period, total hours worked, and all applicable rates of pay.

104. At all relevant times, Defendants have knowingly and intentionally provided Plaintiff and Subclass members with uniform, incomplete, and inaccurate wage statements.

For example, Defendants issued uniform wage statements to Plaintiff and Subclass members that fail to correctly list: gross wages earned; total hours worked; net wages earned; and all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period, including rates of pay for overtime wages, and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate. Specifically, Defendants violated sections 226(a)(1), 226(a)(2), 226(a)(5), and 226(a)(9).

105. Because Defendants did not record the time Plaintiff and Subclass members spent working off the clock and deducted time from their records for meal periods that were interrupted and/or missed (and therefore time for which they should have been paid), Defendants did not list the correct amount of gross wages and net wages earned by Plaintiff and Subclass members in compliance with sections 226(a)(1) and 226(a)(5). For the same reason, Defendants failed to accurately list the total number of hours worked by Plaintiff and Subclass members, in violation of section 226(a)(2), and failed to list the applicable hourly rates of pay in effect during the pay period and the corresponding accurate number of hours worked at each hourly rate, in violation of section 226(a)(9).

106. On information and belief, the wage statement deficiencies also include, among other things, failing to list the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis; failing to list all deductions; failing to list the inclusive dates of the period for which employees were paid; failing to list the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number; failing to list the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer; and/or failing to state all hours worked as a result of not recording or stating hours worked off-the-clock.

107. California Labor Code section 1174(d) provides that "[e]very person employing labor in this state shall . . . [k]eep a record showing the names and addresses of all employees employed and the ages of all minors" and "[k]eep, at a central location in the state or at the plants or establishments at which employees are employed, payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments . . . .” At all relevant times, and in violation of Labor Code section 1174(d), Defendants willfully failed to maintain accurate payroll records for Plaintiff and Subclass members showing the daily hours they worked and the wages paid thereto as a result of failing to record the off-the-clock hours that they worked.

108. California Labor Code section 1198 provides that the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor shall be those fixed by the Labor Commissioner and as set forth in the applicable IWC Wage Order. Section 1198 further provides that “[t]he employment of any employees for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.” Pursuant to the applicable IWC Wage Order, employers are required to keep accurate time records showing when the employee begins and ends each work period and meal period. During the relevant time period, Defendants engaged in company-wide practices and/or policies of failing to record actual hours worked, and thereby failed to keep accurate records of work period and meal period start and end times for Plaintiff and Subclass members, in violation of section 1198. Also, in light of Defendants’ failure to provide Plaintiff and Subclass members with second 30-minute meal periods to which they were entitled, Defendants kept no records of meal start and end times for second meal periods.

109. Plaintiff and Subclass members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants the greater of their actual damages caused by Defendants’ failure to comply with California Labor Code section 226(a), or an aggregate penalty not exceeding four thousand dollars ($4,000) per employee.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 201 and 202—Wages Not Timely Paid Upon Termination

(Against all Defendants)

110. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

111. This cause of action is dependent upon, and wholly derivative of, the overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums that were not timely paid to Plaintiff and those class members no longer employed by Defendants upon their termination.

112. At all times relevant herein set forth, Labor Code sections 201 and 202 provide that if an employer discharges an employee, the wages earned and unpaid at the time of discharge are due and payable immediately, and that if an employee voluntarily leaves his or her employment, his or her wages shall become due and payable not later than seventy-two (72) hours thereafter, unless the employee has given seventy-two (72) hours previous notice of his or her intention to quit, in which case the employee is entitled to his or her wages at the time of quitting.

113. Defendants willfully failed to pay Plaintiff and class members who are no longer employed by Defendants the earned and unpaid wages set forth above, including but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, either at the time of discharge, or within seventy-two (72) hours of their leaving Defendants' employ.

114. Defendants' failure to pay Plaintiff and class members who are no longer employed by Defendants their wages earned and unpaid at the time of discharge, or within seventy-two (72) hours of their leaving Defendants' employ, violates Labor Code sections 201 and 202. Plaintiff and class members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants the statutory penalty wages for each day they were not paid, at their regular rate of pay, up to a thirty (30) day maximum pursuant to California Labor Code section 203.

SEVENTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code § 204—Failure to Timely Pay Wages During Employment

(Against all Defendants)

115. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

116. This cause of action is dependent upon, and wholly derivative of, the overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums that were not timely paid to Plaintiff and class members during their employment.

117. At all times relevant herein set forth, Labor Code section 204 provides that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the first (1st) and the fifteenth (15th) days, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the sixteenth (16th) and the twenty-sixth (26th) day of the month during which the labor was performed. Labor Code section 204 further provides that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the sixteenth (16th) and the last day, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the first (1st) and the tenth (10th) day of the following month.

118. At all times relevant herein, Labor Code section 204 provides that all wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period. Alternatively, at all times relevant herein, Labor Code section 204 provides that the requirements of this section are deemed satisfied by the payment of wages for weekly, biweekly, or semimonthly payroll if the wages are paid not more than seven (7) calendar days following the close of the payroll period.

119. During the relevant time period, Defendants willfully failed to pay Plaintiff and class members all wages due including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, within the time periods specified by California Labor Code section 204.

120. Defendants' failure to pay Plaintiff and class members all wages due violates Labor Code section 204. Plaintiff and class members are therefore entitled to recover from Defendants the statutory penalty wages pursuant to California Labor Code section 210.

EIGHTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Labor Code § 2802—Unpaid Business-Related Expenses

(Against all Defendants)

121. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

122. At all times herein set forth, California Labor Code section 2802 provides that an employer must reimburse employees for all necessary expenditures and losses incurred by the employee in the performance of his or her job. The purpose of Labor Code section 2802 is to prevent employers from passing off their cost of doing business and operating expenses on to their employees. Cochran v. Schwan's Home Service, Inc., 228 Cal.App.4th 1137, 1144 (2014). The applicable wage order, IWC Wage Order No. 1-2001, provides that: "[w]hen the employer requires the use of tools or equipment or they are necessary to the performance of a job, such tools and equipment shall be provided and maintained by the employer, except that an employee whose wages are at least two (2) times the minimum wage may provide and maintain hand tools and equipment customarily required by the particular trade or craft."

