SETAREH LAW GROUP

Wage-and-Hour and Consumer Class Actions and Complex Litigation

Shaun Setareh
Principal
shaun@setarehlaw.com

November 12, 2026

BY ELECTRONIC SUBMISSION

PAGA Administrator
California Labor and Workforce Development Agency
1515 Clay Street, Suite 801
Oakland, California 94612

BY CERTIFIED MAIL

Hardwoods Specialty Products US LP
c/o Legal Department
1 Pillsbury Street
Concord, New Hampshire 03301

BY CERTIFIED MAIL

Hardwoods Specialty Products US LP
c/o CT Corporation System
330 N. Brand Blvd. Suite 700
Glendale, CA 91203

Re: Isaac Mejia v. Hardwoods Specialty Products US LP

To Whom It May Concern:

Pursuant to the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 (Lab. Code §§ 2698, et seq.), ISAAC MEJIA ("MEJIA") hereby provides notice on behalf of himself and on behalf of all other current and former non-exempt employees in California (the "aggrieved employees") who were employed by Hardwoods Specialty Products US LP directly or indirectly whether through any staffing agencies and/or any other third parties (collectively referred to as "Defendants") who worked in hourly, non-exempt positions for alleged violations of Labor Code sections 201, 202, 203, 204, 223, 226, 226.7, 510, 512, 1194, 1197, 1197.1, 1198, 1199 and 2802.

MEJIA is an individual who was employed by Defendants in an hourly, non-exempt position as a Warehouse Worker at Defendants' distribution facility located in Stockton, California from approximately August 2025 through September 24, 2026. At all relevant times, Defendants employed persons, conducted business in, and engaged in illegal labor and payroll practices and policies in California.

MEJIA and aggrieved employees are "employees" within the meaning of Section 2 of the applicable Industrial Welfare Commission Wage Order (the "Wage Order") and "aggrieved employees" within the meaning of Labor Code section 2699(c). At all relevant times, MEJIA and aggrieved employees have been non-exempt employees entitled to the full protections of both the Labor Code and the Wage Order. MEJIA's representation of "aggrieved employees" is brought with the information and belief that the labor code violations discussed in this notice are systematic, ongoing, repeated, and will continue.

As set forth below, Defendants failed to comply with the Labor Code sections as described herein below. Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for Defendants' alleged violations of the Labor Code.

FAILURE TO PROVIDE MEAL PERIODS
(Lab. Code §§ 204, 223, 226.7, 512 and 1198)

Labor Code section 204 provides that all wages (except as provided under Labor Code sections 201, 201.3, 202, 204.1 and 204.2) earned by any person in any employment become due and payable twice during each calendar month, on days designated in advance by the employer as the regular paydays, except that wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period.

Labor Code section 223 states:

> Where any statute or contract requires an employer to maintain the designated wage scale, it shall be unlawful to secretly pay a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by statute or by contract.

Section 2 of the Wage Order states:

> "Hours worked" means the time during which an employee is subject to the control of an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so.

Labor Code section 1198 states:

> The maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the maximum hours of work and that standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.

Labor Code section 512 states:

> An employer may not employ an employee for a work period of more than five hours per day without providing the employee with a meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except that if the total work period per day of the employee is no more than six hours, the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of both the employer and employee. An employer may not employ an employee for a work > period of more than 10 hours per day without providing the employee with a second meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except that if the total hours worked is no more than 12 hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived.

Section 11 of the Wage Order states:

> (A) No employer shall employ any person for a work period of more than five (5) hours without a meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except that when a work period of not more than six (6) hours will complete the day's work the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee. Unless the employee is relived of all duty during a 30 minute meal period, the meal period shall be considered an "on duty" meal period and counted as time worked. An "on duty" meal period shall be permitted only when the nature of the work prevents an employee from being relieved of all duty and when by written agreement between the parties an on-the-job paid meal period is agreed to. The written agreement shall state that the employee may, in writing, revoke the agreement at any time.
>
> (B) If an employer fails to provide an employee a meal period in accordance with the applicable provisions of this order, the employer shall pay the employee one (1) hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal period is not provided.

