SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO

LACIE FARQUAR, on behalf of others similarly situated and the State of California under the Private Attorneys General Act,

Plaintiffs,

vs.

SD HEALTH HOLDINGS, LLC and DOES 1
through 50, inclusive,

Defendants.

Case No. 25CU004913C

REPRESENTATIVE ACTION COMPLAINT

1. Civil Penalties under the Private Attorneys
General Act (Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq.)

1 Plaintiff LACIE FARQUAR, on behalf of all others similarly situated and the State of
2 California under the Private Attorneys General Act (“Plaintiff”) brings this REPRESENTATIVE
3 ACTION COMPLAINT against Defendants SD HEALTH HOLDINGS, LLC and DOES 1 through 4 50, inclusive (collectively “Defendants”), alleging as follows:

5 INTRODUCTION

6 1. This is a representative action brought under the California Labor Code §§ 2698 et seq.

7 2. Defendants require Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees to complete off-the-clock
8 work and had a policy and practice of editing employees’ time records to reflect fewer hours worked.

9 3. Defendants failed to provide, authorize, and/or permit Plaintiff and other aggrieved
10 employees to take all complaint meal and rest periods to which they were entitled. However,
11 Defendants did not pay Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees all premiums.

12 4. Defendants failed to properly reimburse Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees
13 for using their cell phones to complete work-related duties.

14 5. Defendants’ employment policies, practices, and payroll administration systems
15 enabled and facilitated these violations on a company-wide basis with respect to the aggrieved 16 employees.

17 6. Defendants are further liable for derivative claims for wage statements, untimely 18 payment, and other associated violations. Plaintiff seeks to recover the underpaid damages, plus 19 associated penalties, interests, attorney’s fees and costs.

20 JURISDICTION & VENUE

21 7. Jurisdiction of this action is proper in this Court under Article VI, Section 10 of the 22 California Constitution as the causes of action are premised upon violations of California law.

23 8. The monetary damages and restitution sought exceed the minimal jurisdiction limits of 24 the Superior Court.

25 9. This Court has jurisdiction over Defendants because, upon information and belief,
26 Defendants have sufficient minimum contacts in California, or otherwise intentionally avail
27 themselves to the California economy so as to render the exercise of jurisdiction over them by the 28 California courts consistent with traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.

10. Venue is proper in this Court under Code of Civil Procedure sections 393(a), 395, and/or 395.5 because, upon information and belief, Defendants conducted business and committed some of the alleged violations in this County.

PARTIES

A. Plaintiff Lacie Farquar

11. Plaintiff Farquar is an individual over 18 years of age who worked for Defendants in California as a non-exempt employee from about March 2024 to September 2024. Plaintiff worked as a Behavioral Health Technician.

12. The State of California, via the Labor and Workforce Development Agency (“LWDA”), is the real party in interest in this action. (Kim v. Reins Int’l California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 5th 73, 81 [The “government entity on whose behalf the plaintiff files suit is always the real party in interest.”]) To the extent permitted by law, including pursuant Balderas v. Fresh Start Harvesting, Inc., Court of Appeals Case No. B326759 (2nd App. Dist.) ____ Cal. App. 5th ____ (Mar. 20, 2024, as modified Apr. 18, 2024), the PAGA claim is brought exclusively as a representative action and does not include arbitrable claims.

B. Defendants

13. Defendant SD Health Holdings, is a Delaware limited liability company that maintains operations and conducts business throughout the State of California, including in this county. Defendant does business as Right Path Recovery.

14. The true names and capacities, whether individual, corporate, or otherwise, of the parties sued as DOES 1 through 50, are presently unknown, unascertainable, or uncertain, and are sued by such fictitious names under Code of Civil Procedure section 474. Upon information and belief, each of DOES 1 through 50 constitutes a legal employer or is otherwise legally responsible in some manner for the acts and omissions alleged herein. This Complaint may be amended to reflect their true names and capacities once ascertained.

15. Upon information and belief, Defendants in this action are employers, co-employers, joint employers, and/or part of an integrated employer enterprise, as each of the Defendants exercised control over the wages, hours, and working conditions of the employees, suffered and permitted them to work, and otherwise engaged them as employees under California law.

