Plaintiffs,

vs.

HOME EXPRESS DELIVERY SERVICE, LLC
and DOES 1 through 50, inclusive,

Defendants.

Case No. 24CL017121C

REPRESENTATIVE ACTION COMPLAINT

1. Civil Penalties under the Private Attorneys
General Act (Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq.)

1 Plaintiff JORGE NAJERA, on behalf of all others similarly situated and the State of California
2 under the Private Attorneys General Act (“Plaintiff”) brings this REPRESENTATIVE ACTION
3 COMPLAINT against Defendants HOME EXPRESS DELIVERY SERVICE, LLC and DOES 1
4 through 50, inclusive (collectively “Defendants”), alleging as follows:

5 INTRODUCTION

6 1. This is a representative action complaint brought under the California Private Attorneys
7 General Act (Labor Code sections 2968 et seq.)

8 2. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees all minimum and 9 overtime wages due to unlawful policies and practices of unlawful time editing and requiring Plaintiff
10 and the aggrieved employees to work off-the-clock.

11 3. Defendants failed to include all nondiscretionary forms of compensation into aggrieved
12 employees’ regular rate of pay for overtime, sick leave, and premiums.

13 4. Defendants failed to provide, authorize, and/or permit Plaintiff and the aggrieved
14 employees to take compliant meal and rest periods to which they were entitled. Additionally,
15 Defendants did not pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees’ meal or rest period premiums.

16 5. Defendants failed to properly reimburse Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees for 17 using their personal cell phones and purchasing their own tools to complete work-related duties.

18 6. Defendants’ employment policies, practices, and payroll administration systems
19 enabled and facilitated these violations on a company-wide basis with respect to the aggrieved 20 employees.

21 7. Defendants are further liable for derivative claims for wage statements, untimely 22 payment, and other associated violations.

23 8. Plaintiff seeks to recover the underpaid damages, plus associated penalties, interests,
24 attorney’s fees and costs.

25 JURISDICTION & VENUE

26 9. Jurisdiction of this action is proper in this Court under Article VI, Section 10 of the 27 California Constitution as the causes of action are premised upon violations of California law.
28

each of DOES 1 through 50 constitutes a legal employer or is otherwise legally responsible in some manner for the acts and omissions alleged herein. This Complaint may be amended to reflect their true names and capacities once ascertained.

17. Upon information and belief, Defendants in this action are employers, co-employers, joint employers, and/or part of an integrated employer enterprise, as each of the Defendants exercised control over the wages, hours, and working conditions of the employees, suffered and permitted them to work, and otherwise engaged them as employees under California law.

18. Upon information and belief, at least some of the Defendants have common ownership, common management, interrelationship of operations, and centralized control over labor relations and are therefore part of an integrated enterprise and thus jointly and severally responsible for the acts and omissions alleged herein, including pursuant to Labor Code sections 558, 558.1, and 1197.1.

19. Upon information and belief, Defendants acted in all respects pertinent to this action as an alter-ego, agent, servant, joint employer, joint venturer, co-conspirator, partner, in an integrated enterprise, or in some other capacity on behalf of all other co-Defendants, such that the acts and omissions of each Defendants may be legally attributable to all others.

GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

20. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at the lawful minimum wage rate for all hours worked, resulting in unpaid minimum wages.

21. Defendants engaged in an unlawful policy and practice of editing Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees' time records and removing hours worked.

22. Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to come in for "stand by" shifts where they were to be available in case another driver dropped a route. However, these hours were often removed from Plaintiff and, on information and belief, the other aggrieved employees' time records.

23. This unlawful practice of time editing and time shaving resulted in unpaid hours worked.

1 24. Further, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees regularly worked through their unpaid
2 meal periods due to the pressure to keep up with the high demands of the job and strict time restrictions
3 on each project.

4 25. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were deprived of minimum wages each time they
5 were denied a compliant meal period but were required to clock out and continue working or otherwise
6 engaged in off-the-clock work.

7 26. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees overtime wages and the 8 lawful rate of pay for overtime hours worked, resulting in unpaid overtime wages.

9 27. First, as described above, Defendants engaged in an unlawful policy and practice of 10 time editing. To the extent that this unlawful practice resulted in unpaid hours worked over eight (8)
11 hours in a day or forty (40) hours in a week this resulted in unpaid overtime.