In addition, Labor Code section 226.7 states:

> (b) An employer shall not require an employee to work during a meal or rest or recovery period mandated pursuant to an applicable statute, or applicable regulation, standard, or order of the Industrial Welfare Commission, the Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board, or the Division of Occupational Safety and Health.
>
> (c) If an employer fails to provide an employee a meal or rest or recovery period in accordance with a state law, including, but not limited to, an applicable statute or applicable regulation, standard, or order of the Industrial Welfare Commission, the Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board, or the Division of Occupational Safety and Health, the employer shall pay the employee one additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal or rest or recovery period is not provided.

At all relevant times, MEJIA worked in Defendants' Stockton warehouse, where his duties included building customer orders, moving inventory, and operating forklifts. Defendants required that customer orders be built and ready before delivery trucks arrived, and the workload did not allow MEJIA to stop working for a timely, uninterrupted thirty-minute meal period. As a result, approximately two to three times per week, MEJIA missed his meal period entirely so that he could finish building orders before the trucks arrived. On other occasions, MEJIA was not provided with his first meal period until after the end of his fifth hour of work.

In addition, MEJIA regularly worked shifts of approximately eleven to thirteen hours but was provided with only one meal period. Defendants did not provide MEJIA with a second meal period of at least thirty minutes on these shifts and did not pay him a meal period premium for the missed second meal period. Defendants did not have MEJIA sign a purported waiver of his second meal period until approximately January 2026, and a second meal period cannot lawfully be waived on shifts in which the total hours worked exceed twelve hours.

In addition, at time when MEJIA and the aggrieved employees were not timely provided with a meal period, Defendants failed to pay them legally required premium wages. These failures result, in part, from policies and practices that lack adequate safeguards to ensure that employees are relieved of all duty for meal periods and are paid additional wages when meal periods are not provided.

Although Defendants paid MEJIA a meal period premium on some occasions, Defendants did not pay him a meal period premium for every workday on which a timely, uninterrupted thirty-minute meal period was not provided, including the workdays on which his meal period was missed entirely because of his workload.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for these Labor Code violations that Defendants have committed against him and aggrieved employees as follows:

(1) For all initial violation of Labor Code section 204, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 210);

(2) For all subsequent violation of Labor Code section 204, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 210);

(3) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 223, that are deemed to be neither willful nor intentional, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(4) For all initial violation of Labor Code section 223 that are deemed to be either willful or intentional, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(5) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 223, regardless of whether the initial violation of Labor Code section 223 is deemed to be either willful or intentional, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(6) For all initial violations of Labor Code sections 226.7 and 1198, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(7) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code sections 226.7 and 1198, $200 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(8) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 512, $50 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 558(a)(1));

(9) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 512, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 558(a)(2)).

FAILURE TO PROVIDE REST PERIODS
(Lab. Code §§ 204, 223, 226.7 and 1198)

Labor Code section 204 provides that all wages (except as provided for under Labor Code sections 201 and 202) earned by any person in any employment become due and payable twice during each calendar month, on days designated in advance by the employer as the regular paydays, except that wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period.
Labor Code section 223 states:

> Where any statute or contract requires an employer to maintain the designated wage scale, it shall be unlawful to secretly pay a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by statute or by contract.

Section 2 of the applicable Wage Order states:

> "'Hours worked' means the time during which an employee is subject to the control of the employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so.

Labor Code section 1198 states:

> The maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor fixed by the > commission shall be the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.

Section 12 of the applicable Wage Order states:

> (A) Every employer shall authorize and permit all employees to take rest periods, which insofar as practicable shall be in the middle of each work period. The authorized rest period time shall be based on the total hours worked daily at the rate of ten (10) minutes net rest time per four (4) hours or major fraction thereof. However, a rest period need not be authorized for employees whose total daily work time is less than three and one-half (3 ½) hours. Authorized rest period time shall be counted as hours worked for which there shall be no deduction from wages.
>
> (B) If an employer fails to provide an employee a rest period in accordance with the applicable provision of this order, the employer shall pay the employee one (1) hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the rest period is not provided."

In addition, Labor Code section 226.7 states:

> (b) An employer shall not require an employee to work during a meal or rest or recovery period mandated pursuant to an applicable statute, or applicable regulation, standard, or order of the Industrial Welfare Commission, the Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board, or the Division of Occupational Safety and Health.
>
> (c) If an employer fails to provide an employee a meal or rest or recovery period in accordance with a state law, including, but not limited to, an applicable statute or applicable regulation, standard, or order of the Industrial Welfare Commission, the Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board, or the Division of Occupational Safety and Health, the employer shall pay the employee one additional hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal or rest or recovery period is not provided.

