FOR THE COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO

MARIO ESPEJEL, on behalf of others similarly situated and the State of California under the Private Attorneys General Act

Plaintiffs,

vs.

IRVINE MANAGEMENT COMPANY and DOES 1 through 50, inclusive,

Defendants.

Case No. 25CU000391C

REPRESENTATIVE ACTION COMPLAINT

1. Civil Penalties under the Private Attorneys
General Act (Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq.)

1 Plaintiff MARIO ESPEJEL, on behalf of all others similarly situated and the State of California
2 under the Private Attorneys General Act (“Plaintiff”) brings this REPRESENTATIVE ACTION
3 COMPLAINT against Defendants IRVINE MANAGEMENT COMPANY and DOES 1 through 50,
4 inclusive (collectively “Defendants”), alleging as follows:

5 INTRODUCTION

6 1. This is a representative action complaint brought under the California Private Attorneys
7 General Act (Labor Code sections 2968 et seq.).

8 2. Defendants underpaid overtime, paid sick leave, and premiums by failing to include all 9 hours worked.

10 3. Defendants failed to pay all regular and overtime hours due to their company-wide
11 practices of requiring employees to complete work while off-the-clock.

12 4. Defendants failed to provide, authorize, and/or permit the aggrieved employees to take 13 all meal and rest periods to which they were entitled.

14 5. Defendants failed to reimburse employees for all work-related necessary expenses
15 incurred in furtherance of their job duties, including the use of personal cell phones.

16 6. Defendants failed to provide all employment records upon Plaintiff’s reasonable 17 request.

18 7. As set forth in the PAGA notice, Defendants failed to maintain lawful meal and rest
19 periods, regular, overtime, and paid sick leave policies.

20 8. Defendants’ employment policies, practices, and payroll administration systems
21 enabled and facilitated these violations on a company-wide basis with respect to the aggrieved
22 employees.

23 JURISDICTION & VENUE

24 9. Jurisdiction of this action is proper in this Court under Article VI, Section 10 of the 25 California Constitution as the causes of action are premised upon violations of California law.

26 10. The monetary damages and restitution sought exceed the minimal jurisdiction limits of 27 the Superior Court.

11. This Court has jurisdiction over Defendants because, upon information and belief, Defendants have sufficient minimum contacts in California, or otherwise intentionally avail themselves to the California economy so as to render the exercise of jurisdiction over them by the California courts consistent with traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.

PARTIES

13. Plaintiff Espejel is an individual over 18 years of age who worked for Defendants in California as a non-exempt employee from about December 18, 2017, to July 1, 2024. Plaintiff worked as a Banquet Server.

B. Defendants

1 17. Upon information and belief, Defendants in this action are employers, co-employers,
2 joint employers, and/or part of an integrated employer enterprise, as each of the Defendants exercised
3 control over the wages, hours, and working conditions of the employees, suffered and permitted them
4 to work, and otherwise engaged them as employees under California law.

5 18. Upon information and belief, at least some of the Defendants have common ownership,
6 common management, interrelationship of operations, and centralized control over labor relations and 7 are therefore part of an integrated enterprise and thus jointly and severally responsible for the acts and 8 omissions alleged herein, including pursuant to Labor Code sections 558, 558.1, and 1197.1.

9 19. Upon information and belief, Defendants acted in all respects pertinent to this action as 10 an alter-ego, agent, servant, joint employer, joint venturer, co-conspirator, partner, in an integrated 11 enterprise, or in some other capacity on behalf of all other co-defendants, such that the acts and 12 omissions of each defendant may be legally attributable to all others.

13 GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

14 20. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees worked for Defendants as non-exempt
15 employees, compensated on an hourly basis.

16 21. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at the lawful minimum
17 wage rate for all hours worked, resulting in unpaid minimum wages.

18 22. Specifically, Defendants engaged in an unlawful policy and practice of requiring 19 Plaintiff the aggrieved employees to complete work while off-the-clock, without compensation.