12 28. Second, Defendants failed to pay overtime at the “regular rate of pay.” Defendants paid
13 Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees non-discretionary bonuses that Defendants failed to include in 14 the overtime rate.

15 29. Defendants unlawfully paid overtime to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at 1.5x
16 their straight hourly rate rather than at the regular rate of pay.

17 30. Defendants failed to comply with California’s paid sick leave laws with respect to the 18 aggrieved employees.

19 31. Due to Defendants’ unlawful time editing system, Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff
20 and the aggrieved employees with all sick leave accrued. Therefore, Plaintiff and the aggrieved
21 employees were underpaid sick leave whenever Defendants would edit or remove their hours worked.

22 32. Further, to the extent the aggrieved employees earned sick pay in the same period they
23 earned other non-excludable remuneration, Defendants underpaid those wages due to Defendant’s
24 failure to pay sick leave at the statutory rate inclusive of all earnings including non-discretionary 25 bonuses.

26 33. Specifically, Defendants did not pay the aggrieved employees sick leave “in the same
27 manner as the regular rate of pay for the worked week in which the employee uses paid sick leave, 28 whether or not the employee actually worked overtime in that workweek,” as the regular rate should

1 have included non-discretionary bonuses and all other forms of additional non-excludable
2 remuneration.

3 34. First, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees routinely experienced missed, late, short,
4 and interrupted meal periods in order to keep up with the high demands of the job and meet project
5 deadlines.

6 35. Specifically, Defendants had an unlawful policy and practice of requiring Plaintiff and 7 the other aggrieved employees to work through their unpaid meal periods.

8 36. For example, as an Installer, Plaintiff was subject to time restrictions on each job.
9 These time restrictions were strict, and Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees would face reprimand if 10 they strayed from them.

11 37. As a result, However, Defendants maintained an unlawful policy and practice of 12 requiring Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to clock out to make it appear as if they took a 13 compliant meal period, when in reality Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees continued working. This 14 resulted in Defendants actively avoiding paying all owed meal period premiums.

15 38. As a matter of common policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the 16 aggrieved employees all owed meal period premiums.

17 39. Second, to the extent Defendants paid meal period premiums, Defendants failed to pay
18 these premiums at the regular rate of compensation. Based on Defendants failure to pay overtime at 19 the regular rate of compensation, Plaintiff believes and alleges Defendants similarly failed to factor in 20 all additional non-excludable remuneration into the regular rate of pay. Instead, paying premiums at 21 their base rate or an otherwise deficient rate.

22 40. Similarly, as a matter of common policy and practice, Defendants failed to provide all
23 rest periods to which Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were entitled. As mentioned above,
24 because of the nature of the work and project deadlines, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees often
25 worked until the job was complete and without any time to take a compliant break. This prevented
26 Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees from taking lawful rest periods.

27 41. As a matter of common policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay all owed rest 28 period premiums.

1 42. To the extent Defendants paid any rest period premiums, these were underpaid because 2 Defendants failed to pay these premiums at the regular rate of compensation.

3 43. Defendants failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements to the aggrieved
4 employees each pay period as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Defendants
5 violated Labor Code section 226(a)(1) and (5) by not listing the correct “gross wages earned” or “net 6 wages earned,” as the employees earned wages and premiums that were not paid, resulting in an 7 inaccurate reflection, and recording of “gross wages earned” on those wage statements.

8 44. Likewise, in violation of Labor Code section 226(a)(9), Defendants failed to state on 9 employee wage statements each pay period the applicable hourly rates in effect and the number of 10 hours worked at that rate, as Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to employees.
11 The amounts stated are instead depreciated and underpaid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection on the 12 pay stub.

13 45. Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(2) by failing to accurately list 14 employees’ “total hours worked,” as the wage statements did not accurately include the 15 uncompensated time Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees worked due to Defendants’ policy and 16 practice of time editing.

17 46. Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to incur costs for work-
18 related purposes without full reimbursement.

19 47. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to use their personal cell phones
20 for GPS to navigate from one installment appointment to the next.

21 48. Further, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to clock in and out for 22 work on their personal cell phones. This was mandated but the cost was not reimbursed.

