Re: Bernardino Cruz Manzano v. California Turf & Landscaping, et al.

To Whom It May Concern:

Please be advised that this law firm represents Bernardino Cruz Manzano (“Mr. Cruz Manzano”) in claims for Labor Code violations arising from his employment with California Turf & Landscaping; and DOES 1 through 100 (collectively “Employers”). Mr. Cruz Manzano is an “aggrieved employee” as defined by Labor Code Section 2698 et seq., due to Employers’ numerous violations of the Labor Code as set forth below. The purpose of this letter is to comply with Labor Code Sections 2699.3, which requires aggrieved employees to notify their employer and the Labor & Workforce Development Agency (“LWDA”) of the specific provisions of the Labor Code allegedly violated.

During Mr. Cruz Manzano’s employment with Employers, he performed work for other presently unknown entities. As such, Employers are jointly liable with the other unknown entities for all civil legal responsibility and civil liability for the payment of wages, including sums payable to an employee or the state of California based upon any failure to pay wages, pursuant to Labor Code § 2810.3.

For purposes of this letter, the “aggrieved employees” whom Mr. Cruz Manzano seeks to represent are the other aggrieved employees of Employers who performed work for Employers in California at any time during the one year preceding the date of this letter through the present.

Mr. Cruz Manzano worked for Employers from approximately July 31, 2023 to approximately August 19, 2023 when he resigned after Employers failed to address his complaints about missing pay from his paychecks. Mr. Cruz Manzano’s tasks included gardening, cutting grass, maintenance and spraying chemicals. Mr. Cruz Manzano was generally scheduled to work Monday through Saturday from either 5:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m., 5:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. or 6:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and sometimes worked longer.

Throughout the duration of Mr. Cruz Manzano’s employment with Employers, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were not paid for all hours worked as Employers would not accurately keep track of their actual hours worked. Upon information and belief, the time records maintained by Employers were not reflective of the actual number of hours that Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees actually worked. The foreman was generally responsible for writing down the hours worked for Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees. As a policy, Employers required Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to sign a document each day at the end of the day showing the start time and an empty space for the end time. After Mr. Cruz Manzano saw that hours were missing from his paycheck, he complained that he needed to see the end time before signing. Employers failed to take action or change their policy. Mr. Cruz Manzano kept his own notebook showing his hours worked. Mr. Cruz Manzano complained that during the first week, he was shorted one hour. He further complained that Employers shorted him three hours during his second week worked. Mr. Cruz Manzano estimates that on average, he and other aggrieved employees were shorted at least 2 hours per week.

Furthermore, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees worked overtime hours, but did not receive all overtime compensation equal to one and one-half times their regular rates of pay for all overtime hours worked. Upon information and belief, Employers intentionally wrote down inaccurate end times for Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees. Mr. Cruz Manzano worked six days per week and thus worked more than forty hours per week during the first couple of weeks during his employment and is thus owed at least two hours of overtime per week. Employers failed to ensure that Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were being paid at least the minimum wage for all hours actually worked, and failed to ensure that Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees received proper overtime wages for all overtime hours worked, in compliance with Wage Order 16.

Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were not authorized to take all legally required rest periods. This practice was pervasive throughout Mr. Cruz Manzano's employment. Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were not only unable to exercise the right to a rest period, but they were never told of their right to do so. Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees almost never received a rest period because Employers had a policy of adding twenty more minutes to their meal periods and unlawfully requiring them to take all their rest and meal periods together in one sitting. Despite Employers' failure to authorize and permit Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to take all lawful paid rest periods, due to their uniform and unlawful practices, Employers never provided Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees with an hour of pay at their regular rate for each rest period violation as required by Labor Code § 226.7. Upon information and belief, during at least a portion of the class period, Employers maintained no payroll code or another mechanism for the payment of rest period premiums in the event Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were not authorized to take lawful rest periods.