20 23. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were made to clock out at the end
21 of their shift but continue working due to high demands of the job and to avoid overtime pay. Plaintiff 22 and the aggrieved employees often worked after clocking out at the end of their shift because 23 Defendants required employees to prepare and reset the area for the next day, such as cleaning the 24 worksite and organizing the supplies. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants agents, such as supervisors,
25 would punish employees for clocking out later than authorized, by verbal warnings or write-ups. Due 26 to this unlawful practice, all hours worked were not directly compensated, resulting in the 27 underpayment of wages to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

1 24. Furthermore, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees routinely worked through their
2 meal and rest periods, without full compensation. Plaintiff alleges that in order to clock out, they would
3 have to manually include compliant lunches in their timesheets when in reality, they did not take a
4 meal break during that time. This unlawful practice resulted in off-the-clock work without 5 compensation. compensation.

6 25. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees overtime wages at the 7 lawful rate of pay for overtime hours worked, resulting in unpaid overtime wages.

8 26. As stated above, Defendants regularly failed to compensate Plaintiff and the aggrieved
9 employees for time worked when they were off-the-clock. Defendants were aware that Plaintiff and 10 the aggrieved employees routinely clocked out after the eighth hour and then continued to work in 11 order to prepare for the next shift employees. When Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees worked 12 more than 8 hours per day or over 40 hours in one week, these practices resulted in unpaid overtime 13 wages.

14 27. Defendants failed to comply with California's paid sick leave laws with respect to the 15 aggrieved employees.

16 28. Specifically, Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees with 17 all sick leave accrued. To the extent that Defendants provided paid sick leave, they did not pay all sick
18 leave wages at the proper rate of pay because they failed to incorporate the hours that Plaintiff and the 19 aggrieved employees worked off-the-clock. Additionally, each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved
20 employees worked off-the-clock which resulted in unpaid overtime, the overtime hours were not 21 accounted for when calculating an employee's accrued paid sick leave. Therefore, Plaintiff and other 22 aggrieved employees were not awarded the total accrued sick leave time they had earned.

23 29. Defendants failed to provide compliant meal periods Plaintiff and the aggrieved
24 employees to which they were entitled in a manner that complies with California Law.

25 30. Specifically, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees routinely experienced missed,
26 late, short, and interrupted meal periods due to pressures to keep up with high demands of the job and 27 understaffing. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to work through their 28 meal periods when they had to work during banquets because demand was high. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees would be required to manually enter compliant breaks at the end of their shift as though they had taken a break when they had in fact continued working.

31. Additionally, when Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were made to work more than 12 hours, they did not receive a second meal period. As a matter of common policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees all meal period premiums owed.

32. Defendants failed to provide all rest periods to which employees were entitled and failed to pay all rest period premiums to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees

33. Due to the reasons explained above, such as the job's high demands, lack of proper staffing, and the profession's nature, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were rarely, if at all, authorized or permitted to take all their rest periods. Defendants required Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees to effectively waive or otherwise forego their rest periods contrary to the law. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were unable to take their first or second rest periods during a banquet or wedding due to high demands and understaffing. Plaintiff alleges that he was unable to take a rest period when he was the only attendant working the bar during a banquet or wedding ceremony.

34. Each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced non-compliant rest periods, they were owed a rest period premium. As a matter of policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay all owed rest period premiums to employees who were unable to take rest periods.

35. Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to incur costs for work-related purposes without full reimbursement. In direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees unavoidably and necessarily incurred these losses, expenditures, costs, and as a matter of policy and practice.

36. Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to utilize their personal cell phone to complete necessary work tasks, such as to communicate with co-workers and management regarding scheduling. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees received calls, and messages from managers about work hours and switching shifts with other employees. Plaintiff alleges that he was required to use his personal cell phone to take pictures of how he set up the bar because management would ask to see how he did it. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were not reimbursed for the

1 expenses associated with cell phone usage. Instead, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees bore the 2 cost of these requirements, without reimbursement.

3 37. Defendants failed to provide all records upon Plaintiff's request. Defendants have 4 failed to provide Plaintiff with time records showing when Plaintiff began and ended each work period
5 and time records showing meal periods, intervals, and daily hours worked in direct violation of Labor
6 Code section 1198.

7 38. Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to aggrieved employees during 8 their employment as set forth in this notice, and also failed to timely pay those amounts to departing
9 employees upon separation of employment. Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff with his final
10 paycheck at the date of termination on July 1st, 2024. Plaintiff was not provided with a final paycheck
11 until July 3rd, 2024. Defendants did not pay waiting time penalties for the late payments. As a result,
12 Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203.