23 49. Additionally, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to purchase their 24 own tools necessary to complete their job duties.

25 50. Thus, in direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees 26 unavoidably and necessarily incurred these losses, expenditures, costs, and as a matter of policy and 27 practice.
28

51. Because of the policies and practices set forth in this notice, including the failure to accurately account for wages earned or hours worked, Defendants failed to accurately maintain records in accordance with Labor Code section 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders.

(By Plaintiff on Behalf of the State and the Aggrieved Employees Against All Defendants)

52. All outside paragraphs of this Complaint are incorporated into this section.

53. Plaintiff brings this cause of action as a proxy for the State of California on behalf of the following “aggrieved employees” pursuant to the Private Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”), codified as Labor Code section 2698 et seq.:

54. Plaintiff reserves the right to amend, supplement, or add to this description of the aggrieved employees, according to proof.

55. The State of California, via the Labor and Workforce Development Agency (“LWDA”), is the real party in interest in this action with respect to this cause of action. (Kim v. Reins Int’l California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 5th 73, 81 [The “government entity on whose behalf the plaintiff files suit is always the real party in interest.”])

56. Labor Code section 2699(a) provides: “Notwithstanding any other provision of law,, any provision of this code that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor and Workforce Development Agency or any of its departments, divisions, commissions, boards, agencies, or employees, for a violation of this code, may, as an alternative, be recovered through a civil action brought by an aggrieved employee on behalf of himself or herself and other current or former employees pursuant to the procedures specified in Section 2699.3. “

57. Labor Code section 2699(f) provides: “For all provisions of this code except those for which a civil penalty is specifically provided, there is established a civil penalty for a violation of these provisions, as follows: ... (2) If, at the time of the alleged violation, the person employs one or more employees, the civil penalty is one hundred dollars ($100) for each aggrieved employee per pay period for the initial violation and two hundred dollars ($200) for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each subsequent violation.”

60. 63. Within 33 calendar days of the postmark date of the notice sent by Plaintiff, neither Plaintiff nor Plaintiff’s counsel has received written notice by certified mail from any Defendants providing a description of any actions taken to cure the alleged violations.

64. Dear LWDA Officer and Company Representatives:

This letter serves as written notice under Labor Code section 2699.3 on behalf of JORGE NAJERA (“Plaintiff(s)”) and all other “aggrieved employees” of the following “Defendant(s)”:

HOME EXPRESS DELIVERY SERVICE, LLC dba Temco Logistics

Defendant(s) shall mean and include the foregoing in addition to any other related employer entities, individuals under Labor Code sections 558 and 558.1, and all others who may be later added upon further investigation and discovery as liable employers.

This office serves as legal counsel for Plaintiff. If the California Labor and Workforce Development Agency (“LWDA”) does not investigate the facts, allegations, and violations set forth in this notice within the statutorily prescribed 65-day period under Labor Code section 2699.3, Plaintiff intends to commence a civil action against Defendants as a proxy and agent of the State of California under the Private Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”). “PAGA allows an ‘aggrieved employee’—a person affected by at least one Labor Code violation committed by an employer—to pursue penalties for all the Labor Code violations committed by that employer.” Huff v. Securitas Security Services USA, Inc. (2018) 23 Cal. App. 5th 745, 751; Kim v. Reins International California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 73, 79. Plaintiff maintains standing to pursue these claims against Defendants as an aggrieved employee.

Through this notice, Plaintiff requests that Defendants complete an internal investigation and audit of the wage and hour and employment practices at issue and make a good faith effort to correct any violations. Plaintiff attempts to identify the non-compliant policies and practices affecting the aggrieved employees so that the parties may resolve the underlying damages and penalties in judgment or settlement approved by the Superior Court of California under Labor Code section 2699(k). Defendants are notified that any attempt to resolve this case should be conducted in coordination with Plaintiff's counsel to protect the interests of Plaintiff, the aggrieved employees, and the State of California via the LWDA. Plaintiff advises Defendants this letter should be also considered a reasonable attempt at settlement of this matter, subject to an exchange of additional documents and information. Graham v. Daimler Chrysler Corp. (2004) 24 Cal. 4th 553, 561.