123. During the relevant time period, Defendants, on a company-wide basis, required that Plaintiff and class members use their own personal mobile devices, including, but not limited to, cellular phones, and/or mobile data to carry out their job duties, but failed to reimburse them for the costs of their work-related mobile device expenses. For example, Plaintiff and class members were required to use their personal mobile devices for work-related tasks, including taking photographs of machines and parts, documenting programming and production issues, and communicating with co-workers and supervisors regarding operational matters. Plaintiff used his personal cellular phone for work-related purposes almost every day and estimated that approximately eighty percent (80%) of his phone usage was work-related. Although Defendants required Plaintiff and class members to utilize their personal mobile devices and/or mobile data to carry out their work-related responsibilities, Defendants failed to reimburse them for these costs.

124. Defendants could have provided Plaintiff and class members with the actual equipment for use on the job, such as company mobile devices. Or, Defendants could have reimbursed employees for the costs of their mobile device usage. Instead, Defendants passed these operating costs onto Plaintiff and class members.

125. Defendants' company-wide policy and/or practice of not reimbursing employees for expenses necessarily incurred and passing on their operating costs to Plaintiff and class members violates California Labor Code section 2802. Defendants have intentionally and willfully failed to reimburse Plaintiff and class members for necessary business-related expenses and costs.

126. Pursuant to California Labor Code section 2802, Plaintiff and class members are entitled to recover from Defendants their business-related expenses incurred during the course and scope of their employment, plus interest, costs, and attorneys' fees.

NINTH CAUSE OF ACTION

For Civil Penalties Pursuant to California Labor Code §§ 2698, et seq.

(Against all Defendants)

127. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

128. California Labor Code sections 2698, et seq. permit Plaintiff to recover civil penalties for the violation(s) of the Labor Code sections enumerated in Labor Code section 2699.5. Section 2699.5 enumerates Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 1174(d), and 1198. Labor Code section 2699.3(c) permits aggrieved employees, including Plaintiff, to recover civil penalties for violations of those Labor Code sections not found in section 2699.5, including sections 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 2802.

129. Defendants' conduct, as alleged herein, violates numerous sections of the California Labor Code, including, but not limited to, the following:

130. Violation of Labor Code sections 510 and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order for Defendants' failure to compensate Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees with all required overtime pay, as alleged herein;

131. Violation of Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order for Defendants' failure to compensate Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees with at least minimum wages for all hours worked, as alleged herein;

132. Violation of Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order for Defendants' failure to provide Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees with meal periods, as alleged herein;

133. Violation of Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order for Defendants' failure to authorize and permit Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees to take rest periods, as alleged herein;

134. Violation of Labor Code sections 226(a) and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order for failure to provide accurate and complete wage statements to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees, as alleged herein;

135. Violation of Labor Code sections 1174(d) and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order for failure to maintain payroll records, as alleged herein;

136. Violation of Labor Code sections 201 and 202 for failure to pay all earned wages upon termination, as alleged herein;

137. Violation of Labor Code section 204 for failure to pay all earned wages during employment, as alleged herein; and

138. Violation of Labor Code section 2802 for failure to reimburse Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees for all business expenses necessarily incurred, as alleged herein.

139. Therefore, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties pursuant to Labor Code sections 2699(a), (f), and (k).

TENTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Business & Professions Code §§ 17200, et seq. – Unlawful Business Practices

(Against all Defendants)

140. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

141. Defendants are "persons" as defined by California Business & Professions Code section 17201, as they are corporations, firms, partnerships, joint stock companies, and/or associations.

142. Defendants' conduct, as alleged herein, has been, and continues to be, unfair, unlawful and harmful to Plaintiff, class members, and to the general public. Plaintiff has suffered injuries in fact and has lost money as a result of Defendants' unlawful business practices. Plaintiff seeks to enforce important rights affecting the public interest within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5.

143. Defendants' activities, as alleged herein, are violations of California law, and constitute unlawful business acts and practices in violation of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq.

144. A violation of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq. may be predicated on the violation of any state or federal law. In the instant case, Defendants' policies and practices have violated state law in at least the following respects:

145. Requiring non-exempt, hourly paid employees, including Plaintiff and class members, to work overtime without paying them proper compensation in violation of California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order, as alleged herein;

146. Failing to include all forms of remuneration in the regular rate of pay as required by law for purposes of paying overtime wages and/or meal and rest period premiums to Plaintiff and class members, in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 510, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order, as alleged herein;

147. Failing to pay at least minimum wage to Plaintiff and class members in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order, as alleged herein;

148. Failing to provide all meal periods to Plaintiff and class members in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order, as alleged herein;

149. Failing to authorize and permit Plaintiff and class members to take all rest periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order, as alleged herein;

150. Failing to provide Plaintiff and class members with accurate wage statements and failing to maintain accurate payroll records in violation of California Labor Code sections 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order, as alleged herein;

151. Failing timely to pay all earned wages to Plaintiff and class members in violation of California Labor Code sections 204, as alleged herein; and

152. Failing to reimburse Plaintiff and class members for all business expenses necessarily incurred in violation of California Labor Code section 2802, as alleged herein.

153. As a result of the violations of California law herein described, Defendants unlawfully gained an unfair advantage over other businesses. Plaintiff and class members have suffered pecuniary loss by Defendants' unlawful business acts and practices alleged herein.