16. Upon information and belief, at least some of the Defendants have common ownership, common management, interrelationship of operations, and centralized control over labor relations and are therefore part of an integrated enterprise and thus jointly and severally responsible for the acts and omissions alleged herein, including pursuant to Labor Code sections 558, 558.1, and 1197.1.

17. Upon information and belief, Defendants acted in all respects pertinent to this action as an alter-ego, agent, servant, joint employer, joint venturer, co-conspirator, partner, in an integrated enterprise, or in some other capacity on behalf of all other co-defendants, such that the acts and omissions of each defendant may be legally attributable to all others.

GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

18. Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees worked for Defendants as non-exempt employees and were compensated on an hourly basis.

19. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at the lawful minimum wage rate for all hours worked, resulting in unpaid minimum wages.

20. Specifically, Defendants had a policy and practice of editing employees' time records to reflect fewer hours worked (i.e., timeshaving) or to make it appear as if a compliant meal period was taken.

21. First, Defendants engaged in a pattern of editing employee's time records that resulted in an underpayment of regular wages to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

22. For example, Defendants often required Plaintiff to arrive at 6:00 a.m. for her 8:00 a.m. shift to complete additional work. However, Defendants would shave two hours from Plaintiff's timecards to show that Plaintiff had begun work at her scheduled start time, 8:00 a.m.

23. Due to this unlawful timeshaving practice, Defendants failed to compensate Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees for all hours worked, resulting in the minimum wage violations.

24. Second, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were required complete off-the-clock work.

25. Specifically, Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to clock out

1 for a compliant 30-minute meal period, but keep working. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved
2 employees regularly clocked out for their meal period then drove clients to appointments or continued
3 to process orders.

4 26. To the extent Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees failed to report a compliant meal
5 period, Defendants would edit their records to make it appear as if a compliant one was taken.

6 27. Each time these unlawful policies and practices resulted in unpaid hours worked, this 7 resulted in unpaid minimum wages.

8 28. Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees overtime wages and the 9 lawful rate of pay for overtime hours worked, resulting in unpaid overtime wages.

10 29. To the extent that Defendants policy and practice of requiring off-the-clock work and 11 timeshaving practices resulted in unpaid hours worked over 8 hours in a day or 40 hours in a week,
12 this resulted in unpaid overtime.

13 30. Defendants violated Labor Code section 246(l) because sick leave was not paid at the 14 lawful statutory rate of pay throughout the relevant period.

15 31. Due to Defendants' unlawful policies and practices of time editing, shaving and 16 requiring off-the-clock work, Defendants failed to account for all hours worked when calculating an 17 employee's accrued paid sick leave.

18 32. Plaintiff and aggrieved employees routinely experienced missed, late, short, and 19 interrupted first and second meal periods to keep up with the high demands of the job and high-volume 20 workload.

21 33. First, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were often required to work through their 22 meal periods. Defendants also actively avoided paying all owed meal period premiums by instructing
23 them to clock out in order to make it appear as if a complete 30-minute or otherwise compliant meal
24 period had been taken.

25 34. Second, to the extent Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were able to take a meal
26 period, these were often interrupted. For example, supervisors would often find Plaintiff while on her 27 meal period and insist she got back to work.

1 35. To the extent Defendants maintained a meal period waiver, this was not applicable
2 when Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees worked more than six hours in a day.

3 36. Each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced a noncompliant meal
4 period, they were owed a meal period premium. However, as a matter of policy and practice,
5 Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees a meal period premium in violation
6 of Labor Code section 226.7.

7 37. Similarly, Defendants had a policy and practice of regularly denying these employees
8 from taking compliant, uninterrupted rest periods.

9 38. As stated in the above sections, due to the high demands of the job and the pressure to 10 keep up with the heavy workload Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were very rarely, if at all,
11 authorized or permitted to take all their rest periods. Further, Defendants had a policy and practice of 12 not paying rest period premiums to employees who were unable to take rest periods.

13 39. Defendants failed to accurately state the “gross wages earned” and “net wages earned”
14 in violation of Labor Code § 226(a)(1) and (5), as Plaintiff and aggrieved employees were not paid for 15 regular and overtime wages, meal and rest period premiums, resulting in an inaccurate and depreciated
16 itemization of gross and net wages earned on those wage statements.

17 40. Second, Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(2) by failing to list employees’
18 “total hours worked,” as aggrieved employees worked off-the-clock to perform the various work-
19 related tasks described above, rendering the total hours listed as an inaccurate reflection of hours 20 worked.