- BACKGROUND -

Defendants employed Plaintiff during the PAGA Period in the position of Driver/Installer from about April 2023 to January 2024. During their employment Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees were subject to the wage and hour and employment protections set forth in the California Labor Code and IWC Wage Orders.

Through this notice, Plaintiff informs the LWDA of the Labor Code violations set forth herein. The “aggrieved employees” include Plaintiff and the following individuals:

All current and former non-exempt employees who worked for Defendants in the State of California during one-year period preceding the date of this notice through the current date and the date of trial in any pending action (the “aggrieved employees” and the “PAGA Period”).

Plaintiff reserves the right to expand or narrow the definition of the “aggrieved employees” in the forthcoming civil action. Furthermore, Plaintiff seeks all recoverable civil penalties for Defendants’ violations and reserves the right to supplement this notice as further investigation is completed and further facts, witnesses, and violations are uncovered.

- PAGA CLAIMS -

Unpaid Hours Worked/Minimum Wage Violation of Labor Code §§ 1194, 1197, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 1194, 1197, and 1198, along with the California Minimum Wage Order, the applicable local minimum wage ordinances, and the “Hours and Days of Work” and “Minimum Wages” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 1194 renders it unlawful for an employee to receive less than the legal minimum wage for hours worked in California. Labor Code section 1197 further mandates that “[t]he minimum wage for employees fixed by the commission is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, and the payment of a lower wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful.” Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The California Minimum Wage Order and the applicable sections of the IWC Wage Orders further require payment of minimum wages for all hours worked. The “Minimum Wages” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Order provide that “[e]very employer shall pay to each employee, on the established payday for the period involved, not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period, whether the remuneration is measured by time, piece, commission, or otherwise.” The foregoing California wage laws require payment of “not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period” and California law does not allow averaging of pay over the hours worked in the pay period, even if the total pay results in an average above the minimum wage. Armenta v. Osmose, Inc. (2005) 135 Cal. App. 3d 314, 324.

Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at the lawful minimum wage rate for all hours worked, resulting in unpaid minimum wages.

First, Defendants engaged in an unlawful policy and practice of editing Plaintiff’s and the aggrieved employees’ time records to reflect hours than those actually worked. (i.e. timeshaving). Specifically, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to come in for “stand by” shifts where they were to be available in case another driver dropped a route. However, these hours were often removed from Plaintiff and, on information and belief, the other aggrieved employees time records. Due to this time shaving practice, all hours worked were not directly compensated, resulting in minimum wage violations. The revisions were made without employees’ knowledge or consent. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were deprived of regular wages each time Defendants altered their time records and removing hours worked.

Second, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees regularly worked through their unpaid meal periods due to the pressure to keep up with the high demands of the job. Specifically, as an Installer, Plaintiff was subject to time restrictions on each job. Defendants maintained an unlawful policy and practice requiring Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to clock out for a compliant meal period but continue working through this unpaid time. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were deprived of minimum wages each time they were denied a compliant meal period but required to clock out and continue working.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Overtime
Violation of Labor Code §§ 510, 1194, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 510, 1194, and 1198, along with the “Hours and Days of Work” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 510 requires “[a]ny work in excess of eight hours in one workday and any work in excess of 40 hours in any one workweek and the first eight hours worked on the seventh day of work in any one workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for an employee;” and “any work in excess of 12 hours in one day shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay for an employee;” and “any work in excess of eight hours on any seventh day of a workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay of an employee.” Labor Code section 1194 renders it unlawful for an employee to receive less than the legal overtime rate for overtime hours worked in California. Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders further require payment of overtime wages for all overtime hours worked, including the “Hours and Days of Work” sections.

Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees overtime wages and the lawful rate of pay for overtime hours worked, resulting in unpaid overtime wages.

First, to the extent Defendants’ unlawful practices of time editing and requiring off-the-clock work resulted in unpaid hours worked, over 8 hours in a day or 40 hours in a week, this resulted in unpaid overtime hours.

Second, Defendants failed to pay overtime at the “regular rate of pay.” Defendants paid Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees non-discretionary bonuses that Defendants failed to include in the overtime rate.