154. Pursuant to California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq., Plaintiff and class members are entitled to restitution of the wages withheld and retained by Defendants during a period that commences four years prior to the filing of the initial complaint; a permanent injunction requiring Defendants to pay all outstanding wages due to Plaintiff and class members; and an award of attorneys' fees pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5 and other applicable laws; and an award of costs.

ELEVENTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Violation of California Business & Professions Code §§ 17200, et seq. – Unfair Business Practices

(Against all Defendants)

155. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and re-alleges as if fully stated herein each and every allegation set forth above.

156. Defendants are "persons" as defined by California Business & Professions Code section 17201, as they are corporations, firms, partnerships, joint stock companies, and/or associations.

157. Defendants' conduct, as alleged herein, has been, and continues to be, unfair, and harmful to Plaintiff, class members, and to the general public. Plaintiff has suffered injuries in fact and has lost money as a result of Defendants' unfair business practices. Plaintiff seeks to enforce important rights affecting the public interest within the meaning of Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5.

158. Defendants' activities, namely Defendants' company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying Plaintiff and class members all meal and rest period premiums due to them under Labor Code section 226.7, deprived Plaintiff and class members of the compensation guarantee and enhanced enforcement implemented by section 226.7. The statutory remedy provided by section 226.7 is a "'dual-purpose' remedy intended primarily to compensate employees, and secondarily to shape employer conduct." Safeway, Inc. v. Superior Court, 238 Cal.App.4th 1138, 1149 (2015). The statutory benefits of section 226.7 were guaranteed to Plaintiff and class members as part of their employment with Defendants, and thus Defendants' practice and/or policy of denying these statutory benefits constitutes an unfair business practice in violation of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq. (Id.)

159. A violation of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq. may be predicated on any unfair business practice. In the instant case, Defendants' policies and practices have violated the spirit of California's meal and rest period laws and constitute acts against the public policy behind these laws.

160. Pursuant to California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq., Plaintiff and class members are entitled to restitution for the class-wide loss of the statutory benefits implemented by section 226.7 withheld and retained by Defendants during a period that commences four years prior to the filing of the initial complaint; a permanent injunction requiring Defendants to pay all statutory benefits implemented by section 226.7 due to Plaintiff and class members; an award of attorneys' fees pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5 and other applicable laws; and an award of costs.

REQUEST FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiff requests a trial by jury.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Plaintiff, on behalf of all others similarly situated, prays for relief and judgment against Defendants, jointly and severally, as follows:

161. For damages, unpaid wages, penalties, injunctive relief, and attorneys' fees in excess of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000), exclusive of interest and costs. Plaintiff reserves the right to amend his prayer for relief to seek a different amount.

Class Certification

162. That this case be certified as a class action;

163. That Plaintiff be appointed as the representatives of the Class and Subclass;

164. That counsel for Plaintiff be appointed as class counsel.

165. As to the First Cause of Action

166. That the Court declare, adjudge, and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order by willfully failing to pay all overtime wages due to Plaintiff and class members;

167. For general unpaid wages at overtime wage rates and such general and special damages as may be appropriate;

168. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid overtime compensation commencing from the date such amounts were due, or as otherwise provided by law;

169. For reasonable attorneys' fees and for costs of suit incurred herein pursuant to California Labor Code section 1194(a); and

170. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Second Cause of Action

171. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order by willfully failing to pay minimum wages to Plaintiff and class members;

172. For general unpaid wages and such general and special damages as may be appropriate;

173. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid compensation from the date such amounts were due, or as otherwise provided by law;

174. For reasonable attorneys' fees and for costs of suit incurred herein pursuant to California Labor Code section 1194(a);

175. For liquidated damages pursuant to California Labor Code section 1194.2; and

176. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Third Cause of Action

177. That the Court declare, adjudge, and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order by willfully failing to provide all meal periods to Plaintiff and class members;

178. That the Court make an award to the Plaintiff and class members of one (1) hour of pay at each employee's regular rate of pay for each workday that a meal period was not provided;

179. For all actual, consequential, and incidental losses and damages, according to proof;

180. For premiums pursuant to California Labor Code section 226.7(c);

181. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid meal period premiums from the date such amounts were due, or as otherwise provided by law;

182. For attorneys' fees pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5, or as otherwise provided by law; and

183. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Fourth Cause of Action

184. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the applicable IWC Wage Order by willfully failing to authorize and permit Plaintiff and class members to take all rest periods;

185. That the Court make an award to the Plaintiff and class members of one (l) hour of pay at each employee's regular rate of pay for each workday that a rest period was not authorized and permitted;

186. For all actual, consequential, and incidental losses and damages, according to proof;

187. For premiums pursuant to California Labor Code section 226.7(c);

188. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid rest period premiums from the date such amounts were due, or as otherwise provided by law;

189. For attorneys' fees pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5, or as otherwise provided by law; and

190. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Fifth Cause of Action

191. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated the recordkeeping provisions of California Labor Code section 226(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order as to Plaintiff and Subclass members, and willfully failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements thereto;

192. For all actual, consequential, and incidental losses and damages, according to proof;

193. For injunctive relief pursuant to California Labor Code section 226(h);

194. For statutory penalties pursuant to California Labor Code section 226(e);

195. For attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to California Labor Code section 226(e)(1); and

196. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Sixth Cause of Action

197. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code sections 201 and 202 by willfully failing to pay overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums owed at the time of termination of the employment of Plaintiff and other terminated class members;

198. For all actual, consequential and incidental losses and damages, according to proof;

199. For waiting time penalties according to proof pursuant to California Labor Code section 203 for all employees who have left Defendants' employ;

200. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid wages from the date such amounts were due, or as otherwise provided by law;

201. For attorneys' fees pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5, or as otherwise provided by law; and

202. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Seventh Cause of Action

203. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code section 204 by willfully failing to timely pay Plaintiff and class members overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums during their employment;