Employers did not provide Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees with legally compliant meal periods when they worked shifts in excess of 5.0 hours. Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees generally took their meal periods in groups at the instruction of their supervisor. At least three (3) times per week, Employers instructed Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to begin their meal periods after the fifth hour of work in between work locations. Generally, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees took their meal period in the parked company truck that they were driving in and were instructed not to leave the area around the company truck as they had to monitor the tools in the truck to prevent theft. Mr. Cruz Manzano and the other aggrieved employees were not informed by Employers of their legal right to take duty-free uninterrupted meal periods before the conclusion of their fifth hour of work pursuant to Labor Code Section 512. Despite Employers' failure to provide Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees with all lawful meal periods due to their uniform and unlawful practices, Employers never provided Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees with an hour of pay at their regular rate for each meal period violation as required by Labor Code § 226.7.

Furthermore, Employers failed to adequately reimburse Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees for all reasonable and necessary work expenditures, including but not limited to, requiring Mr. Cruz Manzano to purchase his own work boots, gloves, safety glasses, fluorescent t-shirts and masks to protect against dust and spray. Mr. Cruz Manzano was not ever provided any reimbursement for these necessary uses.

Additionally, Employers forced Mr. Cruz Manzano to wait approximately one week until the next regular scheduled pay day for his final paycheck, in violation of Labor Code 201.

Employers have maintained inaccurate payroll records, failed to timely pay all wages owed to employees, and failed to timely pay separating employees at the time of their separation, and issued inaccurate wage statements. This is in part a result of Employers' failure to accurately compensate Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees for all minimum and overtime wages, and failure to pay premium pay for failing to provide all required meal periods and authorize all rest periods.

Employers failed to issue to Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees accurate itemized statements in writing showing (1) gross wages earned, (2) total hours worked by the employee, (3) the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis, (4) all deductions, provided that all deductions made on written orders of the employee may be aggregated and shown as one item, (5) net wages earned, (6) the inclusive dates of the period for which the employee is paid, (7) the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number, (8) the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer, and (9) all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee.

Employers failed to meet their obligations to provide paid sick leave to Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees under Labor Code § 245.5(b) which requires that employers authorize and permit its employees who worked 30 or more days within a year to accrue paid sick leave, and to allow them to exercise paid sick leave on or after their 90th day of employment. Despite meeting all of the statutory requirements for being able to accrue and utilize paid sick leave, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were not provided paid sick leave on those occasions where they needed to take a “sick day” in violation of Labor Code § 245.5(b), did not accrue sick leave as required, and were not notified of properly notified of their ability to take sick leave.

Finally, Employers failed to conform to the requirements of Labor Code § 2810.5 by failing to provide Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees written notices, in the language normally used to communicate employment related information to the employees, containing information regarding their: i) rate(s) of pay and the basis thereof; ii) allowances claimed as part of the minimum wage; iii) regular payday designated by the employer; iv) the legal name of the employer; v) the address of the legal entity that is the employer; vi) the telephone number of the employer; vii) identifying information for the employer’s workers’ compensation insurance carrier; and viii) information informing the employee of their right to accrue and use paid sick leave. Despite maintaining an obligation to provide these disclosures to Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees, Employers failed to do so, in violation of Labor Code § 2810.5.

As described above, Employers committed the following violations of the Labor Code, and Industrial Welfare Commission Wage Order 16 (“Wage Order 16”):

Minimum Wage Violations

Employers were required to pay Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees an hourly rate at least equal to the minimum wage for each hour actually worked. See Labor Code §§ 1182.12, 1194; 1194.2, 1197; Wage Order 16 § 4. As alleged above, Employers maintained and maintains timekeeping policies/practices that regularly, systematically, and impermissibly underreport the hours worked by Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees. As a result of these policies/practices, which fail to compensate for all hours worked, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were deprived of all required minimum wages.

Overtime Wage Violations

Employers were required to pay Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees overtime wages for all overtime hours worked. See Labor Code §§ 1194(a) and 1198; Wage Order 16, § 3. Wage Order 16, § 3 requires an employer to pay overtime wages when an employee’s hours worked cross certain thresholds or meet certain criteria set forth in the Wage Order. At all times relevant herein, Employers caused Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to work overtime hours but did not compensate Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees at one and one-half times their regular rate of pay for such hours.