Approximately two times per week, MEJIA was unable to take one or more of his ten-minute rest periods because he had to keep working in order to finish his assigned work, including building customer orders, on time. MEJIA was never paid a rest period premium for any missed rest period.

Accordingly, MEJIA and the aggrieved employees were not provided with legally mandated rest periods of at least ten minutes for every four hours worked or major fraction thereof.

As a result of these policies and practices, Defendants failed to provide MEJIA and the aggrieved employees with net rest periods of at least ten minutes for each four hour work period, or major fraction thereof, and have failed to pay them premium wages at their regular rates of pay on workdays they failed to provide them with required rest periods. Defendants' policies and practices lack adequate safeguards to ensure that employees are relieved of their duties for all required rest periods and are paid additional wages when rest periods are not provided.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for these Labor Code violations that Defendants have committed against him and aggrieved employees as follows:

(1) For all initial violation of Labor Code section 204, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 210);

(2) For all subsequent violation of Labor Code section 204, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 210);

(3) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 223, that are deemed to be neither willful nor intentional, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(4) For all initial violation of Labor Code section 223 that are deemed to be either willful or intentional, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(5) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 223, regardless of whether he initial violation of Labor Code section 223 is deemed to be either willful or intentional, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(6) For all initial violations of Labor Code sections 226.7 and 1198, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(7) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code sections 226.7 and 1198, $200 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2)).

FAILURE TO PAY HOURLY AND OVERTIME WAGES
(Lab. Code §§ 204, 223, 510, 1194, 1197 and 1198)

Labor Code section 204 provides that all wages (except as provided for under Labor Code sections 201 and 202) earned by any person in any employment become due and payable twice during each calendar month, on days designated in advance by the employer as the regular paydays, except that wages earned for labor in excess of the normal work period shall be paid no later than the payday for the next regular payroll period.

Labor Code section 223 states:

> Where any statute or contract requires an employer to maintain the designated wage scale, it shall be unlawful to secretly pay a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by statute or by contract.

Section 2 of the applicable Wage Order states:

> "Hours worked" means the time during which an employee is subject to the control of the employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do so.

Section 4 of the applicable Wage Order states:

> (A) Every employer shall pay to each employee wages not less than the following:
>
> (1) Any employer who employs 26 or more employees shall pay to each employee wages not less than the following:
>
> (a) Twelve dollars ($12.00) per hour for all hours worked, effective January 1, 2019; and
>
> (b) Thirteen dollars ($13.00) per hour for all hours worked, effective January 1, 2020;
>
> (2) Any employer who employs 25 or fewer employees shall pay to each employee wages not less than the following:
>
> (a) Eleven dollars ($11.00) per hour for all hours worked, effective January 1, 2019.
>
> (b) Twelve dollars ($12.00) per hour for all hours worked, effective January 1, 2020.
>
> (B) Every employer shall pay to each employee, on the established payday for the period involved, not less than the applicable minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period, whether the remuneration is measured by time, place, commission, or otherwise.

Labor Code section 1194 states, in relevant part:

> (a) Notwithstanding any agreement to work for a lesser wage, any employee receiving less than the legal minimum wage or the legal overtime compensation applicable to the employee is entitled to recover in a civil action the unpaid balance of the full amount of this minimum wage or overtime compensation, including interest thereon, reasonable attorney's fees, and costs of suit.

Labor Code section 1197 states, in relevant part:

> The minimum wage for employees fixed by the commission or by any applicable state or local law, is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, and the payment of a lower wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful. This section does not change the applicability of local minimum wage laws to any entity.

Labor Code section 1198 states, in relevant part:

> The maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful.

Section 3 of the applicable Wage Order states, in relevant part:

> (A) Daily Overtime – General Provisions
>
> (1) The following overtime provisions are applicable to employees 18 years of age or over and to employees 16 or 17 years of age who are not required by law to attend school and are not otherwise prohibited by law from engaging in the subject work. Such employees shall not be employed more than eight (8) hours in any workday or more than 40 hours in any workweek unless the employee receives one and one-half (1 ½) times such employee's regular rate of pay for all hours worked over 40 in the workweek. Eight (8) hours of labor constitutes a day's work. Employment beyond eight (8) hours in any workday or more than six (6) days in any workweek is permissible provided the employee is compensated for such overtime at not less than:
>
> (a) One and one-half (1 ½) times the employee's regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess o eight (8) hours up to and including 12 hours in any workday, and for the first eight (8) hours worked on the seventh (7^{th}) consecutive day of work in a workweek; and

(b) Double the employee's regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess of 12 hours in any workday and for all hours worked in excess of eight (8) hours on the seventh (7^{th}) consecutive day of work in a workweek.