204. For all actual, consequential and incidental losses and damages, according to proof;

205. For statutory penalties, plus 25 percent of the amount of wages unlawfully withheld, according to proof pursuant to California Labor Code section 210;

206. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid wages from the date such amounts were due, or as otherwise provided by law;

207. For attorneys' fees pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5, or as otherwise provided by law; and

208. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Eighth Cause of Action

209. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated California Labor Code section 2802 by willfully failing to reimburse and/or indemnify all business-related expenses and costs incurred by Plaintiff and class members;

210. For unpaid business-related expenses and such general and special damages as may be appropriate;

211. For pre-judgment interest on any unpaid business-related expenses from the date such amounts were due pursuant to California Labor Code section 2802(b), or as otherwise provided by law;

212. For all actual, consequential, and incidental losses and damages, according to proof;

213. For attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to California Labor Code section 2802(c), or as otherwise provided by law; and

214. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Ninth Cause of Action

215. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants violated the following California Labor Code provisions as to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees: 510 and 1198 (by failing to pay all overtime compensation); 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 (by failing to pay at least minimum wages for all hours worked); 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 (by failing to provide all meal periods); 226.7, 516, and 1198 (by failing to authorize and permit all rest periods); 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198 (by failing to provide accurate wage statements and maintain accurate payroll records); 201 and 202 (by failing to timely pay all earned wages upon termination); 204 (by failing to timely pay all earned wages during employment); and 2802 (by failing to reimburse business expenses);

216. For civil penalties pursuant to the California Labor Code, including sections 210, 226.3, 256, 558, 1174.5, and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k), for violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802;

217. For injunctive relief pursuant to California Labor Code sections 1194.5 and/or 2699(k) to bring Defendants into compliance with the requirements of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802;

218. For attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to California Labor Code section 2699(k)(1), and any and all other relevant statutes, for Defendants' violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802;

219. For pre-judgment and post-judgment interest as provided by law; and

220. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

Tenth Cause of Action

221. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants' conduct of failing to provide Plaintiff and class members all overtime wages due to them, failing to provide Plaintiff and class members all minimum wages due to them, failing to provide Plaintiff and class members all meal periods, failing to authorize and permit Plaintiff and class members to take all rest periods, failing to provide Plaintiff and class members accurate and complete wage statements, failing to maintain accurate payroll records for Plaintiff and class members, failing to timely pay Plaintiff and class members all earned wages during employment, and failing to reimburse Plaintiff and class members for business-related expenses, constitutes an unlawful business practice in violation of California Business and Professions Code sections 17200, et seq.;

222. For restitution of unpaid wages to Plaintiff and all class members and prejudgment interest from the day such amounts were due and payable;

223. For the appointment of a receiver to receive, manage and distribute any and all funds disgorged from Defendants and determined to have been wrongfully acquired by Defendants as a result of violations of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq.;

224. For reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of suit incurred herein pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5; and

225. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

As to the Eleventh Cause of Action

226. That the Court declare, adjudge and decree that Defendants' conduct of denying Plaintiff and class members the statutory benefits guaranteed under section 226.7 constitutes an unfair business practice in violation of California Business and Professions Code sections 17200, et seq.;

227. For restitution of the statutory benefits under section 226.7 unfairly withheld from Plaintiff and class members and prejudgment interest from the day such amounts were due and payable;

228. For the appointment of a receiver to receive, manage and distribute any and all funds disgorged from Defendants and determined to have been wrongfully acquired by Defendants as a result of violations of California Business & Professions Code sections 17200, et seq.;

229. For reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of suit incurred herein pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure section 1021.5;

230. For pre-judgment and post-judgment interest as provided by law; and

231. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem equitable and appropriate.

Subject: Manuel Gardea v. Metalcrafters Transparencies and Composites, Inc., et al.

Dear PAGA Administrator:

This office represents Manuel Gardea in connection with his claims under the California Labor Code. Mr. Gardea was an employee of METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC., and/or CAR PREP INC. For the purpose of this letter, Mr. Gardea collectively refers to these entities as "METALCRAFTERS."

The employers may be contacted directly at the addresses below:

METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES
AND COMPOSITES, INC.
17375 MT. HERRMANN STREET
FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CA 92708

CAR PREP INC.
10835 KALAMA RIVER
FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CA 92708

Mr. Gardea intends to seek civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and other available relief for violations of the California Labor Code, which are recoverable under sections 2698, et seq., the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 ("PAGA"). Mr. Gardea seeks relief on behalf of himself, the State of California, and other persons who are or were employed by METALCRAFTERS as a non-exempt, hourly paid employee in California and who received at least one wage statement ("aggrieved employees"). This letter is sent in compliance with the notice and reporting requirements of California Labor Code section 2699.3.

METALCRAFTERS employed Mr. Gardea as an hourly paid, non-exempt employee from approximately June 26, 2025, to November 7, 2025. Mr. Gardea worked for METALCRAFTERS as a Programmer at its manufacturing facility in Fountain Valley, California (17375 Mt. Herrmann Street, Fountain Valley, California 92708). During his employment, Mr. Gardea typically worked eight (8) hours or more per day and five (5) days per week. At the time his employment ended, Mr. Gardea was compensated approximately $37.00 per hour. His job duties include, without limitation, programming parts, performing machine setups, reprints, adjusting and running machines, and troubleshooting programming issues.

METALCRAFTERS committed each of the following Labor Code violations against Mr. Gardea, the facts and theories of which follow, making him an "aggrieved employee" pursuant to California Labor Code section 2699(c)(1):[1]

METALCRAFTERS's Company-Wide and Uniform Payroll and HR Practices

METALCRAFTERS TRANSPARENCIES AND COMPOSITES, INC. and CAR PREP INC. are California corporations and specialize in precision CNC machining, advanced composites, prototyping, and glass transparencies and assemblies, serving the aerospace, automotive, and entertainment industries throughout the California and the United States. Upon information and belief, METALCRAFTERS maintains a single, centralized Human Resources (HR) department at its company headquarters in Fountain Valley, California, for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for METALCRAFTERS in California, including Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees. At all relevant times, METALCRAFTERS issued and maintained uniform, standardized scheduling and timekeeping practices and procedures for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees in California, including Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees, regardless of their location or position.