21 41. Third, in violation of Labor Code section 226(a)(9), Defendants failed to state on 22 employee wage statements each pay period the applicable hourly rates in effect and the number of 23 hours worked at that rate, as Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to employees.
24 The amounts stated are instead depreciated and underpaid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection on the 25 pay stub.

26 42. Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to incur costs for work-
27 related purposes without full reimbursement. In direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and 28

1 the aggrieved employees unavoidably and necessarily incurred these losses, expenditures, costs, and
2 as a matter of policy and practice.

3 43. First, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to use their personal cell
4 phones to communicate with clients' families and doctors. The use of their personal devices was 5 necessary to complete the required job duties because Defendants did not provide employees with 6 work cell phones.

7 44. Second, Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to cover gas
8 expenses for company vehicles used to drive clients to and from their appointments. Defendants did
9 not reimburse Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees for expenses incurred from the cost of gas that 10 was necessary for the job.

11 45. These violations create derivative liability for failure to pay all wages owed each
12 payday or upon separation of employment.

13
14 FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

15 CIVIL PENALTIES UNDER THE PRIVATE ATTORNEYS GENERAL ACT

16 Violation of Labor Code §§ 2698 *et seq.

17 (By Plaintiff on Behalf of the State and the Aggrieved Employees Against All Defendants)

18 46. All outside paragraphs of this Complaint are incorporated into this section.

19 47. Plaintiff brings this cause of action as a proxy for the State of California on behalf of 20 the following "aggrieved employees" pursuant to the Private Attorneys General Act ("PAGA"), 21 codified as Labor Code section 2698 et seq.:

- 22 a. All current and former non-exempt employees who worked for Defendants in 23 California at any time from one year prior to the postmark date of the initial 24 PAGA notice through date of trial.

25 48. Plaintiff reserves the right to amend, supplement, or add to this description of the 26 aggrieved employees, according to proof.

27 49. The State of California, via the Labor and Workforce Development Agency
28 ("LWDA"), is the real party in interest in this action with respect to this cause of action. (Kim v. Reins

1 Int'l California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 5th 73, 81 [The “government entity on whose behalf the plaintiff
2 files suit is always the real party in interest.”])

3 50. Labor Code section 2699(a) provides: “Notwithstanding any other provision of law,,
4 any provision of this code that provides for a civil penalty to be assessed and collected by the Labor
5 and Workforce Development Agency or any of its departments, divisions, commissions, boards,
6 agencies, or employees, for a violation of this code, may, as an alternative, be recovered through a civil 7 action brought by an aggrieved employee on behalf of the employee and other current or former 8 employees against whom a violation of the same provision was committed pursuant to the procedures
9 specified in Section 2699.3. “

10 51. Any allegations regarding violations of the IWC Wage Orders are enforceable as 11 violations of Labor Code section 1198, which states: “[t]he employment of any employee for longer 12 hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.”

13 52. Labor Code section 2699.3 sets forth the procedure for commencing an action for civil 14 penalties under the PAGA.

15 53. On or about November 15, 2024, Plaintiff paid the requisite PAGA filing fee and 16 provided written notice (by online electronic filing with the LWDA and by certified mail to 17 Defendants) of Defendants’ alleged Labor Code violations, including the facts and theories to support
18 the alleged violations.

19 54. A true and correct copy of Plaintiff’s written PAGA notice, entitled “Notice of Labor
20 Code Violations” is attached hereto as Exhibit 1 and incorporated by reference as though fully set 21 forth herein (the “PAGA notice”).

22 55. To date, neither Plaintiff nor Plaintiff’s counsel has received a response to Plaintiff’s
23 written PAGA notice from the LWDA.

24 56. Within 33 calendar days of the postmark date of the notice sent by Plaintiff, neither
25 Plaintiff nor Plaintiff’s counsel has received written notice by certified mail from any defendant
26 providing a description of any actions taken to cure the alleged violations.

27 57. Now that at least 65 days have passed from Plaintiff notifying Defendants of these 28 violations, without notice of cure from Defendants or notice from the LWDA of its intent to investigate the alleged allegations and issue the appropriate citations to Defendants, Plaintiff exhausted all prerequisites and commenced this civil action under Labor Code section 2699 et seq.