13 39. Because of these violations, Defendants failed to provide accurate, itemized wage
14 statements to employees that included accurate gross or net wages earned as employees earned
15 overtime, sick leave, and premiums which were not paid at the lawful rate due to the off-the-clock
16 violations.

17 40. Likewise, in violation of Labor Code section 226(a)(9), Defendants failed to state on 18 employee wage statements each pay period the applicable hourly rates in effect and the number of 19 hours worked at that rate, as Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to employees.
20 The amounts stated are instead depreciated and underpaid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection on the 21 pay stub.

22 41. Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(2) by failing to accurately list 23 employees' "total hours worked," as the wage statements did not accurately include the 24 uncompensated time Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees worked due to Defendants policy and 25 practice of requiring off-the-clock work.

26 42. Because of the policies and practices set forth above, including the failure to accurately
27 account for wages earned or hours worked, Defendants failed to accurately maintain records in 28 accordance with Labor Code section 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders.

43. These violations create derivative liability for failure to pay all wages owed each payday or upon separation of employment.

47. The State of California, via the Labor and Workforce Development Agency (LWDA”), is the real party in interest in this action with respect to this cause of action. (Kim v. Reins Int’l California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 5th 73, 81 [The “government entity on whose behalf the plaintiff files suit is always the real party in interest.”])

48. Labor Code section 2699(a) provides: “Notwithstanding any other provision of law,, any provision of this code that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor and Workforce Development Agency or any of its departments, divisions, commissions, boards, agencies, or employees, for a violation of this code, may, as an alternative, be recovered through a civil action brought by an aggrieved employee on behalf of the employee and other current or former employees against whom a violation of the same provision was committed pursuant to the procedures specified in Section 2699.3. “

18 55. Now that at least 65 days have passed from Plaintiff notifying Defendants of these 19 violations, without notice of cure from Defendants or notice from the LWDA of its intent to investigate

Submitted electronically to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency

Dear LWDA Officer and Company Representatives:

This letter serves as written notice under Labor Code section 2699.3 on behalf of MARIO ESPEJEL (“Plaintiff(s)”) and all other “aggrieved employees” of the following “Defendant(s)”:

IRVINE MANAGEMENT COMPANY

Defendant(s) shall mean and include the foregoing in addition to any other related employer entities, individuals under Labor Code sections 558 and 558.1, and all others who may be later added upon further investigation and discovery as liable employers.

This office serves as legal counsel for Plaintiff. If the California Labor and Workforce Development Agency (“LWDA”) does not investigate the facts, allegations, and violations set forth in this notice within the statutorily prescribed 65-day period under Labor Code section 2699.3, Plaintiff intends to commence a civil action against Defendants as a proxy and agent of the State of California under the Private Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”). “PAGA allows an ‘aggrieved employee’—a person affected by at least one Labor Code violation committed by an employer—to pursue penalties for all the Labor Code violations committed by that employer.” Huff v. Securitas Security Services USA, Inc. (2018) 23 Cal. App. 5th 745, 751; Kim v. Reins International California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 73, 79. Plaintiff maintains standing to pursue these claims against Defendants as an aggrieved employee.

Through this notice, Plaintiff requests that Defendants complete an internal investigation and audit of the wage and hour and employment practices at issue and make a good faith effort to correct any violations. Plaintiff attempts to identify the non-compliant policies and practices affecting the aggrieved employees so that the parties may resolve the underlying damages and penalties in judgment or settlement approved by the Superior Court of California under Labor Code section 2699(s). Defendants are notified that any attempt to resolve this case should be conducted in coordination with Plaintiff's counsel to protect the interests of Plaintiff, the aggrieved employees, and the State of California via the LWDA. Plaintiff advises Defendants this letter should be also considered a reasonable attempt at settlement of this matter, subject to an exchange of additional documents and information. Graham v. Daimler Chrysler Corp. (2004) 24 Cal. 4th 553, 561.

- BACKGROUND -

Defendants employed Plaintiff during the PAGA Period in the position of Banquet Server from about December 18, 2017, to June 30, 2024. During their employment Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees were subject to the wage and hour and employment protections set forth in the California Labor Code and IWC Wage Orders.