Upon information and belief, METALCRAFTERS maintains a centralized Payroll department at its company headquarters Fountain Valley, California, which processes payroll for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working for METALCRAFTERS in California, including Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees. Further, METALCRAFTERS issues the same formatted wage statements in the same manner for all non-exempt, hourly paid employees working in California, including Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees, irrespective of their location, position, or manner in which each employee's employment ended. In other words, METALCRAFTERS utilized the same methods and formulas when calculating wages due to Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees in California.

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 510 and 1198 – Unpaid Overtime

California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198 and the applicable Industrial Welfare Commission ("IWC") Wage Order require employers to pay employees working more than eight (8) hours in a day or more than forty (40) hours in a workweek at the rate of time-and-one-half (1 ½) times the regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day or more than forty (40) hours in a workweek. The applicable IWC Wage Order further provides that employers are required to pay employees working more than twelve (12) hours in a day overtime compensation at a rate of two (2) times their regular rate of pay. An employee's regular rate of pay includes all remuneration for employment paid to, or on behalf of, the employee, including nondiscretionary bonuses and incentive pay.

[1] These facts, theories, and claims are based on Mr. Gardea's experience and counsel's review of those records currently available relating to Mr. Gardea's employment. Discovery conducted in litigation of wage and hour claims such as these often reveals additional claims that the aggrieved employee was not initially aware of (because the aggrieved employee was not aware of the law's requirements, the employer misinformed its employee of the law's requirements, or because the employer effectively hid the violations). Thus, Mr. Gardea reserves the right to supplement this letter with additional facts, theories, and claims if he becomes aware of them subsequent to the submission of this letter.

METALCRAFTERS willfully failed to pay all overtime wages owed to Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees. During the relevant time period, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were not paid overtime premiums for all of the hours they worked in excess of eight (8) hours in a day, in excess of twelve (12) hours in a day, and/or in excess of forty (40) hours in a week, because all hours that they worked were not recorded.

First, during the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of requiring Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to perform work off-the-clock after their scheduled shifts. For example, because Mr. Gardea was responsible for ensuring that machines and overnight programs were properly set so that the next shift could continue production without disruption, approximately 2-3 times per week, he felt pressured to address machine malfunctions or correct programming issues after he clocked out and as he was leaving the facility, which would take up to 30 minutes per instance to complete. METALCRAFTERS was aware that Mr. Gardea performed this work after clocking out but failed to track the time Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees spent working off-the-clock after their scheduled shift times, and Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees received no compensation for this time.

Second, METALCRAFTERS had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of assigning heavy workloads, including pressuring employees to meet productivity requirements for the facility. METALCRAFTERS's policies and/or practices resulted in a failure to provide Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees with adequate meal period coverage. Moreover, METALCRAFTERS failed to schedule for meal periods, which further caused Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to not be relieved of their duties for compliant meal periods. As a result, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were not always afforded uninterrupted 30-minute meal periods during shifts when they were entitled to receive a meal period.

For example, when Mr. Gardea was in the middle of a first-run setup or monitoring a long-running incremental program, he would work through all or part of his meal periods in order to remain attentive to machine performance and intervene if adjustments were necessary. Thus, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees worked through meal periods and/or had meal periods cut short or interrupted in order to handle their workloads. METALCRAFTERS did not compensate Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees for the time they spent working off the clock during meal periods.

Third, METALCRAFTERS required Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to use their personal mobile devices to communicate with supervisors and coworkers at all times, including during unpaid meal periods. METALCRAFTERS expected that Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees promptly respond to calls at all times to discuss work-related matters. For example, during Mr. Gardea's meal periods, his supervisors and coworkers would contact Mr. Gardea regarding machine issues or production matters. METALCRAFTERS knew or should have known that Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were being made to respond to management while off-the-clock and during meal periods in order to meet METALCRAFTERS's expectations, but failed to compensate them for this time worked.

METALCRAFTERS knew or should have known that as a result of these company-wide practices and/or policies, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were performing assigned duties off-the-clock after their shifts and during meal periods, and were suffered or permitted to perform work for which they were not paid. Because Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees regularly worked shifts of eight (8) hours a day or more, or forty (40) hours a week or more, some of this off-the-clock work qualified for overtime premium pay. Therefore, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were not paid overtime wages for all of the overtime hours they actually worked.

METALCRAFTERS's failure to pay Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees the balance of overtime compensation, as required by California law, violates the provisions of California Labor Code sections 510 and 1198. Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 510 and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 – Unpaid Minimum Wages

California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198 require employers to pay employees the minimum wage fixed by the IWC. The payment of a lesser wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful. Compensable work time is defined in Wage Order No. 1-2001 as "the time during which an employee is subject to the control of an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so." Cal. Code Regs. Tit. 8, § 11010(2)(G) (defining "Hours Worked").

First, as set forth above, upon information and belief, METALCRAFTERS had a company-wide policy and/or practice of failing to pay Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees for actual hours worked, including time spent performing job duties after clocking out at the end of their scheduled shifts. METALCRAFTERS failed to track this time Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees spent working off-the-clock, and Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees received no compensation for this time.

Second, due to METALCRAFTERS's policies and/or practices of assigning heavy workloads (including pressure to meet productivity requirements), failing to schedule meal periods, and requiring employees to respond to work-related communications during meal periods, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were impeded from taking all uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled and were required to work off-the-clock during meal periods, have their meal periods interrupted, and/or were otherwise not relieved of all duties during unpaid meal periods. METALCRAFTERS did not compensate Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees for the time they spent working off the clock during unpaid meal periods.