58. As set forth in the PAGA notice attached as Exhibit 1 and incorporated into this Complaint, Defendants committed the following violations and are liable for all corresponding civil penalties:

- a. Unpaid Hours Worked/Minimum Wage. Violation of Labor Code §§ 1194, 1197, 1198; IWC Wage Orders.
- b. Unpaid Overtime. Violation of Labor Code §§ 510, 1194, 1198; IWC Wage Orders.
- c. Unpaid Paid Sick Leave. Violation of Labor Code §§ 246 through 248.7.
- d. Unpaid Meal Period Premium Wages. Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512, 1198; IWC Wage Orders.
- e. Unpaid Rest Period Premium Wages. Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, 1198; IWC Wage Orders.
- f. Untimely Payment of Wages During Employment. Violation of Labor Code §§ 204, 204b, 210.
- g. Untimely Payment of Wages Upon Separation of Employment. Violation of Labor Code §§ 201, 202, 203, 256.
- h. Non-Compliant Wage Statements. Violation of Labor Code §§ 226, 226.3.
- i. Unreimbursed Employee Expenses. Violation of Labor Code §§ 2802, 2804.
- j. Failure to Maintain Accurate Records. Violation of Labor Code § 1174; IWC Wage Orders.

59. Plaintiff seeks to collect all recoverable civil penalties for the Labor Code violations alleged in this Complaint and the PAGA notice (including amendments thereto) against Defendants pursuant to Labor Code section 2699(a) and (f), in addition to attorneys' fees, costs, and interest to the extent permitted by law, including under Labor Code section 2699(k).

PRAYER

Plaintiff prays for judgment as follows:

- a. For recovery of damages in amount according to proof;
- b. For all recoverable pre- and post-judgment interest;

San Diego, CA 92122

- PAGA Notice & Filing Fee -
Submitted electronically to the Labor and Workforce Development Agency

Dear LWDA Officer and Company Representatives:

This letter serves as written notice under Labor Code section 2699.3 on behalf of LACIE FARQUAR (“Plaintiff(s)”) and all other “aggrieved employees” of the following “Defendant(s)”:

SD HEALTH HOLDINGS, LLC
dba RIGHT PATH RECOVERY

Defendant(s) shall mean and include the foregoing in addition to any other related employer entities, individuals under Labor Code sections 558 and 558.1, and all others who may be later added upon further investigation and discovery as liable employers.

This office serves as legal counsel for Plaintiff. If the California Labor and Workforce Development Agency (“LWDA”) does not investigate the facts, allegations, and violations set forth in this notice within the statutorily prescribed 65-day period under Labor Code section 2699.3, Plaintiff intends to commence a civil action against Defendants as a proxy and agent of the State of California under the Private Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”). “PAGA allows an ‘aggrieved employee’—a person affected by at least one Labor Code violation committed by an employer—to pursue penalties for all the Labor Code violations committed by that employer.” Huff v. Securitas Security Services USA, Inc. (2018) 23 Cal. App. 5th 745, 751; Kim v. Reins International California, Inc. (2020) 9 Cal. 73, 79. Plaintiff maintains standing to pursue these claims against Defendants as an aggrieved employee.

Through this notice, Plaintiff requests that Defendants complete an internal investigation and audit of the wage and hour and employment practices at issue and make a good faith effort to correct any violations. Plaintiff attempts to identify the non-compliant policies and practices affecting the aggrieved employees so that the parties may resolve the underlying damages and penalties in judgment or settlement approved by the Superior Court of California under Labor Code section 2699(s). Defendants are notified that any attempt to resolve this case should be conducted in coordination with Plaintiff's counsel to protect the interests of Plaintiff, the aggrieved employees, and the State of California via the LWDA. Plaintiff advises Defendants this letter should be also considered a reasonable attempt at settlement of this matter, subject to an exchange of additional documents and information. Graham v. Daimler Chrysler Corp. (2004) 24 Cal. 4th 553, 561.

- BACKGROUND -

Defendants employed Plaintiff during the PAGA Period in the position of Behavioral Health Technician from about March 2024 to September 2024. During their employment Plaintiff and the other aggrieved employees were subject to the wage and hour and employment protections set forth in the California Labor Code and IWC Wage Orders.