Meal Period Violations

As alleged above, Employers failed to provide Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees with all required and compliant meal periods due to Employers' meal period policies/practices that often fail to provide full, 30 minute off-duty first meal periods before the end of the fifth hour of work or a second meal period for shifts worked in excess of ten (10) hours. See Labor Code §§ 226.7 and 512; Wage Order 16, § 10. As a result, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees are owed an additional hour of wages at their regular rate of compensation for each workday they experienced a meal period violation. See Labor Code § 226.7 ("If an employer fails to provide an employee a meal or rest or recovery period in accordance with ... [an] order of the Industrial Welfare Commission ... the employer shall pay the employee one additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal or rest or recovery period is not provided.").

Rest Period Violations

As alleged above, Employers also failed to authorize and permit Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to take all required paid rest periods. See Labor Code §§ 226.7 and 516; Wage Order 16, § 11. As a result, Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees are owed an additional hour of wages at their regular rate of compensation for each workday that they were not authorized and permitted to take all legally required paid rest periods. See Labor Code § 226.7 ("If an employer fails to provide an employee a meal period or rest period in accordance with an applicable order of the Industrial Welfare Commission, the employer shall pay the employee one additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal or rest period is not provided.")

Failure to Reimburse Necessary Business Expense

Employers were subject to Labor Code § 2802, which states that "an employer shall indemnify his or her employees for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer." Employers were subject to Labor Code § 2804, which states that "any contract or agreement, express or implied, made by any employee to waive the benefits of this article or any part thereof, is null and void, and this article shall not deprive any employee or his personal representative of any right or remedy to which he is entitled under the laws of this State." As alleged herein, due to Employers' unlawful reimbursement practices, Employers failed to indemnify Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees for all necessary business expenses incurred, including work boots, gloves, safety glasses, fluorescent t-shirts and masks to protect against dust and spray in the performance of their work duties. Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees were not ever provided any reimbursement for its necessary use.

Wage Statement Violations

As described above, Employers were required to furnish Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees with complete and accurate itemized wage statements that showed, among other things, their rates of pay, corresponding number of hours worked at each rate of pay, total gross wages earned, and total net wages earned. See Labor Code §§ 226(a) and 1174(d); Wage Order 16, § 6. As a result of Employers' failure to pay all overtime wages, minimum wages, and failure to pay all required meal and rest period premium wages, Employers maintained inaccurate payroll records and issued inaccurate wage statements to Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees in violation of Labor Code § 226.

Waiting Time Penalties

Labor Code §§ 201 and 202 require that employees receive all of their final wages at the time of their separation of employment. Employers failed to timely pay Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees all of their final wages at the time of separation, which included all overtime and minimum wages, and all meal and rest period premium wages at the time of aggrieved employees' separation of employment. Pursuant to Labor Code § 203, Employers' failure to pay all final wages due to Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees was willful and, consequently, entitles Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to waiting time penalties equal to one day of wages at their standard hourly rate for each day Employers failed to pay their final wages after their separation from employment, up to a maximum of thirty days.

As an "aggrieved employee," Mr. Cruz Manzano will initiate a civil action on behalf of himself and other aggrieved employees to recover damages, statutory penalties, and civil penalties resulting from the wage and hour violations alleged herein. Based on Mr. Cruz Manzano's own investigation, and on information and belief, Employers committed and continue to commit the following Labor Code violations:

- a. Employers violated Labor Code §§ 551-552, 558, 1182.12, 1194, 1194.2, 1197, and 1198 by failing to pay Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees the statutory minimum wage for all hours worked;

- d. Employers violated Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, and 558 by failing to authorize and permit Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees to take all required paid rest periods, and/or failing to pay all rest period premiums to Mr. Cruz Manzano and other aggrieved employees at their respective regular rates of compensation;