METALCRAFTERS did not pay minimum wages for all hours worked by Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees. To the extent that these off-the-clock hours did not qualify for overtime premium payment, METALCRAFTERS did not pay at least minimum wages for those hours worked off-the-clock in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198.

Accordingly, METALCRAFTERS regularly failed to pay at least minimum wages to Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees for all of the hours they worked in violation of California Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198. Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 1197.1 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 – Failure to Provide Meal Periods

California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198 and the applicable IWC Wage Order require employers to provide meal periods and to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate for each work day that a meal or rest period is not provided. Pursuant to Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer may not require, cause or permit an employee to work for a period of more than five (5) hours per day without providing the employee with an uninterrupted meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes, except that if the total work period per day of the employee is not more than six (6) hours, the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of both the employer and the employee. Under California law, first meal periods must start after no more than five hours. Brinker Rest. Corp. v. Superior Court, 53 Cal. 4th 1004, 1041-1042 (2012). Labor Code sections 226.7 and 512(a) and the applicable IWC Wage Order also require employers to provide a second meal period of not less than thirty (30) minutes if an employee works over ten (10) hours per day or to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate, except that if the total hours worked is no more than twelve (12) hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived.

First, during the relevant time period, as stated, METALCRAFTERS's company-wide policies and/or practices of assigning heavy workloads (including pressuring employees to meet productivity requirements), resulted in a failure to provide Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees with adequate meal period coverage. Because METALCRAFTERS required adherence to production deadlines to meet the facility's productivity demands, there was no one available to relieve employees needing meal period coverage, and Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were not always afforded timely, uninterrupted meal periods to which they were entitled. Moreover, METALCRAFTERS failed to schedule meal periods, which further caused Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to not be relieved of their duties for compliant meal periods. As a result, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees had to work through all or part of their meal periods, had their meal periods interrupted, and/or had to wait extended periods of time before taking meal periods. For example, Mr. Gardea missed his meal periods or would take his meal periods late due to production demands, including during first-run setups and while monitoring long-running incremental programs. During these periods, Mr. Gardea's ability to take a compliant meal period depended on reaching a safe operational stopping point rather than being fully relieved of a duty at a consistent scheduled time.

Second, as also stated, METALCRAFTERS had a company-wide policy and/or practice of requiring that Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees carry their personal mobile devices and respond to work-related communications at all times, including during meal periods, in order to meet METALCRAFTERS's expectations. As a result, METALCRAFTERS's management contacted Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees on their personal cellular phones during meal periods to discuss work-related matters, resulting in noncompliant, interrupted meal periods.

Third, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees worked shifts in excess of ten (10) hours without receiving an uninterrupted second 30-minute meal period. For example, during his employment, Mr. Gardea regularly worked shifts in excess of ten (10) or more hours per day, but was not provided a second 30-minute meal period. Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees did not sign valid meal period waivers on days that they were entitled to meal periods and were not relieved of all duties.

Moreover, on information and belief, METALCRAFTERS had a company-wide policy of requiring all newly hired employees to sign blanket meal period waivers at or near their time of hire. METALCRAFTERS took the position that non-exempt, hourly paid employees had waived their rights to first and/or second meal periods for the entirety of their employment and, on that basis, did not provide them with all meal periods to which they were entitled. Further, METALCRAFTERS's "Meal Break Waiver Agreement" form requires employees to provide written notice should they wish to revoke the waiver. METALCRAFTERS's presumption that meal periods would not be provided for shifts in excess of five (5) hours but less than six (6) hours and/or for shifts in excess of ten (10) hours but less than twelve (12) hours, due to blanket meal period waivers signed at or near the time of hire, and imposition on employees to revoke the waivers in writing, discouraged and impeded Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees from taking all meal periods to which they were entitled.

Furthermore, an employer's obligation to provide a meal period is only "triggered" when the employer "employs an employee for a work period of more than five hours per day." Brinker, 53 Cal. 4th at 1039 ("If an employer engages, suffers, or permits anyone to work for a full five hours, its meal break obligation is triggered.").

> [A]fter the meal break obligation is triggered . . . an employer is put to a choice: it must (1) afford an off-duty meal period; (2) consent to a mutually agreed-upon waiver if one hour or less will end the shift; or (3) obtain written agreement to an on-duty meal period if circumstances permit. Failure to do one of these will render the employer liable for premium pay.

Id. (citing Cal. Labor Code § 226.7; Wage Order No. 5, subd. 11(A), (B)). That METALCRAFTERS required Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to sign meal period waivers simultaneously at or near the time of hire (as opposed to on a specific work day) renders them invalid and unenforceable, because METALCRAFTERS's obligation to provide Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees members with meal periods did not arise until METALCRAFTERS had employed them for a full five (5) hours.

At all times herein mentioned, METALCRAFTERS knew or should have known that, as a result of these policies, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were prevented from being relieved of all duties and were required to perform some of their assigned duties during meal periods. METALCRAFTERS further knew or should have known that METALCRAFTERS did not pay Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees all meal period premiums when meal periods were late, interrupted, shortened, and/or missed.

Furthermore, METALCRAFTERS engaged in a company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying all meal period premiums owed when compliant meal periods are not provided. Because of this practice and/or policy, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees have not received premium pay for all missed, late, and interrupted meal periods.

Accordingly, METALCRAFTERS failed to provide all meal periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198. Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226.7, 512(a), 516, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, and 1198 – Failure to Authorize and Permit Rest Periods

California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198 and the applicable IWC Wage Order require employers to provide rest periods and to pay an employee one (1) additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate for each work day that a meal or rest period is not provided. California Labor Code section 226.7 provides that no employer shall require an employee to work during any rest period mandated by an applicable order of the California IWC. The applicable IWC Wage Order provides that "[e]very employer shall authorize and permit all employees to take rest periods, which insofar as practicable shall be in the middle of each work period" and that the "rest period time shall be based on the total hours worked daily at the rate of ten (10) minutes net rest time per four (4) hours or major fraction thereof" unless the total daily work time is less than three and one-half (3 ½) hours.