Through this notice, Plaintiff informs the LWDA of the Labor Code violations set forth herein. The “aggrieved employees” include Plaintiff and the following individuals:

All current and former non-exempt employees who worked for Defendants in the State of California during one-year period preceding the date of this notice through the current date and the date of trial in any pending action (the “aggrieved employees” and the “PAGA Period”).

Plaintiff reserves the right to expand or narrow the definition of the “aggrieved employees” in the forthcoming civil action. Furthermore, Plaintiff seeks all recoverable civil penalties for Defendants' violations and reserves the right to supplement this notice as further investigation is completed and further facts, witnesses, and violations are uncovered.

- PAGA CLAIMS -

Unpaid Hours Worked/Minimum Wage Violation of Labor Code §§ 1194, 1197, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 1194, 1197, and 1198, along with the California Minimum Wage Order, the applicable local minimum wage ordinances, and the “Hours and Days of Work” and “Minimum Wages” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 1194 renders it unlawful for an employee to receive less than the legal minimum wage for hours worked in California. Labor Code section 1197 further mandates that “[t]he minimum wage for employees fixed by the commission is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, and the payment of a lower wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful.” Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The California Minimum Wage Order and the applicable sections of the IWC Wage Orders further require payment of minimum wages for all hours worked. The “Minimum Wages” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Order provide that “[e]very employer shall pay to each employee, on the established payday for the period involved, not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period, whether the remuneration is measured by time, piece, commission, or otherwise.” The foregoing California wage laws require payment of “not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period” and California law does not allow averaging of pay over the hours worked in the pay period, even if the total pay results in an average above the minimum wage. Armenta v. Osmose, Inc. (2005) 135 Cal. App. 3d 314, 324.

Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees at the lawful minimum wage rate for all hours worked, resulting in unpaid minimum wages. Specifically, Defendants had a policy and practice of editing employees’ time records to reflect fewer hours worked (i.e., timeshaving) or to make it appear as if a compliant meal period was taken.

First, Defendants engaged in a pattern of editing employee’s time records that resulted in an underpayment of regular wages to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees. For example, Defendants often required Plaintiff to arrive at 6:00 a.m. for her 8:00 a.m. shift to complete additional work. However, Defendants would shave two hours from Plaintiff’s time cards to show that Plaintiff had begun work at her scheduled start time, 8:00 a.m. Due to this unlawful timeshaving practice, Defendants failed to compensate Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees for all hours worked , resulting in the minimum wage violations.

Second, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were required complete off-the-clock work. Specifically, Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to clock out for a compliant 30-minute meal period, but keep working. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees regularly clocked out for their meal period then drove clients to appointments or continued to process orders. To the extent Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees failed to report a compliant meal period, Defendants would edit their records to make it appear as if a compliant one was taken.

Each time these unlawful policies and practices resulted in unpaid hours worked, this resulted in unpaid minimum wages.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Overtime
Violation of Labor Code §§ 510, 1194, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 510, 1194, and 1198, along with the “Hours and Days of Work” sections of the applicable IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 510 requires “[a]ny work in excess of eight hours in one workday and any work in excess of 40 hours in any one workweek and the first eight hours worked on the seventh day of work in any one workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for an employee;” and “any work in excess of 12 hours in one day shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay for an employee;” and “any work in excess of eight hours on any seventh day of a workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay of an employee.” Labor Code section 1194 renders it unlawful for an employee to receive less than the legal overtime rate for overtime hours worked in California. Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders further require payment of overtime wages for all overtime hours worked, including the “Hours and Days of Work” sections.

Defendants failed to pay Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees overtime wages and the lawful rate of pay for overtime hours worked, resulting in unpaid overtime wages.

As stated in the “Unpaid Hours Worked” section above, Defendants engaged in an unlawful policy and practice of time editing, shaving and requiring off-the-clock work. To the extent that these unlawful practices resulted in unpaid hours worked over 8 hours in a day or 40 hours in a week, this resulted in unpaid overtime.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Paid Sick Leave
Violation of Labor Code §§ 246 through 248.7

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 246 through 248.7 with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 246 requires employers to provide paid sick leave to its workforce on the terms set forth in the statute. Employers must comply with the accrual, use, and notice provisions of Labor Code sections 246, 246.5, 247, and must further ensure that they maintain the paid sick leave records required by Labor Code section 247.5. Employers have the option of providing 24 hours of paid sick leave to employees or to allow employees to accrue paid sick leave each pay period. If an employer chooses the accrual method, employees must accrue sick leave at a rate of one hour for every thirty hours worked in a given pay period as set forth in Labor Code section 246(b)(1). Under the accrual method, employees must begin accruing paid sick leave at the commencement of employment.