Defendants unlawfully paid overtime to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at 1.5x their straight hourly rate. For each overtime hour worked during the period in which Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees earned the additional forms of remuneration, Defendants should have (but failed to) pay overtime “at a rate no less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for an employee” and “twice the regular rate of pay” for double time hours as required by the plain language of Labor Code section 510(a) and the IWC Wage Orders.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Paid Sick Leave
Violation of Labor Code §§ 246 through 248.7

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 246 through 248.7 with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 246 requires employers to provide paid sick leave to its workforce on the terms set forth in the statute. Employers must comply with the accrual, use, and notice provisions of Labor Code sections 246, 246.5, 247, and must further ensure that they maintain the paid sick leave records required by Labor Code section 247.5. Employers have the option of providing 24 hours of paid sick leave to employees or to allow employees to accrue paid sick leave each pay period. If an employer chooses the accrual method, employees must accrue sick leave at a rate of one hour for every thirty hours worked in a given pay period as set forth in Labor Code section 246(b)(1). Under the accrual method, employees must begin accruing paid sick leave at the commencement of employment.

Employers must pay sick leave in accordance with one of the three permissible methods provided in Labor Code section 246(l): (1) “the same manner as the regular rate of pay for the workweek;” (2) “by dividing the employee’s total wages, not including overtime premium pay, by the employee’s total hours worked in the full pay periods of the prior 90 days;” or (3) “for exempt employee ... in the same manner as the employer calculates wages for other forms of paid leave time.” Labor Code sections 248.6 and 248.7 similarly require paid sick leave to be paid at a regular rate-based calculation in excess of the base hourly rate and at the lawful accrual rate.

Under Labor Code section 246(i), employers must provide employees “with written notice of the amount of paid sick leave available ... for use on either the employee’s itemized wage statement ... or in a separate writing provided on the designated pay date with the employee’s payment of wages.”

Defendants failed to comply with California’s paid sick leave laws with respect to the aggrieved employees. To the extent the aggrieved employees earned sick pay in the same period they earned other non-excludable remuneration, Defendants underpaid those wages due to the regular rate violations addressed above. Specifically, Defendants did not pay the aggrieved employees sick leave “in the same manner as the regular rate of pay for the worked week in which the employee uses paid sick leave, whether or not the employee actually worked overtime in that workweek,” as the regular rate should have included commissions and all other forms of additional non-excludable remuneration.

The failure to calculate and pay sick leave at one of the lawful rates set forth in Labor Code § 246(l)(1)-(3) and 247 et seq. was applied as a matter of common policy and practice to aggrieved employees I those periods where they earned shift differentials or other forms of non-excludable remuneration, such as bonuses and also received paid sick leave.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Meal Period Premium Wages
Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226.7, 512, and 1198, along with the related sections of the IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 512 and the IWC Wage Orders require that employers provide an uninterrupted 30-minute meal period after no more than five hours of work and a second meal period after no more than 10 hours of work. See Brinker Restaurant Corp. v. Superior Court (2012) 53 Cal. 4th 1004, 1049. Labor Code section 226.7 requires that if a meal period is late, missed, short, or interrupted, the employer must pay one additional hour of pay at the employee's "regular rate" of compensation. Ferra v. Loews Hollywood Hotel, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 858, 862 ("We hold that the terms are synonymous: "regular rate of compensation" under section 226.7(c), like "regular rate of pay" under section 510(a), encompasses all nondiscretionary payments, not just hourly wages"). "[T]ime records showing noncompliant meal periods raise a rebuttable presumption of meal period violations, including at the summary judgment stage." Donohue v. AMN Services, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 58, 61. Labor Code section 1198 renders "employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]" unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders, including Section 11 (Meal Periods), further require one uninterrupted 30-minute meal period after no more than five hours of work and a second meal period after no more than 10 hours of work and an additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that a compliant meal period is not provided. Pursuant to Section 11(A) of the IWC Wage Orders, the California Supreme Court has held that the on-duty meal period exception is "exceedingly narrow" and applies only when (1) "the nature of the work prevents the employee from being relieved of all duty" and (2) both "the employer and employee have agreed, in writing, to the on-duty meal period." Augustus v. AMB Security Services, Inc. (2016) 2 Cal. 5th 257, 266-276 (emphasis added). If these two requirements are not met, then the employer owes the employee one hour of premium pay for each non-compliant meal period taken under the purported on-duty meal arrangement. Naranjo v. Spectrum Security Services, Inc. (2019) 40 Cal. 5th 444, 459.