To comply with its obligation to authorize and permit rest periods under California Labor Code section 226.7 and the applicable IWC Wage Order, an employer must "relinquish any control over how employees spend their break time, and relieve their employees of all duties—including the obligation that an employee remain on call. A rest period, in short, must be a period of rest." Augustus, et al. v. ABM Security Services, Inc., 2 Cal. 5th 257, 273 (2016).

During the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS regularly failed to authorize and permit Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to take a ten (10) minute rest period per each four (4) hour period worked or major fraction thereof. As with meal periods, METALCRAFTERS's company-wide practices, including assigning heavy workloads, including pressuring employees to meet productivity requirements, prevented Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees from being relieved of all duty in order to take compliant rest periods. Additionally, METALCRAFTERS failed to schedule rest periods, which, coupled with METALCRAFTERS's failure to provide adequate rest period coverage, further led to Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees not being authorized and permitted to take rest periods.

In addition, as stated, METALCRAFTERS engaged in a company-wide policy and/or practice requiring that Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees carry and respond to their personal mobile devices during rest periods to respond to work-related questions, which prevented Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees from being able to uninterrupted take rest periods.

Furthermore, upon information and belief, during the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS maintained a company-wide on-premises rest period policy, which effectively required that Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees remain on the work premises during their rest periods. Because Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were restricted from leaving the premises during rest periods, they were denied the ability to use their rest periods freely for their own purposes, such as running personal errands. Thus, METALCRAFTERS effectively maintained control over Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees during rest periods.

As a result of METALCRAFTERS's practices and policies, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees worked shifts in excess of 3.5 hours, in excess of 6 hours, and/or in excess of 10 hours without receiving all uninterrupted rest periods to which they were entitled. For example, Mr. Gardea frequently had to forgo his rest periods in order to monitor machine performance and tool changes.

METALCRAFTERS has also engaged in a company-wide practice and/or policy of not paying rest period premiums owed when compliant rest periods are not authorized and permitted. Because of this practice and/or policy, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees have not received premium pay for all missed rest periods.

Accordingly, METALCRAFTERS failed to authorize and permit all rest periods in violation of California Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198. Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 558 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198 – Non-Compliant Wage Statements and Failure to Maintain Accurate Payroll Records

California Labor Code section 226(a) requires employers to make, keep and provide true, accurate, and complete employment records. METALCRAFTERS has not provided Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees with properly itemized wage statements. Labor Code section 226(e) provides that if an employer fails to comply with providing an employee with properly itemized wage statements as set forth in 226(a), then the employee is entitled to recover the greater of all actual damages or $50 for the initial pay period in which a violation occurs and $100 per employee for each violation in a subsequent pay period, not to exceed $4,000. Further, Labor Code section 226.3 provides that any employer who violates section 226(a) shall be subject to a civil penalty in the amount of $250 per employee per violation in an initial citation and $1,000 per employee for each violation in a subsequent citation, for which the employer fails to provide the employee a wage statement or fails to keep the required records pursuant to Section 226(a).

During the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS has knowingly and intentionally provided Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees with uniform, incomplete, and inaccurate wage statements. For example, METALCRAFTERS issued uniform wage statements to Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees that fail to correctly list: gross wages earned; total hours worked; net wages earned; and all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period, including rates of pay for overtime wages, and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate. Specifically, METALCRAFTERS violated sections 226(a)(1), 226(a)(2), 226(a)(5), and 226(a)(9).

Because METALCRAFTERS did not accurately record the time Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees spent working off-the-clock and deducted time from their records for meal periods that were interrupted and/or missed (and therefore time for which they should have been paid), METALCRAFTERS did not list the correct amount of gross wages and net wages earned by Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees in compliance with sections 226(a)(1) and 226(a)(5). For the same reason, METALCRAFTERS failed to accurately list the total number of hours worked by Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees in violation of section 226(a)(2), and failed to list the applicable hourly rates of pay in effect during the pay period and corresponding accurate number of work hours worked at each hourly rate in violation of section 226(a)(9).

The wage statement deficiencies also include, without limitation, failing to list the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis; failing to list all deductions; failing to list the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number; failing to list the inclusive dates of the period for which aggrieved employees were paid; failing to list the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer; and/or failing to state all hours worked as a result of not recording or stating hours worked off-the-clock.

California Labor Code section 1174(d) provides that "[e]very person employing labor in this state shall . . . [k]eep a record showing the names and addresses of all employees employed and the ages of all minors" and "[k]eep, at a central location in the state or at the plants or establishments at which employees are employed, payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments . . . ." At all relevant times, and in violation of Labor Code section 1174(d), METALCRAFTERS willfully failed to maintain accurate payroll records for Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees showing the daily hours they worked and the wages paid thereto as a result of failing to record the off-the-clock hours that they worked.

California Labor Code section 1198 provides that the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor shall be those fixed by the Labor Commissioner and as set forth in the applicable IWC Wage Order. Section 1198 further provides that "[t]he employment of any employees for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful." Pursuant to the applicable IWC Wage Order, employers are required to keep accurate time records showing when the employee begins and ends each work period and meal period. During the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS engaged in company-wide practices and/or policies of failing to record actual hours worked, and thereby failed to keep accurate records of work period and meal period start and end times for Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees, in violation of section 1198. Also, in light of METALCRAFTERS's failure to provide Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees with second 30-minute meal periods to which they were entitled, METALCRAFTERS kept no records of meal start and end times for second meal periods.