Employers must pay sick leave in accordance with one of the three permissible methods provided in Labor Code section 246(l): (1) “the same manner as the regular rate of pay for the workweek;” (2) “by dividing the employee’s total wages, not including overtime premium pay, by the employee’s total hours worked in the full pay periods of the prior 90 days;” or (3) “for exempt employee ... in the same manner as the employer calculates wages for other forms of paid leave time.” Labor Code sections 248.6 and 248.7 similarly require paid sick leave to be paid at a regular rate-based calculation in excess of the base hourly rate and at the lawful accrual rate.

Under Labor Code section 246(i), employers must provide employees “with written notice of the amount of paid sick leave available ... for use on either the employee’s itemized wage statement ... or in a separate writing provided on the designated pay date with the employee’s payment of wages.”

Defendants failed to comply with California’s paid sick leave laws with respect to the aggrieved employees. Upon information and belief, Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff and aggrieved employees with all sick leave accrued. Due to Defendants’ unlawful policies and practices of time editing, shaving and requiring off-the-clock work, Defendants failed to account for all hours worked when calculating an employee’s accrued paid sick leave.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Meal Period Premium Wages Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226.7, 512, and 1198, along with the related sections of the IWC Wage Orders with respect to the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 512 and the IWC Wage Orders require that employers provide an uninterrupted 30-minute meal period after no more than five hours of work and a second meal period after no more than 10 hours of work. See Brinker Restaurant Corp. v. Superior Court (2012) 53 Cal. 4th 1004, 1049. Labor Code section 226.7 requires that if a meal period is late, missed, short, or interrupted, the employer must pay one additional hour of pay at the employee’s “regular rate” of compensation. Ferra v. Loews Hollywood Hotel, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 858, 862 (“We hold that the terms are synonymous: “regular rate of compensation” under section 226.7(c), like “regular rate of pay” under section 510(a), encompasses all nondiscretionary payments, not just hourly wages”). “[T]ime records showing noncompliant meal periods raise a rebuttable presumption of meal period violations, including at the summary judgment stage.” Donohue v. AMN Services, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 58, 61. Labor Code section 1198 renders “employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]” unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders, including Section 11 (Meal Periods), further require one uninterrupted 30-minute meal period after no more than five hours of work and a second meal period after no more than 10 hours of work and an additional hour of pay at the employee’s regular rate of compensation for each workday that a compliant meal period is not provided. Pursuant to Section 11(A) of the IWC Wage Orders, the California Supreme Court has held that the on-duty meal period exception is “exceedingly narrow” and applies only when (1) “the nature of the work prevents the employee from being relieved of all duty” and (2) both “the employer and employee have agreed, in writing, to the on-duty meal period.” Augustus v. AMB Security Services, Inc. (2016) 2 Cal. 5th 257, 266-276 (emphasis added). If these two requirements are not met, then the employer owes the employee one hour of premium pay for each non-compliant meal period taken under the purported on-duty meal arrangement. Naranjo v. Spectrum Security Services, Inc. (2019) 40 Cal. 5th 444, 459.

Defendants failed to provide all meal periods to which employees were entitled and failed to pay meal period premiums to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees at the lawful regular rate of compensation for each premium owed. Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees often experienced missed, short, and late meal periods to keep up with Defendants’ expectations of the job. As mentioned in the “Unpaid Hours Worked” section above, due to Defendants’ policy of requiring Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to clock out for a compliant 30-minute meal period, but keep working, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees often experienced noncompliant meal periods. For example, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees regularly clocked out for their meal period then drove clients to appointments or continued to process orders. On several occasions, Defendants altered Plaintiff’s time sheets to reflect that Plaintiff did take a compliant meal period.

Additionally, to the extent Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were able to take a meal period, these were often interrupted. For example, supervisors would often find Plaintiff and insist she got back to work.

To the extent Defendants maintained a meal period waiver, this was not applicable when Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees worked more than six hours in a day.