First, Defendants failed to provide compliant meal periods to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced missed, late, short, and interrupted meal period due to the high demands of the job.

Specifically, Defendants had an unlawful policy and practice requiring Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees work through their unpaid meal periods. For example, as an Installer, Plaintiff was subject to time restrictions on each job. These time restrictions were strict, and Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees would face reprimand if they strayed from them. As a result, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees often experienced late, missed, or otherwise non-compliant meal periods. However, Defendants maintained an unlawful policy and practice requiring Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to clock out to make it appear as if they took compliant meal period, in reality Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees continue working. This resulted in Defendants actively avoiding paying all owed meal period premiums.

Second, to the extent Defendants paid meal period premiums, Defendants failed to pay these premiums at the regular rate of compensation. Based on Defendants failure to pay overtime at the regular rate of compensation, Plaintiff believes and alleges Defendants similarly failed to factor in all additional non-excludable remuneration into the regular rate of pay. Instead, paying premiums at their base rate or an otherwise deficient rate.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Rest Period Premium Wages
Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the related sections of the IWC Wage Orders with respect to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code sections 226.7 and 516 and the IWC Wage Orders require that employers authorize and permit an uninterrupted 10-minute rest period for each four-hour period (or major fraction thereof) that an employee works. Labor Code section 226.7 requires that if a rest period is non-compliant, the employer must pay one additional hour of pay at the employee's "regular rate" of compensation. Ferra v. Loews Hollywood Hotel, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 858, 862 ("We hold that the terms are synonymous: "regular rate of compensation" under section 226.7(c), like "regular rate of pay" under section 510(a), encompasses all nondiscretionary payments, not just hourly wages"). Labor Code section 1198 renders "employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]" unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders, including Section 12 (Rest Periods), further require one uninterrupted 10-minute rest period for each four-hour period (or major fraction thereof) worked and an additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that a compliant rest period is not authorized or permitted.

Defendants failed to provide all rest periods to which Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were entitled and further failed to pay all owed rest period premiums. For the same reasons Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced non-compliant meal periods, like the pressure to keep up with the high demands of the job, appointment scheduling, and time restrictions, they also experienced non-compliant rest periods. For example, Plaintiff's installment appointments were scheduled back-to-back making it impossible for Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to take compliant rest periods without getting behind and facing reprimand each day. Defendants failed to address the aggrieved employees' concerns regarding their inability to take their mandated rest periods.

As a matter of policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay all owed rest period premiums at the regular rate. To the extent Defendants ever paid rest period premiums, Defendants violated Labor Code section 226.7 because such premiums were not paid at the correct regular rate of compensation which would have factored in all non-excludable remuneration and other forms of compensation.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Untimely Payment of Wages During Employment Violation of Labor Code §§ 204, 204b, 210

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 204 and/or 204b and 210, as applicable, with respect to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 204(a) requires payment of "all wages" for non-exempt employees at least twice each calendar month. Labor Code section 204(d) states all wages due must be paid "not more than seven calendar days following the close of the payroll period." Labor Code section 204b applies to employees paid on a weekly basis and also requires the payment for all labor within the required pay periods. Labor Code section 210 provides "every person who fails to pay the wages of an employee as provided in Section ... 204 ... shall be subject to a civil penalty" of $100 for an initial violation and $200 plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld for a subsequent violation.

Because Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums in each pay period in which such wages were earned at the lawful rate, Defendants violated Labor Code section 204 and/or 204b (for weekly employees, as applicable). Defendants violated Labor Code sections 204 and 204b by failing to pay all wages and premiums owed on the regular pay days scheduled each pay period within seven calendar days of the close of the payroll period, as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Indeed, Defendants failed to pay all regular, overtime, premiums, paid sick leave, and other earnings on time each payday.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Untimely Payment of Wages Upon Separation of Employment
Violation of Labor Code §§ 201, 202, 203, 256

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to pay all wages and premiums owed upon termination of employment.