Because METALCRAFTERS failed to provide the correct net and gross wages earned, applicable rates of pay, and number of total hours worked on wage statements, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees have been prevented from verifying, solely from information on the wage statements themselves, that they were paid correctly and in full. Instead, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees have had to look to sources outside of the wage statements themselves and reconstruct time records to determine whether in fact they were paid correctly and the extent of underpayment, thereby causing them injury.

Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code sections 226(a), 1174(d), and 1198, pursuant to Labor Code sections 226.3, 1174.5, and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 204 – Failure to Timely Pay Wages During Employment

California Labor Code section 204 requires that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the 1st and the 15th days, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the 16th and the 26th day of the month during which the labor was performed, and that all wages earned by any person in any employment between the 16th and the last day, inclusive, of any calendar month, other than those wages due upon termination of an employee, are due and payable between the 1st and the 10th day of the following month. California Labor Code section 204 also requires that all wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period. Alternatively, California Labor Code section 204 provides that the requirements of this section are deemed satisfied by the payment of wages for weekly, biweekly, or semimonthly payroll if the wages are paid not more than seven (7) calendar days following the close of the payroll period.

During the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS willfully failed to pay Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees all wages due including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, within any time period specified by California Labor Code section 204.

Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with Labor Code section 204, pursuant to Labor Code sections 210 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code §§ 201 and 202 – Failure to Timely Pay Final Wages Upon Termination

California Labor Code sections 201 and 202 provide that if an employer discharges an employee, the wages earned and unpaid at the time of discharge are due and payable immediately, and that if an employee voluntarily leaves his or her employment, his or her wages shall become due and payable not later than seventy-two (72) hours thereafter, unless the employee has given seventy two (72) hours previous notice of his or her intention to quit, in which case the employee is entitled to his or her wages at the time of quitting.

METALCRAFTERS willfully failed to pay Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees who are no longer employed by METALCRAFTERS all their earned wages, including, but not limited to, overtime wages, minimum wages, and/or meal and rest period premiums, either at the time of discharge, or within seventy-two (72) hours of their leaving METALCRAFTERS's employ.

Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with Labor Code sections 201 and 202, pursuant to Labor Code sections 256 and/or 2699(a), (f), and (k).

Violation of California Labor Code § 2802 – Unreimbursed Business Expenses

California Labor Code section 2802 requires employers to pay for all necessary expenditures and losses incurred by the employee in the performance of his or her job. The purpose of Labor Code section 2802 is to prevent employers from passing off their cost of doing business and operating expenses on to their employees. Cochran v. Schwan's Home Service, Inc., 228 Cal. App. 4th 1137, 1144 (2014). The applicable wage order, IWC Wage Order No. 1-2001, provides that: "[w]hen tools or equipment are required by the employer or are necessary to the performance of a job, such tools and equipment shall be provided and maintained by the employer, except that an employee whose wages are at least two (2) times the minimum wage provided herein may be required to provide and maintain hand tools and equipment customarily required by the trade or craft."

During the relevant time period, METALCRAFTERS had a company-wide policy of requiring Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to utilize their own personal mobile devices, including, but not limited to, cellular phones, and/or mobile data for work-related purposes, but failed to reimburse them for the costs of their work-related mobile device expenses. For example, Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees were required to use their personal mobile devices for work-related tasks, including taking photographs of machines and parts, documenting programming and production issues, and communicating with co-workers and supervisors regarding operational matters. Mr. Gardea used his personal cellular phone for work-related purposes almost every day, and estimated that approximately eighty percent (80%) of his phone usage was work-related. Although METALCRAFTERS required Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees to utilize their personal mobile devices and/or mobile data to carry out their work-related responsibilities, METALCRAFTERS failed to reimburse them for these costs.

METALCRAFTERS could have provided Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees with actual equipment for use on the job, such as company mobile devices; or, METALCRAFTERS could have reimbursed employees for the costs of their mobile device usage. Instead, METALCRAFTERS passed these operating costs onto Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees.

Thus, METALCRAFTERS had, and continues to have, a company-wide policy and/or practice of not reimbursing employees for expenses necessarily incurred in violation of California Labor Code section 2802. Mr. Gardea and other aggrieved employees are entitled to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest thereon, and seek injunctive relief to bring METALCRAFTERS into compliance with the applicable IWC Wage Order and Labor Code section 2802, pursuant to Labor Code section 2699(a), (f), and (k).

California Labor Code § 558(a)

California Labor Code section 558(a) provides "[a]ny employer or other person acting on behalf of an employer who violates, or causes to be violated, a section of this chapter or any provision regulating hours and days of work in any order of the Industrial Welfare Commission shall be subject to a civil penalty as follows: (1) For any initial violation, fifty dollars ($50) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid . . . . (2) For each subsequent violation, one hundred dollars ($100) for each underpaid employee for each pay period for which the employee was underpaid . . . ." Labor Code section 558(c) provides that "[t]he civil penalties provided for in this section are in addition to any other civil or criminal penalty provided by law." METALCRAFTERS, at all relevant times, was an employer or person acting on behalf of an employer(s) who violated Mr. Gardea's and other aggrieved employees' rights by violating various sections of the California Labor Code.

Accordingly, Mr. Gardea seeks the remedies set forth in Labor Code section 558 for himself, the State of California, and all other aggrieved employees. Specifically, pursuant to PAGA, and in particular California Labor Code sections 1194.5, 2699(a), 2699(k), 2699.3(a) and 2699.3(c), 2699.5, and 558, Mr. Gardea, acting in the public interest as a private attorney general, seeks assessment and collection of civil penalties and injunctive relief for himself, all other aggrieved employees, and the State of California against METALCRAFTERS for violations of California Labor Code sections 201, 202, 204, 226(a), 226.7, 510, 512(a), 516, 1174(d), 1182.12, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, and 2802.

Therefore, on behalf of all aggrieved employees, Mr. Gardea seeks all applicable civil penalties related to these violations of the California Labor Code pursuant to PAGA.