Through this notice, Plaintiff informs the LWDA of the Labor Code violations set forth herein. The “aggrieved employees” include Plaintiff and the following individuals:

All current and former non-exempt employees who worked for Defendants in the State of California during one-year period preceding the date of this notice through the current date and the date of trial in any pending action (the “aggrieved employees” and the “PAGA Period”).

Plaintiff reserves the right to expand or narrow the definition of the “aggrieved employees” in the forthcoming civil action. Furthermore, Plaintiff seeks all recoverable civil penalties for Defendants’ violations and reserves the right to supplement this notice as further investigation is completed and further facts, witnesses, and violations are uncovered.

- PAGA CLAIMS -

Unpaid Hours Worked/Minimum Wage Violation of Labor Code §§ 1194, 1197, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 1194, 1197, and 1198, along with the California Minimum Wage Order, the applicable local minimum wage ordinances, and the “Hours and Days of Work” and “Minimum Wages” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 1194 renders it unlawful for an employee to receive less than the legal minimum wage for hours worked in California. Labor Code section 1197 further mandates that “[t]he minimum wage for employees fixed by the commission is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, and the payment of a lower wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful.” Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The California Minimum Wage Order and the applicable sections of the IWC Wage Orders further require payment of minimum wages for all hours worked. The “Minimum Wages” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Order provide that “[e]very employer shall pay to each employee, on the established payday for the period involved, not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period, whether the remuneration is measured by time, piece, commission, or otherwise.” The foregoing California wage laws require payment of “not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period” and California law does not allow averaging of pay over the hours worked in the pay period, even if the total pay results in an average above the minimum wage. Armenta v. Osmose, Inc. (2005) 135 Cal. App. 3d 314, 324.

Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at the lawful minimum wage rate for all hours worked, resulting in unpaid minimum wages. Defendants engaged in an unlawful policy and practice of requiring Plaintiff and aggrieved employees to complete work while off-the-clock, without compensation. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were made to clock out at the end of their shift but continue working due to high demands of the job and to avoid overtime. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees often worked after being clocked out for their shift because Defendants required employees to prepare the and reset the area for the next day, such as cleaning the worksite and organizing the supplies. Plaintiff alleges that Defendants agents’, such as supervisors, would punish employees for clocking out later than authorized, by verbal warnings or write-ups. Due to this unlawful practice, all hours worked were not directly compensated, resulting in the underpayment of wages to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Furthermore, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees routinely worked through their meal and rest periods, without full compensation. Plaintiff alleges that in order to clock out, they would have to manually include compliant lunches in their timesheets when in reality, they did not a take meal break during that time. This unlawful practice resulted in off-the-clock work without compensation.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Overtime
Violation of Labor Code §§ 510, 1194, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 510, 1194, and 1198, along with the “Hours and Days of Work” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 510 requires “[a]ny work in excess of eight hours in one workday and any work in excess of 40 hours in any one workweek and the first eight hours worked on the seventh day of work in any one workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for an employee;” and “any work in excess of 12 hours in one day shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay for an employee;” and “any work in excess of eight hours on any seventh day of a workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay of an employee.” Labor Code section 1194 renders it unlawful for an employee to receive less than the legal overtime rate for overtime hours worked in California. Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders further require payment of overtime wages for all overtime hours worked, including the “Hours and Days of Work” sections.

Defendant failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees overtime wages at the lawful rate of pay for overtime hours worked, resulting in unpaid overtime wages. As stated in the “Unpaid Hours Worked” section above, Defendant regularly failed to compensate Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees for time worked when they were off-the-clock. Defendants were aware that Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees routinely clocked out after the eighth hour then continued to work in order to prepare for the next shift employees. When Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees worked more than 8 hours per day or over 40 hours in one week, these practices resulted in unpaid overtime wages.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Paid Sick Leave
Violation of Labor Code §§ 246 through 248.7

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 246 through 248.7 with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 246 requires employers to provide paid sick leave to its workforce on the terms set forth in the statute. Employers must comply with the accrual, use, and notice provisions of Labor Code sections 246, 246.5, 247, and must further ensure that they maintain the paid sick leave records required by Labor Code section 247.5. Employers have the option of providing 24 hours of paid sick leave to employees or to allow employees to accrue paid sick leave each pay period. If an employer chooses the accrual method, employees must accrue sick leave at a rate of one hour for every thirty hours worked in a given pay period as set forth in Labor Code section 246(b)(1). Under the accrual method, employees must begin accruing paid sick leave at the commencement of employment.