Each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced a noncompliant meal period, they were owed a meal period premium. As a matter of policy and practice, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were not provided meal period premiums in lieu of missed meal periods as required by Labor Code section 226.7.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unpaid Rest Period Premium Wages
Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 516, 1198; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226.7, 516, and 1198, and the related sections of the IWC Wage Orders with respect to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code sections 226.7 and 516 and the IWC Wage Orders require that employers authorize and permit an uninterrupted 10-minute rest period for each four-hour period (or major fraction thereof) that an employee works. Labor Code section 226.7 requires that if a rest period is non-compliant, the employer must pay one additional hour of pay at the employee's "regular rate" of compensation. Ferra v. Loews Hollywood Hotel, LLC (2021) 11 Cal. 5th 858, 862 ("We hold that the terms are synonymous: "regular rate of compensation" under section 226.7(c), like "regular rate of pay" under section 510(a), encompasses all nondiscretionary payments, not just hourly wages"). Labor Code section 1198 renders "employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the [IWC Wage Orders]" unlawful. The IWC Wage Orders, including Section 12 (Rest Periods), further require one uninterrupted 10-minute rest period for each four-hour period (or major fraction thereof) worked and an additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that a compliant rest period is not authorized or permitted.

Defendants consistently prevented Plaintiff and aggrieved employees from taking their full, 10-minute, uninterrupted rest periods and failed to pay rest period premiums to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees. As stated in the above sections, due to Defendants' policy of requiring Plaintiff and aggrieved employees to drive clients to and from appointments or continue to process orders without breaks, Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees were not permitted to take rest periods.

Additionally, to the extent that Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were able to take rest periods, these were often interrupted. For example, supervisors would often tell Plaintiff to get back to work while she was taking a rest break.

Each time Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees experienced a noncompliant rest period, they were owed a rest period premium at the lawful rate. However, as a matter of policy and practice, Defendant failed to pay Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees a rest period premium at the lawful rate of pay.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Untimely Payment of Wages During Employment
Violation of Labor Code §§ 204, 204b, 210

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 204 and/or 204b and 210, as applicable, with respect to Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 204(a) requires payment of “all wages” for non-exempt employees at least twice each calendar month. Labor Code section 204(d) states all wages due must be paid “not more than seven calendar days following the close of the payroll period.” Labor Code section 204b applies to employees paid on a weekly basis and also requires the payment for all labor within the required pay periods. Labor Code section 210 provides “every person who fails to pay the wages of an employee as provided in Section ... 204 ... shall be subject to a civil penalty” of $100 for an initial violation and $200 plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld for a subsequent violation.

Because Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums in each pay period in which such wages were earned at the lawful rate, Defendants violated Labor Code section 204 and/or 204b (for weekly employees, as applicable). Defendants violated Labor Code sections 204 and 204b by failing to pay all wages and premiums owed on the regular pay days scheduled each pay period within seven calendar days of the close of the payroll period, as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Indeed, Defendants failed to pay all premiums, overtime, regular, sick leave, and other earnings on time each payday.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Untimely Payment of Wages Upon Separation of Employment
Violation of Labor Code §§ 201, 202, 203, 256

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to pay all wages and premiums owed upon termination of employment.

Labor Code section 201 requires that if an employer fires an employee, the wages must be paid immediately. Labor Code section 202 requires that if an employee quits without providing 72 hours’ notice, his or her wages must be paid no later than 72 hours thereafter. Labor Code section 202 states that if an employee provides 72 hours’ notice, the final wages are payable upon his or her final day of employment. Labor Code section 203 requires an employer who fails to comply with Labor Code sections 201 or 202 to pay a waiting time penalty for each employee, up to a period of 30 days additional compensation.

Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to aggrieved employees during their employment as set forth in this notice, and also failed to timely pay those amounts to departing employees upon separation of employment. Defendants did not pay waiting time penalties for the late payments. As a result, Defendants violated Labor Code sections 201, 202, and 203.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Non-Compliant Wage Statements Violation of Labor Code §§ 226, 226.3

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 226(a) and 226.3 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to furnish itemized wage statements each pay period that accurately list all information required by Labor Code section 226(a)(1) through (9).

Labor Code section 226(a) requires an employer to furnish wage statements to employees semimonthly or at the time of each payment of wages, “an accurate itemized statement in writing showing:” (1) gross wages earned, (2) total hours worked, (3) the number of piece rate units earned and applicable piece-rate in effect, (4) all deductions, (5) net wages earned, (6) the inclusive dates of the pay period, (7) the name of the employee and last four digits of SSN or an EIN, (8) the name and address of the legal name of the employer, and (9) all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee.