(c) The overtime rate of compensation required to be paid to a nonexempt full-time salaried employee shall be computed by using the employee's regular hourly salary as one-fortieth (1/40) of the employee's weekly salary."

In conjunction, these provisions of the Labor Code require employers to pay non-exempt employees no less than their agreed-upon or statutorily mandated wage rates for all hours worked, including hours spent working "off-the-clock" (before punching in or after punching out on a time clock) when the employer knows or reasonably should know that employees are working during those hours. Morillion v. Royal Packing Co., 22 Cal. 4th 575, 585 (2000).

Regular Rate of Pay

The regular rate of pay under California law includes "all remuneration for employment paid to, on behalf of, the employee." DLSE Opinion Letter 2002.06.14 (quoting 29 U.S.C. § 207(e)). This requirement includes, but is not limited to, commissions and non-discretionary bonuses. See, e.g., Huntington Memorial Hospital v. Superior Court, 131 Cal. App. 4th 893, 904 (2005).

At all relevant times, Defendants violated the above-referenced Labor Code sections by failing to pay MEJIA and the aggrieved employees for all hours worked, including, but not limited to, overtime hours and premiums paid for meal and/or rest break violations. While employed by Defendants, MEJIA and the aggrieved employees received hourly wages and other remuneration, including, but not limited to, commissions and non-discretionary bonuses and/or other applicable remuneration that must be included when calculated their regular rates of pay. However, Defendants consistently failed to include all applicable forms of remuneration when calculating their regular rates of pay. As a result, any overtime wages and/or premiums paid for meal and/or rest break violations paid to MEJIA and the aggrieved employees were not paid at the regular rate of pay.

Off-the-Clock Work

During the applicable limitations period, MEJIA and the aggrieved employees had to work off-the-clock and were not paid for all hours worked. Defendants did not provide a physical time clock at their Stockton facility. Instead, Defendants required MEJIA and the aggrieved employees to clock in and out through the Paycom application on their personal cellphones, and the application would only permit employees to clock in when they were located within a designated "zone." The Paycom application frequently malfunctioned and failed to register MEJIA's location even when he was within the designated zone. As a result, it often took MEJIA approximately five to ten minutes to clock in, during which time he was on Defendants' premises and subject to Defendants' control, and Defendants did not pay him for this time.

In addition, on at least three occasions, after MEJIA had clocked out at the end of his shift, Operations Manager [redacted] directed him to unload a delivery truck. When MEJIA told [redacted] that he had already clocked out, [redacted] responded that he did not care and that the work needed to get done. On each such occasion, MEJIA spent approximately thirty to forty minutes working off-the-clock, and Defendants did not pay him for this time.

Further, approximately two to three times per week, Defendants' managers, including [redacted] and [redacted] called MEJIA on his personal cellphone while he was off-the-clock and directed him to prepare work orders. Each call lasted approximately ten minutes, and Defendants did not pay MEJIA for this time.

Defendants knew or should have known that MEJIA and the aggrieved employees performed this work and failed to pay them for it. To the extent this off-the-clock work caused MEJIA and the aggrieved employees to work more than eight hours in a workday or forty hours in a workweek, Defendants also failed to pay them overtime wages.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for these Labor Code violations that Defendants have committed against him and aggrieved employees as follows:

(1) For all initial violation of Labor Code section 204, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 210);

(2) For all subsequent violation of Labor Code section 204, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 210);

(3) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 223, that are deemed to be neither willful nor intentional, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(4) For all initial violation of Labor Code section 223 that are deemed to be either willful or intentional, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(5) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 223, regardless of whether he initial violation of Labor Code section 223 is deemed to be either willful or intentional, $200 for each aggrieved employee, plus 25% of the amount unlawfully withheld from each aggrieved employee, per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 225.5);

(6) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 510, $50 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 558(a)(1));

(7) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 510, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 558(a)(2));

(8) For all initial violations of Labor Code sections 1194 and 1198, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(9) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code sections 1194 and 1198, $200 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(10) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 1197 deemed to be intentional, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 1197.1(a)(1));

(11) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 1197, regardless of whether the initial violation is deemed to be intentional, $250 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 1197.1(a)(2)).