Employers must pay sick leave in accordance with one of the three permissible methods provided in Labor Code section 246(l): (1) “the same manner as the regular rate of pay for the workweek;” (2) “by dividing the employee’s total wages, not including overtime premium pay, by the employee’s total hours worked in the full pay periods of the prior 90 days;” or (3) “for exempt employee ... in the same manner as the employer calculates wages for other forms of paid leave time.” Labor Code sections 248.6 and 248.7 similarly require paid sick leave to be paid at a regular rate-based calculation in excess of the base hourly rate and at the lawful accrual rate.

Under Labor Code section 246(i), employers must provide employees “with written notice of the amount of paid sick leave available ... for use on either the employee’s itemized wage statement ... or in a separate writing provided on the designated pay date with the employee’s payment of wages.”

Defendant failed to comply with California’s paid sick leave laws with respect to the aggrieved employees. Defendant failed to provide Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees with all sick leave accrued. To the extent that Defendants provided paid sick leave, they did not pay all sick leave wages at the proper rate of pay because they failed to incorporate the hours that Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees worked off-the-clock. Additionally, each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees worked off-the-clock that resulted in unpaid overtime, the overtime hours were not accounted for when calculating an employee’s accrued paid sick leave. Therefore, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were not awarded the total accrued sick leave time they had earned.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Meal Period Premium Wages Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226.7, 512, and 1198, along with the related sections of the IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 512 and the IWC Wage Orders require that employers provide an uninterrupted 30-minute meal period after no more than five hours of work and a second meal period after no more than 10 hours of work. See Brinker Restaurant Corp. v. Superior Court (2012) 53 Cal. 4th 1004, 1049. Labor Code section 226.7 requires that if a meal period is late, missed, short, or interrupted, the employer must pay one additional hour of pay at the employee's "regular rate" of compensation. Ferra v. Loews Hollywood Hotel, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 858, 862 ("We hold that the terms are synonymous: "regular rate of compensation" under section 226.7(c), like "regular rate of pay" under section 510(a), encompasses all nondiscretionary payments, not just hourly wages"). "[T]ime records showing noncompliant meal periods raise a rebuttable presumption of meal period violations, including at the summary judgment stage." Donohue v. AMN Services, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 58, 61. Labor Code section 1198 renders "employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]" unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders, including Section 11 (Meal Periods), further require one uninterrupted 30-minute meal period after no more than five hours of work and a second meal period after no more than 10 hours of work and an additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that a compliant meal period is not provided. Pursuant to Section 11(A) of the IWC Wage Orders, the California Supreme Court has held that the on-duty meal period exception is "exceedingly narrow" and applies only when (1) "the nature of the work prevents the employee from being relieved of all duty" and (2) both "the employer and employee have agreed, in writing, to the on-duty meal period." Augustus v. AMB Security Services, Inc. (2016) 2 Cal. 5th 257, 266-276 (emphasis added). If these two requirements are not met, then the employer owes the employee one hour of premium pay for each non-compliant meal period taken under the purported on-duty meal arrangement. Naranjo v. Spectrum Security Services, Inc. (2019) 40 Cal. 5th 444, 459.

Defendants failed to provide compliant meal periods to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to which they were entitled in a manner that complies with California Law. Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees routinely experienced missed, late, short, and interrupted meal periods due to pressures to keep up with high demands of the job and understaffing. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to work through their meal periods when they had to work during banquets because demand was high. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees would be required to manually enter compliant breaks in at the end of their shift as though they had taken a break when they had in fact continued working. Additionally, when Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were made to work more than 12 hours, they did not receive a second meal period. As a matter of common policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees all meal period premiums owed.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Rest Period Premium Wages Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the related sections of the IWC Wage Orders with respect to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code sections 226.7 and 516 and the IWC Wage Orders require that employers authorize and permit an uninterrupted 10-minute rest period for each four-hour period (or major fraction thereof) that an employee works. Labor Code section 226.7 requires that if a rest period is non-compliant, the employer must pay one additional hour of pay at the employee's "regular rate" of compensation. Ferra v. Loews Hollywood Hotel, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 858, 862 ("We hold that the terms are synonymous: "regular rate of compensation" under section 226.7(c), like "regular rate of pay" under section 510(a), encompasses all nondiscretionary payments, not just hourly wages"). Labor Code section 1198 renders "employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]" unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders, including Section 12 (Rest Periods), further require one uninterrupted 10-minute rest period for each four-hour period (or major fraction thereof) worked and an additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that a compliant rest period is not authorized or permitted.