Defendants failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements to the aggrieved employees each pay period as a result of the policies and practices set forth in this notice. Defendants violated Labor Code section 226(a)(1) and (5) by not listing the correct “gross wages earned” or “net wages earned,” as the employees earned wages and premiums that were not paid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection, and recording of “gross wages earned” on those wage statements. Likewise, in violation of Labor Code section 226(a)(9), Defendants failed to state on employee wage statements each pay period the applicable hourly rates in effect and the number of hours worked at that rate, as Defendants failed to pay all wages and premiums owed to employees. The amounts stated are instead depreciated and underpaid, resulting in an inaccurate reflection on the pay stub.

Furthermore, Defendant violated Labor Code section 226(a)(2) by failing to list employees’ “total hours worked,” as a result of their time shaving/editing practices, rendering the total hours listed as an inaccurate reflection of hours worked.

Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees cannot promptly and easily determine from the wage statement alone the wages paid or earned without reference to other documents or information. Indeed, these wage statement violations are significant because they sow confusion among Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees with respect to what amounts were owed and paid, at what rates, the number of hours worked, and how those amounts were or should be calculated. The wage statements reflect a false statement of earnings and concealed the underlying problems and underpayments of employee wages.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Unreimbursed Employee Expenses Violation of Labor Code §§ 2802, 2804

Defendants violated Labor Code section 2802 with respect to the aggrieved employees by failing to reimburse the aggrieved employees for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred as part of their job duties.

Labor Code section 2802 requires an employer to “indemnify his or her employee for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer, even though unlawful, unless the employee, at the time of obeying the directions, believed them to be unlawful.” See, e.g., Espinoza v. West Coast Tomato Growers, LLC, 2016 WL 4468175 at *4, n.2 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 24, 2016, No. 14-CV-2984 W (KSC)).

Labor Code section 2804 affirms that “[a]ny contract or agreement, express or implied, made by any employee to waive the benefits of this article or any part thereof, is null and void, and this article shall not deprive any employee or his personal representative of any right or remedy to which he is entitled under the laws of this State.”

Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to incur costs for work-related purposes without full reimbursement. In direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees unavoidably and necessarily incurred these losses, expenditures, costs, and as a matter of policy and practice.

First, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to use their personal cell phones to communicate with clients’ families and doctors. The use of their personal devices was necessary to complete the required job duties because Defendants did not provide employees with work cell phones. Thus, in direct consequence of their job duties, Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees were required to supply and use their personal cell phones for work-related purposes. Defendants did not reimburse Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees for expenses incurred from obtaining and using their own cell phone that was necessary for the job.

Second, Defendants required Plaintiff and the aggrieved employees to cover gas expenses for company vehicles used to drive clients to and from their appointments. Defendants did not reimburse Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees for expenses incurred from the cost of gas that was necessary for the job.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Failure to Maintain Accurate Records
Violation of Labor Code § 1174; IWC Wage Orders

Defendants violated Labor Code sections 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders by failing to maintain accurate employee payroll records with respect to Plaintiff and other aggrieved employees.

Labor Code section 1174 requires that employers maintain accurate “payroll records showing the hours worked daily by and the wages paid to, and the number of piece-rate units earned by and any applicable piece rate paid to, employees employed at the respective plants or establishments.” Section 7(A) of the IWC Wage Orders, which may be enforced through Labor Code section 1198, mandates similar recordkeeping obligations.

Because of the policies and practices set forth in this notice, including the failure to accurately account for wages earned or hours worked, Defendants failed to accurately maintain records in accordance with Labor Code section 1174 and the IWC Wage Orders.

As a result, Plaintiff may recover civil penalties as an individual and on behalf of the State of California and the aggrieved employees, up to the maximum amount allowed as set forth under the Labor Code.

Attorneys’ Fees and Costs
Labor Code § 2699(k)(1)

Plaintiff has been compelled to retain the services of counsel to protect the interests of other aggrieved employees and the State of California. Plaintiff continues to incur attorneys’ fees and costs, which are recoverable under California law, including Labor Code section 2699(k)(1).