Labor Code section 201 requires that if an employer fires an employee, the wages must be paid immediately. Labor Code section 202 requires that if an employee quits without providing 72 hours' notice, his or her wages must be paid no later than 72 hours thereafter. Labor Code section 202 states that if an employee provides 72 hours' notice, the final wages are payable upon his or her final day of employment. Labor Code section 203 requires an employer who fails to comply with Labor Code sections 201 or 202 to pay a waiting time penalty for each employee, up to a period of 30 days additional compensation.

Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to aggrieved employees during their employment as set forth in this notice, and also failed to timely pay those amounts to departing employees upon separation of employment. Defendants did not pay waiting time penalties for the late payments. As a result, Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Non-Compliant Wage Statements
Violation of Labor Code §§ 226, 226.3

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226(a) and 226.3 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to furnish itemized wage statements each pay period that accurately list all information required by Labor Code section 226(a)(1) through (9).

Labor Code section 226(a) requires an employer to furnish wage statements to employees semimonthly or at the time of each payment of wages, "an accurate itemized statement in writing showing:" (1) gross wages earned, (2) total hours worked, (3) the number of piece rate units earned and applicable piece-rate in effect, (4) all deductions, (5) net wages earned, (6) the inclusive dates of the pay period, (7) the name of the employee and last four digits of SSN or an EIN, (8) the name and address of the legal name of the employer, and (9) all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee.

Defendants failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements to the aggrieved employees each pay period as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(1) and (5) by not listing the correct "gross wages earned" or "net wages earned," as the employees earned wages and premiums that were not paid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection, and recording of “gross wages earned” on those wage statements. Likewise, in violation of Labor Code section 226(a)(9), Defendants failed to state on employee wage statements each pay period the applicable hourly rates in effect and the number of hours worked at that rate, as Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to employees. The amounts stated are instead depreciated and underpaid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection on the pay stub.

Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(2) by failing to accurately list employees’ “total hours worked,” as the wage statements did not accurately include the uncompensated time for off-the-clock work.

Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees cannot promptly and easily determine from the wage statement alone the wages paid or earned without reference to other documents or information. Indeed, these wage statement violations are significant because they sow confusion among Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees with respect to what amounts were owed and paid, at what rates, the number of hours worked, and how those amounts were or should be calculated. The wage statements reflect a false statement of earnings and concealed the underlying problems and underpayments of employee wages.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unreimbursed Employee Expenses Violation of Labor Code §§ 2802, 2804

Defendants violated Labor Code section 2802 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to reimburse the aggrieved employees for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred as part of their job duties.

Labor Code section 2802 requires an employer to “indemnify his or her employee for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer, even though unlawful, unless the employee, at the time of obeying the directions, believed them to be unlawful.” See, e.g., Espinoza v. West Coast Tomato Growers, LLC, 2016 WL 4468175 at *4, n.2 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 24, 2016, No. 14-CV-2984 W (KSC)).

Labor Code section 2804 affirms that “[a]ny contract or agreement, express or implied, made by any employee to waive the benefits of this article or any part thereof, is null and void, and this article shall not deprive any employee or his personal representative of any right or remedy to which he is entitled under the laws of this State.”

Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to incur costs for work-related purposes without full reimbursement. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees incurred costs for using their personal cell phones for GPS to navigate from one installment appointment to the next. Further, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to use their personal cell phones to clock in and out for work. Additionally, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to purchase their own tools necessary to complete their job duties. Thus, in direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees unavoidably and necessarily incurred these losses, expenditures, costs, and as a matter of policy and practice.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Failure to Maintain Accurate Records
Violation of Labor Code § 1174; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders by failing to maintain accurate employee payroll records with respect to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 1174 requires that employers maintain accurate “payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments.” Section 7(A) of the IWC Wage Orders, which may be enforced through Labor Code section 1198, mandates similar recordkeeping obligations.

Because of the policies and practices set forth in this notice, including the failure to accurately account for wages earned or hours worked, Defendants failed to accurately maintain records in accordance with Labor Code section 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Attorneys’ Fees and Costs
Labor Code § 2699(g)

Plaintiff has been compelled to retain the services of counsel to protect the interests of other aggrieved employees and the State of California. Plaintiff continues to incur attorneys’ fees and costs, which are recoverable under California law, including Labor Code section 2699(g).