Defendant failed to provide all rest periods to which employees were entitled and failed to pay all rest period premiums to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees. As stated above in the "Unpaid Meal Period Premium" section, due to the job's high demands, lack of proper staffing, and the profession's nature, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were rarely, if at all, authorized or permitted to take all their rest periods. Defendants required Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees to effectively waive or otherwise forego their rest periods contrary to the law. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were unable to take their first or second rest periods during a banquet or wedding due to high demands and understaffing. Plaintiff alleges that he was unable to take a rest period when he was the only attendant working the bar during a banquet or wedding ceremony.

Each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced non-compliant rest periods, they were owed a rest period premium. As a matter of policy and practice, Defendants failed to pay all owed rest period premiums to employees who were unable to take rest periods.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Untimely Payment of Wages During Employment Violation of Labor Code §§ 204, 204b, 210

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 204 and/or 204b and 210, as applicable, with respect to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 204(a) requires payment of "all wages" for non-exempt employees at least twice each calendar month. Labor Code section 204(d) states all wages due must be paid "not more than seven calendar days following the close of the payroll period." Labor Code section 204b applies to employees paid on a weekly basis and also requires the payment for all labor within the required pay periods. Labor Code section 210 provides “every person who fails to pay the wages of an employee as provided in Section ... 204 ... shall be subject to a civil penalty” of $100 for an initial violation and $200 plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld for a subsequent violation.

Because Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums in each pay period in which such wages were earned at the lawful rate, Defendants violated Labor Code section 204 and/or 204b (for weekly employees, as applicable). Defendants violated Labor Code sections 204 and 204b by failing to pay all wages and premiums owed on the regular pay days scheduled each pay period within seven calendar days of the close of the payroll period, as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Indeed, Defendant failed to pay all premiums, overtime, regular, sick leave, and other earnings on time each payday

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Untimely Payment of Wages Upon Separation of Employment Violation of Labor Code §§ 201, 202, 203, 256

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to pay all wages and premiums owed upon termination of employment.

Labor Code section 201 requires that if an employer fires an employee, the wages must be paid immediately. Labor Code section 202 requires that if an employee quits without providing 72 hours’ notice, his or her wages must be paid no later than 72 hours thereafter. Labor Code section 202 states that if an employee provides 72 hours’ notice, the final wages are payable upon his or her final day of employment. Labor Code section 203 requires an employer who fails to comply with Labor Code sections 201 or 202 to pay a waiting time penalty for each employee, up to a period of 30 days additional compensation.

Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to aggrieved employees during their employment as set forth in this notice, and also failed to timely pay those amounts to departing employees upon separation of employment. Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff with his final paycheck at the date of termination on July 1st, 2024. Plaintiff was not provided with a final paycheck until July 3rd, 2024. Defendants did not pay waiting time penalties for the late payments. As a result, Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203.

Defendants additionally failed to pay all accrued paid sick leave owed to aggrieved employees during their employment as set forth in this notice and failed to pay those amounts to departing employees upon separation of employment. Defendants did not pay waiting time penalties for the late payments.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Non-Compliant Wage Statements
Violation of Labor Code §§ 226, 226.3

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226(a) and 226.3 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to furnish itemized wage statements each pay period that accurately list all information required by Labor Code section 226(a)(1) through (9).

Labor Code section 226(a) requires an employer to furnish wage statements to employees semimonthly or at the time of each payment of wages, “an accurate itemized statement in writing showing:” (1) gross wages earned, (2) total hours worked, (3) the number of piece rate units earned and applicable piece-rate in effect, (4) all deductions, (5) net wages earned, (6) the inclusive dates of the pay period, (7) the name of the employee and last four digits of SSN or an EIN, (8) the name and address of the legal name of the employer, and (9) all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee.