FAILURE TO REIMBURSE FOR EXPENSES
(Lab. Code § 2802)

Labor Code section 2802(a) states:

(a) An employer shall indemnify his or her employee for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer, even though unlawful, unless the employee, at the time of obeying the directions, believed them to be unlawful.

At all relevant times during the applicable limitations period, Defendants required MEJIA and the aggrieved employees to incur expenses which Defendants failed and/or refused to reimburse them for including, but not limited to, personal cellphone use and required protective footwear.

Defendants did not provide MEJIA or the aggrieved employees with a physical time clock and instead required them to clock in and out using the Paycom application on their personal cellphones. MEJIA was also required to use his personal cellphone on a daily basis to call clients and Defendants' sales employees, and to receive work-related calls from his managers, including the off-the-clock calls described above. Defendants did not reimburse MEJIA for any of this use of his personal cellphone. In addition, MEJIA was required to wear steel-toe boots while working in Defendants' warehouse. MEJIA purchased the steel-toe boots himself at a cost of approximately $100, and Defendants did not reimburse him for this expense.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for these Labor Code violations that Defendants committed against him and aggrieved employees as follows:

(1) For all initial violations of Labor Code section 2802, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(2) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code section 2802, $200 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2)).

FAILURE TO PROVIDE ACCURATE WRITTEN WAGE STATEMENTS
(Lab. Code § 226)

Labor Code section 226(a) states, in pertinent part:

> (a) An employer, semimonthly or at the time of each payment of wages, shall furnish to his or her employee either as a detachable part of the check, draft, or voucher paying the employee's wages, or separately if wages are paid by personal check or cash, an accurate itemized statement in writing showing (1) gross wages earned, (2) total hours worked by the employee, except as provided in subdivision (j), (3) the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis, (4) all deductions, provided that all deductions made on written orders of the employee may be aggregated and shown as one item, (5) net wages earned, (6) the inclusive dates of the period for which the employee is paid, (7) the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number, (8) the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer and, if the employer is a farm labor contractor, as defined in subdivision (b) of Section 1682, the name and address of the legal entity that secured the services of the employer, and (9) all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee and, beginning July 1, 2013, if the employer is a temporary services employer as defined in Section 201.3, the rate of pay and the total hours worked for each temporary services assignment. The deductions made from payment of wages shall be recorded in ink or other indelible form, properly dated, showing the month, day, and year, and a copy of the statement and the record of the deductions shall be kept on file by the employer for at least three years at the place of employment > or at a central location within the State of California. For purposes of this subdivision, "copy" includes a duplicate of the itemized statement provided to an employee or a computer-generated record that accurately shows all of the information required by this subdivision.

At all relevant times during the applicable limitations period, Defendants failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements that shows:

(1) gross wages earned;

(2) total hours worked by the employee, except for any employee whose compensation is solely based on a salary and who is exempt from payment of overtime under subdivision (a) of Section 515 or any applicable order of the Industrial Welfare Commission;

(3) the number of piece-rate units earned and any applicable piece rate if the employee is paid on a piece-rate basis;

(4) all deductions, provided that all deductions made on written orders of the employee may be aggregated and shown as one item;

(5) net wages earned;

(6) the inclusive dates of the period for which the employee is paid;

(7) the name of the employee and only the last four digits of his or her social security number or an employee identification number other than a social security number;

(8) the name and address of the legal entity that is the employer and, if the employer is a farm labor contractor, as defined in subdivision (b) of Section 1682, the name and address of the legal entity that secured the services of the employer;

(9) all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee and, beginning July 1, 2013, if the employer is a temporary services employer as defined in Section 201.3, the rate of pay and the total hours worked for each temporary services assignment.

By failing to accurately record all hours worked, including "off-the-clock" work described above, by failing to pay employees meal and rest period premiums in accordance with California law, by failing to include all remuneration in the regular rate of pay used to calculate overtime wages and meal period premiums, and by failing to reimburse employees for all necessary business expenses, Defendants have failed to provide MEJIA and the aggrieved employees with written wage statements that comply with the requirements of Labor Code section 226(a). The wage statements of MEJIA and the aggrieved employees have not accurately reflected their applicable rates of pay, hours worked, and the amounts of their gross and net wages.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for Defendants' violations of the Labor Code as follows:

(1) For all violations of Labor Code section 226(a) if a civil action filed in accordance with the procedures set forth in Labor Code section 2699.3 results in an initial citation or its equivalent, $250 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 226.3);

(2) For all violations of Labor Code section 226(a) if a civil action filed in accordance with the procedures set forth in Labor Code section 2699.3 results in a subsequent citation or its equivalent, $1000 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 226.3).