Defendants failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements to the aggrieved employees each pay period as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(1) and (5) by not listing the correct “gross wages earned” or “net wages earned,” as the employees earned wages and premiums that were not paid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection, and recording of “gross wages earned” on those wage statements. Likewise, in violation of Labor Code section 226(a)(9), Defendants failed to state on employee wage statements each pay period the applicable hourly rates in effect and the number of hours worked at that rate, as Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to employees. The amounts stated are instead depreciated and underpaid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection on the pay stub.

Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(2) by failing to accurately list employees’ “total hours worked,” as the wage statements did not accurately include the uncompensated time plaintiff and other aggrieved employees worked due to Defendants’ policy and practice of requiring off-the-clock work.

Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees cannot promptly and easily determine from the wage statement alone the wages paid or earned without reference to other documents or information. Indeed, these wage statement violations are significant because they sow confusion among Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees with respect to what amounts were owed and paid, at what rates, the number of hours worked, and how those amounts were or should be calculated. The wage statements reflect a false statement of earnings and concealed the underlying problems and underpayments of employee wages.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unreimbursed Employee Expenses
Violation of Labor Code §§ 2802, 2804

Defendants violated Labor Code section 2802 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to reimburse the aggrieved employees for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred as part of their job duties.

Labor Code section 2802 requires an employer to “indemnify his or her employee for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer, even though unlawful, unless the employee, at the time of obeying the directions, believed them to be unlawful.” See, e.g., Espinoza v. West Coast Tomato Growers, LLC, 2016 WL 4468175 at *4, n.2 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 24, 2016, No. 14-CV-2984 W (KSC)).

Labor Code section 2804 affirms that “[a]ny contract or agreement, express or implied, made by any employee to waive the benefits of this article or any part thereof, is null and void, and this article shall not deprive any employee or his personal representative of any right or remedy to which he is entitled under the laws of this State.”

Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to incur costs for work-related purposes without full reimbursement. In direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees unavoidably and necessarily incurred these losses, expenditures, costs, and as a matter of policy and practice.

Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to utilize their personal cell phone to complete necessary work tasks, such as to communicate with co-workers and management regarding scheduling. Plaintiff and aggrieved employees received calls, and messages from managers about work hours and switching shifts with other employees. Plaintiff alleges that he was required to use his personal cell phone to take pictures of how he set up the bar because management would ask to see how he did it. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were not reimbursed for the expenses associated with cell phone usage. Instead, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees bore the cost of these requirements, without reimbursement.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Failure to Provide Employee Records
Violation of Labor Code §§ 226, 432, 1174, 1198.5; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226, 432, 1198.5, and 1174 with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 226(b) requires employers to “afford current and former employees the right to inspect or receive a copy of records pertaining to their employment, upon reasonable request to the employer.” Labor Code section 432 states that “[i]f an employee ... signs any instrument relating to the obtaining or holding of employment, he shall be given a copy of the instrument upon request.” Labor Code section 1198.5 grants “[e]very current and former employee, or his or her representative, ... the right to inspect and receive a copy of the personnel files that the employer maintains relating to the employee’s performance or to any grievance concerning the employee.” Section 7(A) (Records) of the IWC Wage Orders, which may be enforced through Labor Code section 1198, mandates that employers maintain and make available “time records showing when the employee begins and ends each work period” as well as time records showing “[m]eal periods, split shift intervals, and daily hours worked[.]” Labor Code section 1174(d) requires these and other records be maintained for at least three years.

Defendants failed to provide all records upon Plaintiff’s request. Defendants have failed to provide Plaintiff with time records showing when Plaintiff began and ended each work period and time records showing meal periods, intervals, and daily hours worked in direct violation of Labor Code section 1198.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Failure to Maintain Accurate Records
Violation of Labor Code § 1174; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders by failing to maintain accurate employee payroll records with respect to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 1174 requires that employers maintain accurate “payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments.” Section 7(A) of the IWC Wage Orders, which may be enforced through Labor Code section 1198, mandates similar recordkeeping obligations.

Because of the policies and practices set forth in this notice, including the failure to accurately account for wages earned or hours worked, Defendants failed to accurately maintain records in accordance with Labor Code section 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Attorneys' Fees and Costs
Labor Code § 2699(k)(1)

Plaintiff has been compelled to retain the services of counsel to protect the interests of other aggrieved employees and the State of California. Plaintiff continues to incur attorneys' fees and costs, which are recoverable under California law, including Labor Code section 2699(k)(1).