LATE OR PARTIAL PAYMENT OF FINALWAGES FOLLOWING SEPARATION
(Lab. Code §§ 201, 202 and 203)

Labor Code section 201 requires an employer to pay all earned and unpaid wages to a discharged employee immediately at the time of discharge.

Labor Code section 202 requires an employer to pay all earned and unpaid wages to an employee who quits after giving at least seventy-two hours' notice at the time of quitting.

Labor Code section 202 requires an employer to pay all earned and unpaid wages to an employee who quits after giving less than seventy-two hours noticed within seventy-two hours of giving notice of quitting.

Labor Code section 203 provides that an employee's wages shall continue as a penalty from when they first became due at the same rate until paid for up to thirty days when an employer willfully fails to timely pay all earned and unpaid wages in accordance with Labor Code sections 201 or 202.

MEJIA resigned on or about September 24, 2026. Defendants did not pay MEJIA his final wages at the time he quit or within seventy-two hours thereafter. Instead, Defendants issued MEJIA's final wages on a prepaid card approximately four to five days after he resigned. In addition, MEJIA's final wages did not include all of his earned and unpaid wages, including, but not limited to, his unpaid off-the-clock wages and unpaid meal and rest period premiums.

By failing to timely furnish MEJIA and the aggrieved employees with any final paycheck and/or with final paychecks that include all earned and unpaid wages, including, but not limited to, all earned and unpaid hourly, overtime, premium wages, Defendants have violated Labor Code sections 201 and/or 202.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks civil penalties for Defendants' violations of the Labor Code as follows:

(1) For all initial violations of Labor Code sections 201, 202 and 203, $100 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2));

(2) For all subsequent violations of Labor Code sections 201, 202 and 203, $200 for each aggrieved employee per pay period for each violation (penalties set by Labor Code section 2699(f)(2)).

VIOLATIONS OF LABOR CODE SECTION 256

MEJIA is an individual who was employed by Defendants in a non-exempt, hourly position within the past year. At all relevant times, Defendants employed persons, conducted business in, and engaged in illegal labor and payroll practices and policies in California.

Pursuant to Labor Code section 256, the Labor Commissioner shall impose a civil penalty in an amount not exceeding thirty days' pay as waiting time under the terms of Section 203. Defendants willfully failed to timely furnish MEJIA and aggrieved employees with any final paycheck timely and/or with final paychecks that include all earned and unpaid wages, including, but not limited to, all earned and unpaid hourly, overtime, and/or premium wages.

Accordingly, MEJIA now seeks to recover the wages and penalties provided in Labor Code section 256 on behalf of himself and the aggrieved employees.

VIOLATIONS OF LABOR CODE SECTION 1199

Labor Code section 1199 states:

> Every employer or other person acting either individually or as an officer, agent, or employee of another person is guilty of a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) or by imprisonment for not less than 30 days, or by both, who does any of the following:
>
> (a) Requires or causes any employee to work for longer hours than those fixed, or under conditions of labor prohibited by an order of the commission.
>
> (b) Pays or causes to be paid to any employee a wage less than the minimum fixed by an order of the commission.
>
> (c) Violates or refuses or neglects to comply with any provision of this chapter or any order or ruling of the commission.

By failing to timely furnish MEJIA and aggrieved employees with unpaid wages, including, but not limited to, all earned and unpaid hourly, overtime, premium wages at the regular rate of pay, Defendants criminal conduct has violated Labor Code section 1199.

Accordingly, for all violations of Labor Code section 1199, Defendants are liable for a misdemeanor and are punishable by a fine of $100 or by imprisonment for not less than thirty days or by both.

CONCLUSION

As noted above, this letter constitutes the required notice under the Private Attorneys General Act of 2004 (Lab. Code §§ 2698 et seq.). Insofar as this letter is directed to Defendants, please be advised that MEJIA will seek both reasonable attorneys' fees and costs under Labor Code section 2699(g)(1) in a civil action should the Labor and Workforce Development Agency decline to pursue this matter.

Very truly yours,

SETAREH LAW GROUP

Shaun Setareh, Esq.